MRS. JONAS GREETING 65 AT PARTY HERE, TELLS PLEASURE AT NEW FRIENDSHIPS

Displaying at once the dignity and out-going friendliness which are natural components of her Southern heritage, Mrs. Charles R. Jonas Tuesday chatted informally with each of the near 65 guests who came by to meet her at a reception in the Holly Inn ballroom.

Towards the end of the party, the wife of the Eighth District Congressman expressed her appreciation for the hospitality that the women in this area have shown her and her husband and said she was happy with the many new friends she has accumulated over the state.

Mrs. Jonas, a native of Clinton, left their beautiful old home in Lincolnton to accompany her husband on a tour through Moore County, where he made stops at different communities this week.

Hostesses at the party here on Tuesday were Mrs. John L. McKenzie, Mrs. Peter Tufts, Mrs. William C. Sledge, Mrs. D. D. Gadd and Mrs. Mary P. Ferris of Pinehurst, and Mrs. George H. Leonard, Jr. and Mrs. Charles Phillips of Southern Pines.

Mrs. Jonas was honored Wednesday at a morning coffee at the Carthage Hotel and at an afternoon reception in Robbins at the home of Dr. Brady.

TO REPORTERS VISITING MANEUVER

'Special Warfare' Techniques Shown

Newsmen from several North Carolina counties spent a day in the Uwharrie National Forest last week witnessing guerrilla and counterinsurgency training conducted by the U.S. Army Special Warfare School at Fort Bragg, in connection with the Cherokee Trail III maneuver that was recently completed.

The visiting journalists, representing newspapers, radio and television stations, arrived at Camp Mackall in the morning to be briefed on the different aspects of special warfare before taking to the woods for actual training demonstrations.

The Uwharrie National Forest covers a wide area in Montgomery, Richmond, Moore and other counties. The northwest part of Moore County was included in the maneuver area.

Col. George C. Morton, assistant commandant of the Special Warfare School and deputy director for Cherokee Trail III, gave the reporters an overall picture of the guerrilla-counterinsurgency exercise. Lt. Col. Robert A. Matthews, assistant chief controller in the field, gave more detailed information to the group.

Before boarding an Army helicopter for the flight to the training area, the newsmen were further briefed on the psychological aspects of special warfare. Lt. Col. Louis A. Waple, director of psychological operations at the Special Warfare School, conducted the talk.

After lunch at the training exercise headquarters at Camp Mackall, the reporters visited elements of the 1st Brigade, 82nd Airborne Division, which play the part of the conventional army during Cherokee Trail III. The highlight of the day's activities came when the group was invited to accompany a Pineland army convoy carrying ammunition and supplies. Along the route, the convoy was ambushed by a guerrilla band and the reporters saw at first hand the kind of combat action now taking place in Vietnam.

Guerrillas attacking from a wooded area along the road took the convoy completely by surprise, swarming over it in a matter of minutes. But an alert radio operator of the 82nd Airborne Division's convoy managed to call for help and a helicopter-borne reaction force quickly arrived to discharge reinforcements on the scene. These troops, assisted by an air strike from two T-28 Trojan attack planes of the Special Air Warfare Center, sent the guerrillas headlong into retreat.

Training during Cherokee Trail III was based on lessons learned in Vietnam. Air commandos from the Special Air Warfare Center, Hurlburt Field, Fla., support the Cherokee Trail exercises with aircraft and weather teams. The Cherokee Trail exercises are conducted for the officer students, both U.S. military and foreign allied officers, at the Special Warfare School.

Prospective Brides Are Honored At Tea

Mrs. Robert M. McMillan and Mrs. Claude E. Reams were co-hostesses at a tea Wednesday from 4-5 p.m. at the former's home, Heather Gates, on Ridgeview Road.

The party was given to honor Miss Angelyn Stokes and Miss Gail Miller. Miss Stokes will be married August 22 to John McMillan and Miss Miller will become the bride of George Reams in the fall.

In the receiving line with the hostesses and the honorees was Mrs. Broughton Stokes of Greensboro, Angelyn's mother.

The house was decorated charmingly throughout with arrangements of mixed summer flowers. Served along with the punch were petit fours, mints, nuts and party sandwiches.

Mrs. Sanford Sees Samarand Manor On Sandhills Visit

Mrs. Terry Sanford, the State's First Lady, paid a second visit in the Sandhills besides the one to Camp Easter in the Pines last Sunday.

Following her appearance as guest of honor at the opening exercises of the camp for handicapped children, Mrs. Sanford drove out to Samarand, on the western outskirts of the county, to inspect Samarand Manor, the State's Industrial School for Girls which is situated there.

This was the First Lady's initial visit to this rehabilitation school, the only such project for girls in North Carolina and, although the time was short she made a general tour of the grounds and several of the buildings, including the chapel. Highlights of the visit was the warm reception accorded Mrs. Sanford in the school auditorium, with the entire student body of 300 girls present.

On the platform with the First Lady was Blaine Madison, commissioner of training and correctional institutions under whose charge the school operates, who made the principal address, also Mayor N. L. Hodgkins, Jr., and Voit Gilmore, Democratic candidate for the state senate, who had accompanied Mrs. Sanford on the visit. Present in the audience were Mrs. Madison, Miss Betsy Sanford and Miss Gerry Gilmore, also the Democratic candidate for the state house of representatives, Clyde Auman, and Mrs. Auman, of West End, and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Burney of Southern Pines. Mr. Burney is a member of the Moore County Board of Public Welfare. Mr. Auman is on the State Board of Correction and Training and Mr. Burney is a former member of this board. Mrs. Caroline Blue of Eagle Springs, president of the Young Democrats of Moore County, was also with the group.

Following brief remarks by Mrs. Sanford and the other guests and a gracious welcome by Miss Reva Mitchell, superintendent of the school, refreshments were served in the newly-opened dining-hall and recreation building, after which the guests took their departure, with the guest of honor "the proud possessor" as she said, of a gift from the school: two hand-woven, embroidered linen towels the work, from start to finish, of the Samarand students.

Ritchie Posts Perfect Record, On Dean's List

James L. Ritchie, IV, of Southern Pines, is one of 42 students at Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., named to the Dean's List for the second semester of the 1963-64 session, according to Registrar Roslyn Martin.

Ritchie qualified for the PC Dean's List with an average of 4.00—a perfect, all "A" mark—one of only six students to post such an average. A rising sophomore at Presbyterian, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ritchie, III of Bristow Court.

Rotary News

The Rotary Club of Southern Pines meets each Friday at 12:15 p.m., for lunch and program, at the Southern Pines Country Club. Visiting Rotarians are invited.

The speaker for this week's meeting will be a member of the staff of the U. S. Army Special Forces, Fort Bragg, whose topic will be "The Role of the Special Forces With Our Allies." Operations of these forces in South Vietnam will be the main theme.

PRO PEGGY KIRK BELL BREAKS SUMMER GOLF CIRCUIT WITH VISIT TO FATHER

Mrs. Peggy Kirk Bell, co-owner and manager with her husband, Warren, of the Pine Needles Lodges and Country Club, left Tuesday for Findlay, Ohio, for two weeks' vacation with her father, Robert Kirk. Her three children, Bonnie, Peggy Ann and Kirk, accompanied their mother, and Warren expects to join his family there later.

In addition to her duties as hostess, homemaker and mother, (the Bells own a home on Grove Road where they live with their family), Peggy Kirk is a teaching and touring golf professional, who earned the LPGA's "Teacher of the Year" award in 1961.

The fortnight in the mid-west marks a break in the summer golf circuit for her—she has just returned from competing in three tournaments—in Baltimore, Worcester and New York.

Fair—With Mishaps
Warren joined his wife and the three children in New York, where they spent three days at the World's Fair.

Carolyn Niles, who accompanied them to be with the children, hobbled through the exhibits on crutches, because of a sprained ankle, and on the hottest day of the year there, the Bells were among the record 200,000 who attended.

The heat proved too much for young Kirk, who fainted while watching the "Wonder World" show. Fortunately, the nurse on attendance at the first aid station there was Miss Judy Owens, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Francis L. Owens of Pinehurst, so she soon had the youngster feeling much better and quite at home.

Despite these mishaps, Peggy Bell was very enthusiastic about the Fair and plans to return in August to see more of the exhibits.

AT TARBORO JULY 24

Little League All-Stars In Playoffs

By JIMMY BALDWIN

The Southern Pines Little League All Stars will play the Robersonville - Tarboro winner Friday, July 24, at Tarboro.

The team will probably leave Southern Pines on Thursday morning July 23, in order to attend the Robersonville - Tarboro games and work out on the Tarboro field later that day. The team will play Friday afternoon and Saturday, if they win Friday. The local team lost to Greenville 6-4 last year but defeated

Warsaw in a consolation game.

The winner of these area playoffs will advance to district play the following week at an undetermined location.

The All Star team is managed by Joel Stutts with Jack Barron as assistant manager. The team roster is: Scott Newton, Lynn Clippard, Cris Davis, Clyde Man-gum, Joe Parker, Larry Solomon, Fred Hollister, Robin Smith, Phillip Wicker, Alan Smith, Jerry Simpson, Tommie Thompson, Brad Rush and Bobby Chatfield.

Southern National Bank To Share In Deposits Of Town

A plan to allow the Southern National Bank to share with the Citizens Bank and Trust Company in the care of the Town funds was approved by the Town Council at their meeting Tuesday with Mayor Norris L. Hodgkins, Jr., executive vice president of the Citizens Bank, abstaining from the vote—though expressing himself as favoring the move—the council accepted the request of Southern National to be considered in this capacity and instructed Town Manager F. F. Rainey to allot to the new bank the handling of the court expense account.

This is an account, said Mr. Rainey, kept separate from all others and for that reason this move will not present any book-keeping difficulties.

In expressing his agreement with the plan, Mayor Hodgkins spoke of the long service the Citizens Bank had rendered and expressed gratitude for the loyalty shown to the older institution which has handled town funds since 1905.

$150,000 Asked In Suit Arising From Collision

Suit for $150,000 has been filed in Moore superior court by William Arlie Maness, administrator of the estate of Tillet Leo Maness, against Tracy Lendon Reynolds and Wiley Robert Reynolds.

Judgment is asked in the alleged wrongful death of Tillet Leo Maness, 26, in an auto-truck accident of April 27 on a rural paved road, one and one-half miles north of Robbins.

Plaintiff states that a truck driven by Wiley Robert Reynolds, who is in the poultry and hauling business with Tracy Lendon Reynolds on Robbins, Route 1, crashed head-on into the car driven by Maness when the truck tried to pass another car and a slow-moving motor grader.

Because of the highway work being done on the shoulders, with the motor grader working in the right-hand lane going north, and oncoming traffic obscured because of a curve, caution signs had been erected to the south, the complaint affirms. Conditions were wet and rainy, it states.

The truck, with a load of approximately 38,000 pounds on its trailer, hit the southbound car with such force it knocked the auto 86 feet backwards, and then went 113 feet itself before the defendant could bring it to a stop, the complaint alleges.

Harrington, All N. C. Delegates For Goldwater

James E. Harrington, Jr., of Pinehurst who went to this week's Republican National Convention at San Francisco as an uncommitted delegate, joined Wednesday in a unanimous 26-vote approval of Sen. Barry Goldwater as the party's Presidential candidate, by the North Carolina delegation.

Harrington had announced early in the week that he would vote for Goldwater on the first ballot, believing him to be the favored candidate in his district.

Harrington is 8th District Republican chairman and a former Moore County GOP chairman.
