Funeral To Be Held Saturday For Mrs. Page

Funeral services for Mrs. Mitchell Waddill Page, who died here about 7 o'clock this morning, will be held Saturday at 11 a.m., in Emmanuel Episcopal Church, with the Rev. Martin Caldwell, rector, officiating. Interment will be private.

A native of Carthage and a former resident of the Sandhills, Mrs. Page had lived in New York City for many years. She was the mother of Mrs. John Ostrom of Southern Pines.

Mrs. Page suffered a coronary attack early in July, at Asheville where she customarily spent the summer. She was brought to St. Joseph's Hospital here early in August and for the past three weeks, with a nurse, had been at the guest cottage of Mrs. Annabelle W. Pearson on E. Connecticut Ave.

Mrs. Page, who was the first wife of the late Henry A. Page, Jr., of Aberdeen, is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Ostrom; a sister, Mrs. Hubbard B. Porter of Durham; a brother, Leverne H. Waddill of Neptune Beach, Fla.; two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. A son, Henry A. Page III, was killed in action while serving as a Navy officer in the Pacific in World War II.

In lieu of flowers, it is suggested that contributions be made to the Heart Fund.

W. O. CAREY

jury assigned by a physician as the cause. Mrs. Carey remained at the hospital for treatment of several fractures and internal injuries. She was reported much improved last night.

Moore County Coroner W. K. Carpenter found "no culpable negligence" on the part of either driver, Trooper Samuel said he did not plan to prefer any criminal charges.

Mr. Carey, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., had lived in South America for many years as representative of the Lone Star Cement Co. He was married there to the former Gladys Pryce, a native of Argentina and the resident of Buenos Aires. It was the second marriage for both. Following retirement, he purchased a home here in 1962, on Indian Trail Drive in Knollwood.

Surviving, besides his wife, are one daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Carey Hall of Brookfield, Conn.; five grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Florence Etting of Chicago and Mrs. May Miller of Dallas, Texas; and one stepson, Frederick Peter Morawski of Biwabik, Minn.

The Christian Science service was read for him Tuesday afternoon at the Powell Funeral Home by Roland H. Delano of Pinebluff, First Reader of the Christian Science Church here. Burial will take place elsewhere, later.

Mr. Carey, in his short residence here, had won the affection and regard of many Sandhills residents, as has his wife. He was active in the Christian Science Church, in the Republican Party and in various civic and social groups, including the Sandhills Music Association and the Pinehurst Forum. He enjoyed gardening as a hobby. He was a member of the Southern Pines Country Club and played golf occasionally.

LIONS

man, in care of the Lions Club, Southern Pines. Checks can be made out to the North Carolina Association for the Blind.

The North Carolina Association for the Blind is a Lions project. Organized by the Lions in 1934 as a state-wide, non profit organization, it is sponsored by the Lions through the annual White Cane Drive.

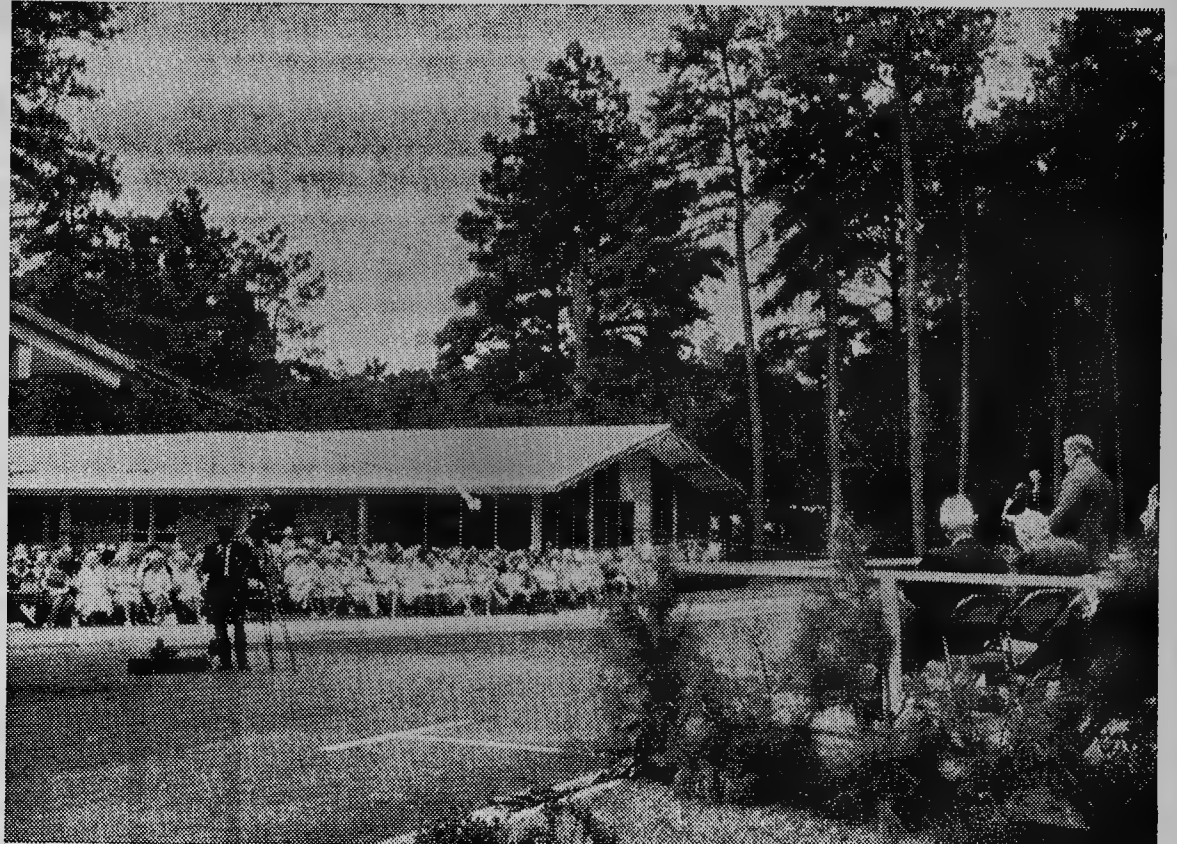

In 1963, through the efforts of the Lions Clubs and the public's response, the Association was able to greatly expand its Prevention of Blindness program.

The Association has been making annual grants to the North Carolina Eye Bank for several years. A total of 525 eyes have been donated and 11,500 eye will have been made over a period of 10 years.

The Association provides many services for the blind and the visually handicapped, where there is a need and when no other resources are available. Among the services are eye examinations, surgery, glasses and artificial eyes. Sponsorship of the eye bank, visual aids clinics, and the Laboratory for Experimental Ocular Pathology are among agencies sponsored by the association.

Other general services are: gift radios for shut-in blind; white can walking sticks; drugs, X-rays, and transportation.

Memberships in the North Carolina Association for the Blind are available here also during the White Cane Drive.

itself with these problems. We look to the church for continued leadership in this field, and to all of you as church leaders for continued guidance."

The Governor noted also other realms of responsibility in a State where "too many have never attended school, have dropped out of school too soon have never had the opportunity to attend college; too many have mental and physical handicaps, and too many are enmeshed in the web of poverty." "But," he added, "it has heartened me to see how many of our communities have looked deep within their own selves to find ways to improve, and help break the poverty cycle."

Governor Sanford was introduced by Superior Court Judge Francis O. Clarkson of Charlotte, who praised his administration as one "devoted to education and to humanitarian causes."

PTA HAS MEETING

New teachers were introduced and a reception for all teachers and parents was held at the first meeting of the East Southern Pines Parent-Teachers Association in Weaver Auditorium, Monday night. Supt. J. W. Jenkins outlined highlights of the coming school year's program.

MUSIC

Quartet.

Season tickets for all the concerts, including a special low-cost ticket for students, are available at the Barnum office. Various types of membership, starting at only $1, are available, to provide additional support for the Music Association's program, also admitting holders to the special events for members.

However, it's pointed out, ticket purchasers do not have to become members and, on the other hand, memberships may be taken without the purchase of tickets.

"The purpose of the Sandhills Music Association," says the brochure sent out this week, "is to enrich the cultural life of this community, to enable music lovers to hear good music in live performance, and to encourage the appreciation and understanding of music by our young people."

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

H. T. Cosby of Charlotte, president of the home's board of directors, presided over the program. On the stand with him were most of the 30 directors, prominent and influential men and women from throughout the State, including Bishop Baker, chairman of the board, in his purple robe of ecclesiastical office.

Mr. Cosby, detailing the history of the Memorial Home project, recognized several guests and paid tribute to these and others who had helped make "a dream come true." Prominent among them, he said, were Mrs. James Boyd of Southern Pines and her family, who had given the beautiful forested site, a portion of Weymouth, the Boyd home place, in 1959, and thus provided the encouragement which led directly to achievement."

Another big boost, he said, was the $50,000 building-fund starter contributed by the St. Peter's Hospital Foundation of Charlotte. Recognizing Walter N. Hobbs, a director and also chairman of the Foundation, Cosby announced another gift from the same source, $7,500 to furnish and equip a physician's office at the Home, and to add to and improve the infirmary.

Among others recognized were the architect, Louis H. Asbury of Charlotte; W. L. Jewell, Jr., of the contracting firm of W. L. Jewell, Jr., of the contracting firm of W. L. Jewell of Sanford; Mrs. J. Wilson Cunningham of Winston-Salem and A. W. Fanjoy of Statesville, members of the committee on decoration of the Home, and the administrators, Mr. and Mrs. MacDougall.

Kemp Battle, distinguished Rocky Mount attorney and former chancellor of the Diocese, spoke in commemoration of the late Bishop Penick, who conceived the idea of the Home in the early 1950's and labored to get the project going, though he did not live to see it accomplished.

The program opened with an invocation by the Rt. Rev. Thomas A. Fraser, bishop coadjutor, and a welcome extended by Mayor N. L. Hodgkins, Jr., who spoke of the pride felt in the Home by local citizens from the beginning. He harked back to the formation of a local committee several years ago to help promote the Southern Pines site as ideal for the Home, and the pride and happiness felt here when the directors agreed. The Mayor listed other notable developments within the community since that time, showing that, as Governor Sanford said this was "a State on the move," so is Southern Pines a town on the move with which the Home can proudly identify.

The $514,000 facility, handsome and modern while somewhat rustic in aspect, to blend harmoniously with its wooded site, actually opened last April and now has 24 residents. Facilities have been readied for 39 men and women and it is expected this number will soon be reached, according to President Cosby. After that, he said, "as funds become available," the accommodations will be expanded for a maximum of 100 persons.

The residents are not restricted to North Carolinians; nor even to Episcopalians. Living now at the Home are persons from several different states, representing several faiths.
