FOR SOCIAL SECURITY PURPOSES
Farmers Must Keep Good Records Of Both Regular And Part-Time Workers

John Jones, Social Security representative for Moore County reminds farmers that they should keep good records of time and wages of regular and part-time workers, to establish the amount of social security taxes they owe. Good records include: (1) the amount of cash wages paid these employees, (2) the time each actually worked, and (3) their social security numbers. A farm worker's wages are subject to social security tax if he is paid as much as $150 during the year or if the worker is employed on 20 or more days during the year and paid on a time basis—by the hour, day, or week. Under the law, the employer is held responsible for both the employee and employer tax for social security purposes. It is apparent that a record of the time worked and the wages paid is necessary, Jones said. A good system used by many employers is to insist on seeing the social security card before paying the first week's wages, Jones noted. If the employee does not have a social security card or has lost his card, ask him to get an application form for a social security number from the nearest post office. After he has completed this card and mailed it to his local he will receive his card in about 10 days.

In New York the typical monthly residential bill for 500 kilowatt-hours of electricity is $14.24. It's only $9.00 for CP&L customers. On the average, our customers use a little more than 500 kilowatt-hours per month.

In most other places across the country, folks pay more for electricity. The average price which our residential customers pay per kilowatt-hour is 22 per cent less than the national average.

How has CP&L been able to make electricity such a bargain? We have installed larger, more efficient generating plants. We have improved our methods of transmitting and distributing electricity. We have worked hard to introduce every reasonable economy.

While there are a few places where your electric bill would be less, CP&L is proud to supply dependable electric service at prices so much lower than most people pay.
