Scott, Blue Get Ovations At YDC Carthage Meeting

Moore County Democrats, young and old, turned out last Thursday night, in the courthouse at Carthage, to welcome Robert W. (Bob) Scott of Haw River and to show them they didn't hold it against him that he had defeated their own Rep. H. Clifton Blue of Aberdeen, for the party's nomination for lieutenant governor.

It was Scott's first public appearance in Moore County since his appointment as chairman of Rural Americans for Johnson, a national organization working for the Johnson-Humphrey ticket in the current Presidential campaign.

The spirit of unity was apparent both from Blue, who introduced the son of his old friend, the late Gov. and Sen. W. Kerr Scott, and also from Bob Scott, who paid a ringing tribute to Blue.

Speaking at a special meeting of the Moore County Young Democrats Club, kicking off their fall campaign activity program, Scott praised Blue for the high type of campaign which he conducted last spring, which left no bitter wounds among Democrats; and also recalled that Blue as a former State YDC president had influenced the tough election of 1948.

"I recall when Harry Truman was campaigning for president, and a lot of folks didn't give him a chance," Scott said, "but the day after the election, we found that North Carolina had given her votes to the man from Missouri. One reason was the strong (Continued on page 20)

WHAT'S WRONG NOW?

Speaker States Reasons For Not Merging Schools

The case for leaving Southern Pines High Schools independent—not merging, as proposed by the board of education with Pinehurst or any other schools—was presented at Monday night's meeting of the East Southern Pines Parent-Teacher Association.

The speaker was W. Houston Black, a former (five years) high school teacher and now a parent with children in school here. He said he had not heard this point of view discussed publicly in a positive way.

Scheduled for the same meeting, but unable to attend and now expected at the next meeting, November 9, was Jere McKeithen of Aberdeen, chairman of the county board of education, who was to have discussed an officially proposed merger of the Southern Pines District high schools with Aberdeen and West End schools of the county system.

Four members of the local board of education were present: Dr. C. C. McLean, chairman; N. L. Hodges, former chairman; Dr. R. M. McMillan and Mrs. Walter Harper.

Dr. McLean explained and advocated support of the $100 million state bond election for school construction, to be voted on by the people November 3.

Pointing out that "we have outgrown our school," Dr. McMillan said that three general courses of action are open:

1. Build a new elementary school building and other facilities at the present site, keeping all facilities here and remaining an independent unit.

2. Merge with the county system, joining with Aberdeen and West End districts in construction of a new high school.

3. A Southern Pines-Pinehurst merger, to create a new independent administrative unit, with construction of a new joint high school.

Proposition No. 1, he said, would be discussed by Mr. Black. Black said he sees "nothing basically wrong" with the Southern Pines Schools as now set up and feels they have had, do have and will continue to have a "sound administrative program." He cited what he called "plus (Continued on Page 8)

Nixon Lambastes Democratic Record

Campaigning across the nation for Barry Goldwater and other Republican candidates in the November 3 elections, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon flew into the Sandhills for an action-filled four hours, Saturday.

They were the brightest, liveliest hours Republicans of this area had experienced since Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower arrived at the same airport on a similar mission, two years ago.

There was this difference: after his hard-hitting partisan address to 400 persons at $15 per plate fund-raising luncheon in the Carolina Hotel at Pinehurst, Nixon took off for another speaking engagement in Tennessee—carrying a putter inscribed "To (Continued on Page 8)

PROUD GIRL

Freida Fields, teenage daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fields of Pinehurst, became perhaps the proudest and happiest person at the airport Saturday when Former Vice President Nixon signed her autograph book—just below Dwight D. Eisenhower's signature which she had obtained at the same airport when the former President arrived under similar circumstances two years ago. The two signatures appear together, with no others on that page.

Sharing the spotlight with the former Vice-President and 1960 GOP Presidential candidate are 8th District Congressman Charles R. Jonas of Lincolnton, who is seeking reelection, and Robert L. Gavin of Sanford, Republican REASON FOR COMPLAINTS—Here's what persons appearing before the town council this week were complaining about: garbage and trash piled higher than an automobile, remaining unburied and frequently burning and smouldering, at the town's

"sanitary landfill" disposal area. Smoke is drifting upward at left-center of this picture which shows only a portion of the accumulated waste. (Pilot photo)

Council To Clean Up, Control Landfill Area

Following bitter complaints about smoke and offensive odor coming from the Town's landfill, the town council meeting Tuesday night, took actions designed for both immediate and long-range elimination of the problem. Present to hear complaints from residents of the Murray Hill Road area, living about a half-mile south of the landfill, was the entire council: Mayor Norris L. Hodges, Jr., Mayor Pro Tem Fred Pollard and Councilmen Felton Cape, C. A. McLaughlin and Harry Pethick.

After a session that was featured by a sometimes heated exchange of remarks between Michael Valen of Murray Hill Road and Town Manager F. F. Rainey, the council directed the manager to determine the cost of renting heavy equipment—dragline or bulldozer—temporarily, in the near future, to bury a large quantity of garbage and trash that has accumulated in the area; and also to have ready, for a special meeting, to be held within 10 days, recommendations for a regulatory ordinance that would control operation of the landfill so that the town can look after it properly with available funds and prevent an accumulation of trash from piling up again.

Information for drawing up an ordinance will be obtained from towns and cities that have such laws and by consulting with the League of Municipalities.

With Valen, who had requested (Continued on Page 8)

Jones Company To Leave Vass; Another Coming

Jones, Inc., of Vass, manufacturers of mop yarns, this community's largest industry, has sold its building and will move out by the end of the year.

But, said Paul Jones, president and manager, a new industrial firm will open in the building, employing as many or more people than are now employed there.

Jones said he was not at liberty to reveal the identity of the new owner, except that it was a well-known and well-established concern and "our relations with this community have been so fine, we would not leave without securing a good replacement."

In a notice given to his employees, numbering about 45, and in a letter to the town board of commissioners, Jones said the Jones, Inc. business will be closed and he will return to his home (Continued on Page 8)
