

Bid On Landfill Clean-Up: $5,250; Second Bid Asked

In a special meeting Wednesday night, the town council authorized a contract with a heavy equipment operator, to bury a large quantity of garbage and trash that has accumulated at the town's landfill disposal area.

The motion approved by the council specified that the manager be authorized to enter into such a contract, after receiving at least two bids on the job.

Town Manager F. F. Rainey had previously told the council that he recently asked for bids from four equipment operators in the area but that only one, the Beal company of Sanford, had been willing to bid. That bid he reported was $5,250.

The extent of the work to be done became apparent when Rainey told the council the contractor estimated it would take an excavation 300 feet long, 60 feet and 15 feet deep to bury the accumulated waste at the landfill.

Councilmen agreed at least one other bid should be obtained before letting a contract, although all the officials are anxious to get the job done. Smoke and odor from fires in the accumulated waste have brought bitter complaints previously heard by the council, from residents of the Murray Hill Road area, about a half mile from the landfill.

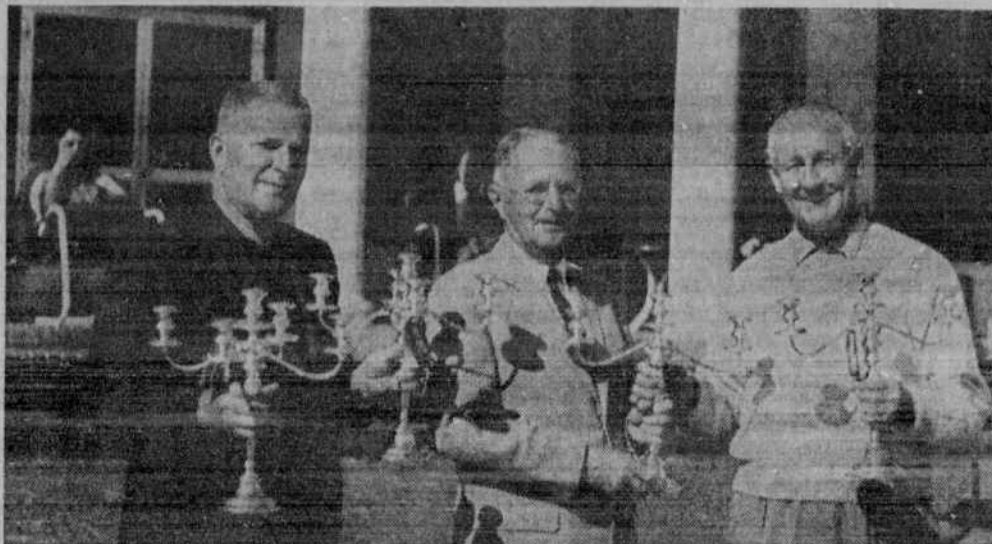

ON HALLOWEEN Youngsters Can Collect Here For Children's Fund

A number of local persons interested in a Halloween collection by children of contributions to the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) have arranged that such a collection can be made Saturday.

Previously made here, such a collection has not taken place for the past two years. However, the Rev. Carl Wallace, pastor of the United Church of Christ, said this week that official UNICEF collection materials (containers and so forth which identify children as working for UNICEF) remain on hand at the church and that they can be picked up there by parents for children to use on Saturday.

Halloween collections for UNICEF are made in some 13,000 American towns and cities, in which children substitute an appeal for UNICEF for the traditional "trick or treat." Amounts collected go to promote the welfare of children in over 100 countries, primarily in programs for better nutrition, sanitation and living conditions.

Persons who are not reached on Halloween and who want to give to the Children's Fund can send contributions directly to the Rev. Mr. Wallace.

State Fair Wildlife Exhibit Slated Here

A new and interesting attraction for the annual fund-raising bazaar and fair of the Moore County Wildlife Club was announced this week—the same exhibit as that shown at the State Fair by the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission.

The bazaar, featuring hand-crafted articles and many other items, will be held at the National Guard Armory here, Tuesday, November 17.

On hand in connection with the exhibit and the "fair" portion of the club's event will be Miss Lunette Earber, educational director of the Commission. Details will be announced.

Annual Party For Town's Children Slated Saturday

The Southern Pines Rotary Club will hold its annual Halloween party on Saturday, October 31.

The festivities will begin with a parade at 7 o'clock, forming in front of Clark and Bradshaw's Service Station on N.W. Broad Street, and ending in front of the main Citizens Bank Building also located further south on N.W. Broad Street.

Prizes will be awarded to those children participating in the parade who have the best costumes in various categories. Numbers will be assigned to each of the contestants to assist the judges in making their decisions.

Sack races and a pie eating contest will be held after the parade. Booths will be set up where children can toss rings, throw balls and take part in other activities. Prizes will be given out for all of these events.

The party will be highlighted by a teenage street dance to be held after conclusion of the contests. Refreshments, candy, popcorn and cookies will be available to everyone.

The Seaboard Air Line Railroad has given assurances to representatives of Rotary that all trains passing through town during the party will be slowed down.

The proposal notes that telegraph service will continue to be available, if the application is granted, at the Kennedy and Company office in the Harvard buildings in Pinehurst.

Nov. 3 Voting Draws Interest; County Registers Over 13,000

Nearly 13,500 Moore County residents are eligible to vote on Tuesday, November 3, when citizens will go to 19 precinct polling places to help choose office-holders on the national, state and county levels.

Of persons registered, something over 10,250 are on the books as Democrats and something over 3,750 as Republicans, said S. C. Riddle of Carthage, chairman of the county Board of Elections. Voters, however, are expected to cross party lines in large numbers in some of the races.

Interest in the election is high, sparked by the emotional Presidential race and the strongest Republican bid in many years, for state and county offices. Also to be decided Tuesday will be whether or not the State will issue $100 million in school bonds—a matter which will be presented to the voters on a separate ballot.

The proposed bond issue for school construction, remodeling and renovation is explained fully elsewhere in today's Pilot. If approved, Moore County would get $833,602 — of which $613,683 would go to the county school system; $144,900 to the Southern Pines district schools; and $74,929 to the Pinehurst schools.

Three Other Ballots Moore County voters will be handed three ballots, in addition to the school bond ballot, when they enter their polling places.

One will be for the Presidential and Vice Presidential choices only.

Another lists the State Senatorial, State House and all county office candidates.

A third leads off with candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor, run through candidates for the "Council of State" posts and Superior Court Judges and ends, at the bottom, with the two candidates for Congress (House of Representatives) from the 8th Congressional District which includes Moore County.

Of interest locally is that Judge John D. McConnell of Southern Pines, resident judge for the 20th District, is up for election, unopposed.

CANDIDATES LISTED In the following list of candidates, the Democrats are named first, the Republicans second, for each race, with "None" noted where there is no Republican (Continued on Page 8)

COUNTY CHAIRMEN COMMENT Close Races Predicted

Chairmen of both political parties in Moore County agreed this week that there will be some close races in the county's voting on Tuesday, November 3—but they disagreed on the outcome of most of them. Each claimed expected victories the other was unwilling to concede.

Wallace W. O'Neal of Pinehurst, Republican chairman, and

J. Elvin Jackson of Carthage, head of the Democratic party in Moore, both also predicted ticket splitting.

While O'Neal foresees many Democrats crossing party lines to vote for GOP candidates at all levels, Jackson confined his prediction of ticket splitting largely to Republicans who cross over to vote for Johnson in the Presidential contest.

With Republicans as a minority of the registered voters in Moore County, GOP candidates will have to attract a good many Democratic votes to put them in the winning column.

O'Neal based his victory prediction on the fact that "our party has had tremendous growth in Moore in the last two years. We have more enthusiastic workers than ever before."

With a registration of around 3,500 Republicans, it will take lots of Democratic votes for our candidates to win but, said O'Neal, "We are going to have those. There's going to be the biggest wave of ticket splitting here in history."

"People feel the need for a change on the county level, and (Continued on Page 8)

Auto Caravan Set Saturday By Democrats

A Democratic automobile caravan will wind through Moore County Saturday afternoon, starting at Pinebluff at 2 pm and ending at Pinehurst at approximately 5:30 pm, to help build enthusiasm for the Party's candidates in next Tuesday's election.

Car owners are urged to come to Pinebluff at 1:30 pm, to meet with others at the fire station and decorate their cars in keeping with the occasion, said J. Elvin Jackson, chairman of the sponsoring Moore County Democratic Executive committee.

They will be led by a car with loudspeaker as they follow the following itinerary (times given are tentative):

MRS. GAVIN BRINGS GREETINGS

600 Applaud Jonas, Ewing, Other Candidates At GOP Election Rally

"People who say there's no such thing as Democrats for Jonas or for Gavin or Goldwater are going to wake up to a big surprise November 4," Rep. Charles R. Jonas of Lincolnton told a cheering crowd of some 600 at a countywide Republican rally Wednesday night at Aberdeen.

"Lots of Democrats are going to vote for one, two or all of us," predicted the 8th District congressman, a candidate to succeed himself in Tuesday's election, facing opposition from Democrat Dr. W. D. (Bill) James of Hamlet.

Not only are there organized Democrats and numbers of "independent" committees throughout the district working in his behalf and that of other Republican candidates, but many are "giving their time and energy night and day to this cause," he said.

After briefly sketching in the "conservative" position on the national scene, and deploring North Carolina's low position on the economic scale "after 64 years of a one-party system," Jonas laid out the well-hashed issues aside to relate his recent experiences on the campaign trail.

While things look very encouraging, he said, he didn't predict a 100 per cent victory. But he noted, "We have things going for us now, if we stand fast and remain true to our principles. We are finding converts much easier to come by than ever before. If we let the dissidents of the other party know we'll fight, and not sell our principles down the river, one of these good days we'll find we have a strong party in North Carolina and eventually we'll win."

"Because," he added, borrowing (Continued on Page 8)

Democratic Leaders Urge Support Of Full Party Ticket November 3

"I'm convinced Lyndon Johnson would sweep this State without opposition, were it not for the passage of the Civil Rights Bill," U. S. Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr., Democrats at a supper rally held Saturday night at Union Pines School.

"I give you my word, any Southern Democrat would be very foolish to vote for Goldwater just because he voted against that bill. It may have taken some political courage, but that is not enough reason to make him President. He has to have qualities of leadership as well.

"Out of 34 Republicans, he could get only five to go along with him, and a man who can't lead his own party any better than that, especially against a bill as bad as that, certainly isn't qualified to lead this nation," de- (Continued on Page 8)

TRACKLESS TRAIN— Here is the garbage collection train which was demonstrated last week. In front is a Jeep and behind three five-cubic-yard-capacity trailers. Any number of trailers may be used in the train-mother truck system. The "train" never leaves its route to transport its load to the landfill disposal area, but trailers are emptied into the large mother truck. (Pilot photo)

WOULD REPLACE 'LOADPACKERS' IF ADOPTED New Garbage Collection System Demonstrated Here

Much discussion has taken place recently over the problem of garbage disposal at the sanitary landfill area, and it looks as though the Town Council is nearing a solution (see Council story on this page).

Another problem which has been on the mind of Town Manager F. F. Rainey for many months is that of the two "load-packer" trucks which have been in use here over 10 years for the collection of residential and commercial garbage.

"They are worn out and expensive to operate," according to Rainey, and he is studying the situation in hopes of arriving at the most practical solution. (Continued on page 24)
