News and Personals from Whispering Pines

By PATRICIA KAYLOR
N. C. Seniors Golf
The North Carolina Seniors Golf Association will hold its last tournament of the 1964 season at Whispering Pines Country Club, Saturday and Sunday, November 7 and 8.

About 125 players are expected, many accompanied by wives who will have a program of activity during the day on Saturday. That evening, there will be a social hour and dinner at Whispering Pines Dobbs House Restaurant, adjacent to the Whispering Pines Motor Lodge on No. 1 highway, north of Southern Pines.

Men's Club Championship
Qualifying for the championship flight of the Annual Men's Club Championship Tournament at Whispering Pines this week were: Mike Check, Glenn Griffin, Don Heppes, Leroy Bateman, Gene Harmon, Dr. F. C. Scarborough, Ed Comer, and Clyde Upchurch. The balance of the field consists of four more flights of eight men each. Qualifying began last Sunday and the first rounds will be played next week.

"Whispers" Sponsor Parties
Members of the recently organized women's club, "Whispers," and their husbands enjoyed their first of a series of weekly bridge parties last Friday evening at the Whispering Pines Golf Club. Mrs. Pauline Holt, bridge chairman of the club, has scheduled an evening of bridge every Friday at the Club. There were five tables last week, and it is hoped that the number will increase. All Whispering Pines residents are invited to participate.

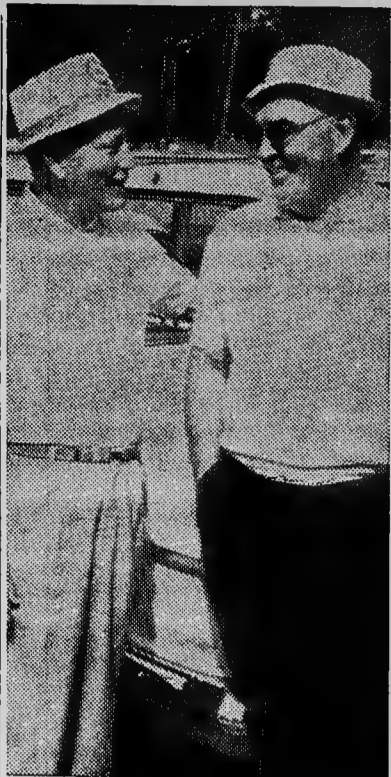

Personals

Miss Patricia Kaylor was a guest last Friday evening at the reception given by the Fayetteville Chamber of Commerce for the visiting "Thunderbirds," the USAF Jet Aerobatics Team who performed at air shows in Fayetteville on Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Farm Bureau Slates Annual Meeting, Supper At Carthage Saturday Night

W. E. Little, commodities director of N. C. Farm Bureau, will speak to members of Moore County Farm Bureau at their Annual Meeting Saturday night, October 31, in Carthage school cafeteria, following a barbecue supper which starts at 6 o'clock.

Farmers in Moore County can increase their income through Farm Bureau, notes John Smith, president of the Moore County organization.

"The greatest opportunity for increasing income through Farm Bureau lies in its policy development process," said Smith, expressing hope that all members will be present Saturday night to hear Mr. Little and to participate in many policy decisions. "The policies which members build from the local level help to cut farm expenses and add to net income," he noted.

Smith said that when farm income increases, the whole economy expands. "Gross farm income last year in Moore County was over 32 million dollars," he said, "and the farmer's wallet was just the starting point for the travels of the money through the economy."

It is the farmer's duty to see that this bedrock of Moore County's economy is protected. Working through Farm Bureau, farmers can do a lot to make their future secure; and, in view of the present agriculture problems, it would not surprise me to see many new faces joining up Saturday night," concluded the farm leader.

Presenting...

T. CLYDE AUMAN

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE

For

HOUSE

REPRESENTATIVES

From Moore County

A Moore County Leader

Who Knows The County's Needs

EARLY LIFE AND EDUCATION—

Clyde Auman, one of ten children, of Mrs. Lillie Graham Auman and the late Claude Auman, was born and reared in Moore County. He graduated from Jackson Springs High School and continued his education at North Carolina State College in the School of Agriculture. He financed his college education by share cropping peach orchards in the Sandhills.

WORK AND FAMILY—

In 1933, he returned to the Sandhills to begin growing peaches and farming on a full time basis. He began by buying fifty-five acres of land, and from that small beginning, his farm has grown. He is married to the former Sally Watts of Wake County and they have two sons, Watts and Bob, who are graduates of Davidson College and who have served their tours of duty in the armed forces. Watts is operating the farm at West End and Bob is studying law at the University of North Carolina. A daughter, Nancy is a senior at Agnes Scott College and another daughter, Laura is an eighth-grader at West End.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO EDUCATION—

Clyde Auman worked hard for his education and he appreciates its value. Governor Hodges appointed him to the Committee for One Hundred for Better Schools for North Carolina. Governor Kerr Scott appointed him to the North Carolina Board of Juvenile Correction and he has been reappointed by Governors Hodges and Sanford and is presently its Vice-Chairman. He is Chairman of the West End School Committee.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO AGRICULTURE—

Clyde is President-Elect of the National Peach Council and has served as a member of the Horticulture Committee of the American Farm Bureau. He has also served as a Director of the North Carolina Farm Bureau and of the Farm Bureau Insurance Company, Director of the North Carolina Forestry Association, Director of the Sandhill Production Credit Association, and as President of the North Carolina Peach Growers' Society and President of the Moore County Farm Bureau. He has done much to develop reforestation in Moore County, his own farm having met the requirements of a "Tree Farm."

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT OF THE SANDHILLS—

As the Raleigh News and Observer wrote when Clyde Auman was selected "Tar Heel of the Week," "His enthusiasm about peaches is matched only by his confidence in the future of the Sandhills."

As a Director of the Sandhill Development Association, he knows the needs of Moore and the surrounding counties. He has served as President of the Moore County Wildlife Club.

While President of the County Farm Bureau, the move began for Rural Fire control. As a result, there are six trucks stationed today in strategic areas. Also while President, the Farm Bureau launched a drive for increased telephone service which resulted in hundred of rural homes in Moore County having telephones.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO STATE COLLEGE—

Our candidate has served as Director and President of the North Carolina State College Agricultural Foundation, as advisor to the Dean of Agriculture, as Director of the Alumni Association. In appreciation of his efforts, he was presented the Gamma Sigma Delta award for his contributions to Agriculture.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE CHURCH—

Clyde Auman is an elder in the West End Presbyterian Church. He has served as Commissioner to the General Assembly, Vice-President of the Synod's Men's Council, President of the Men of the Church of Fayetteville Presbytery, and Sunday School Superintendent.

Clyde Auman has served as West End Chairman of the Red Cross Bloodmobile. He is Chairman of the Fire Commission and helped lead the drive for contributions to purchase the fire truck. He is a charter member of the Lions Club and has served two terms as its President.

Elect a man who knows by experience the problems of Education, Industry, Agriculture, Labor and Recreation Development in Moore County and most of all knows and loves its people.

Elect to the Legislature a Democrat whose voice will be heard and respected in the General Assembly and in the councils of our State Government.
