Awards Given For Door Decorations

In roses, it's a prime example of the resourceful use of available materials.

A simple, reverent drawing of a church with cotton snow on the roof, backed with vari-colored paper and edged with a tinsel strand. The proud artists are William Lee Belcher of Jacksonville and Walter Pete Lipscomb of Yanceyville, the latter a 26-year-old man who not only has tuberculosis but has also lost both his legs.

Also winning a gold ribbon was No. 140 on Broadfoot I, where the decoration consists of All Sanatorium patients who can possibly go home at Christmas time are allowed to leave. Some are too ill to take part in the contest. But for others, it is a happy time as they beautify the doors of their temporary homes to greet their visitors at Christmas.

The contest is an annual project of the Sandhills Club, which junction both as the McCain community's tuberculosis association, woman's club and hospital auxiliary. President is Mrs. Natalie Dodge, whose husband, Ralph Dodge, is business manager of the "San."

Assisting with the project is Mrs. Nancy Marley of Southern Pines, regional patients' services committee coordinator at McCain for the 29 tuberculosis associations within the area served by the Sanatorium—28 county units, including two in Guilford County, and the McCain Sunshine

Club.

This year the Sunshine Club gave each contestant $1, which could be used for materials for decoration if desired. They bought bright wrapping papers, ribbons, paint and gilt and other basic items, adding anything else at hand.

In one room, crumpled newspapers wrapped in foil made silver roses for a wreath, with foil-wrapped dixie cups for Christmas bells.

Christmas cards, pictures cut from magazines, pine needles, small toys, all found places on the doors.

Coming in handy were old Christmas decorations given by friends of the San—and Mrs. Dodge asks, when you take down your tree, wreaths and other adornments of the season, don't throw any of the tinsel and other ornaments away. Put them in a box and ship it off to the San, where they will be happily stored for next year's contest.

Judges this year were Mrs. Forrest Lockey, Mrs. Jack M. Taylor and Mrs. R. S. Gwyn, all of Aberdeen.

George Capra Dies In New Jersey, On Visit To Daughter
Funeral services and burial took place at Freehold, N. J., Monday for George Capra of Southern Pines who apparently died in his sleep, the night before Christmas Day, while visiting a daughter at Freehold.

During most of his residence in the Sandhills, Mr. Capra lived at Highland Lodge. He was a devout member of St. Anthony's Catholic Church and was a member of the Southern Pines Elks Lodge.
