

Pastor Here Writes 'Day by Day' Item

Dr. Julian Lake, pastor of Brownson Memorial Presbyterian Church here, is one of 12 ministers and other religious workers who have written on devotional topics in the quarterly publication, "Day by Day," for the first quarter of 1965.

Dr. Lake's topic, "My Hand in the Hand of God," opens the series of short devotional meditations for daily individual and family use, assigned to the dates January 1 and 2.

The current issue of the publication, which has a circulation of 170,000 copies per quarter, carries the series of meditations through the end of March.

"Day by Day," in its 25th year, is published by the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

Battle Will Speak At Wildlife Club Meeting

Turner W. Battle of Rocky Mount, executive director of the North Carolina Wildlife Federation, will be the speaker at the January meeting of the Moore County Wildlife Club.

To be held at Sanders Whispering Pines Restaurant on No. 1 highway, north, Tuesday, January 5, the meeting will begin with registration at 7 p.m. and continue with dinner at 7:30.

UNPRECEDENTED— Leonard Thompson, left, and his father, Cecil Thompson, right, receive from Kenneth Schroeder of Pinehurst, tournament chairman, their trophies for an unprecedented successful defense of their 1963 title in the Father & Son Holiday golf tournament, Tuesday. Leonard also broke a record by winning in the Class A Division of the Donald J. Ross Junior tournament, for the second successive year, on Monday. (Hemmer photo)

Walker of Burlington, won on the 21st hole in a sudden death playoff, after a two-way tie at 74, at the 18th. The only Sandhills youngster to play in the tournament played in this division—Peter Pottle of Southern Pines who placed third with a 76.

In the second division of Class B, Neil Hendricks of Reidsville won with 78.

The Class C (11 and younger) winner, playing nine holes on No. 4 course, was Billy Lewis of Florence, S. C., who scored 42.

There was a Pro-Son Division in the Father & Son tournament on Tuesday, with Jimmy Overton and his son, Jay, of Sanford, tying at 73 with Earl Estridge and son Mack, of Badin, and the Overtons winning a playoff on the 22nd.

Some "name" golfers in the Father & Son event included amateur Billy Joe Patton who played with two sons (18 holes with each) and Pro Mike Souchak, playing in the Pro-Son Division with his son.

Progress Noted In Area During 1964

The Town of Aberdeen initiated an engineering survey, looking toward a spring bond vote for a filter plant, and for water and sewer system expansion.

At Pinehurst, Given Memorial Library was dedicated and opened for public use. The Pinehurst Medical Center was completed, with medical and other related business and professional offices (this is the new home of the Sandhills Mental Health Center). The Pinehurst Country Club added to its golf course irrigation facilities and made other courses improvements on its five 18-hole courses.

At Vass, the new $162,000 filter plant went into operation, and Max Edwards opened his new ME Farm and Home Supply Store.

In upper Moore county, the Highfalls Oil Co. built a new building and opened a furniture and appliance store.

The Pleasant Hill Methodist Church broke ground for a new educational building.

ly McReynolds. A great-uncle, Thomas McReynolds, laid out the town of Carthage in 1803 and a street there still bears his name.

Mr. Reynolds' formal schooling was limited to that offered in the one-room log cabin schoolhouse near his home, yet through hard work, business acumen and natural thrift he became a substantial citizen, with many farming and business interests. He considerably increased the family holdings in the area, owning several timber farms in addition to the home farm where he raised grain and cattle, as well as tobacco and cotton.

He was elected to the county commission in 1932, a depression year, with the announced aim of "seeing that our folks get good roads and good schools," and he worked unremittingly toward these objectives. Financially conservative, he was still receptive to new ideas and supported many progressive moves benefiting the people, through depression and wartime years, and the postwar years of great change and expansion.

He was a member of the county airport committee from its organization in the 1930's, supervising the purchase, development and operation of the county-owned airport. He worked for school improvements and the establishment of the Community College, culminating in the $4 million bond issue overwhelmingly approved in 1963.

Other projects in which he was interested included converting the "county home" poorhouse to a boarding home, which was named the Reynolds Rest Home in his honor; attraction of new industry and formation of the Moore County Industrial Committee; the rural fire protection program, countywide Rescue Squad; and county mental health program, marked by establishment of the Sandhills Mental Health Center. He was a member of the Moore County Mental Health Planning Council.

He was a lifelong devoted and active member of Pleasant Hill Methodist Church.

His wife, the former Loretta Ritter, died in 1945. Surviving are two sons, Tracy Lyndon Reynolds and Wiley Reynolds, both of Robbins, Route 1, and one grandson.

48th RENEWAL

Pinehurst Field Trials To Start Saturday, Jan. 2

The 48th renewal of the Pinehurst Field Trials starts Saturday, January 2, with four stakes on the program.

Drawings for the three amateur events scheduled will be made at 9 p.m. Friday at the Holly Inn, in Pinehurst, headquarters for the field triers. Drawings for the open stake will be held there Sunday.

The Amateur Derby leads off, the first brace going down early Saturday morning. Heats are a half-hour, and the stake is open to all bird dogs whelped on or after January 1, 1963.

The Amateur All Age and the Amateur Shooting Dog, both open to all bird dogs handled by amateurs, follow with heats of one hour for the All Age and 30 minutes for the Shooting Dog.

Perpetual trophies, which the owner retains upon his third win, are offered in addition to trophies in the first two stakes. The Hoagland Memorial Trophy, given in the All-Age, honors Raymond Hoagland of Cartersville, Ga., one of the original founders of the Pinehurst Field Trial Club. The Dr. T. W. Shore Memorial Bowl is given in the Derby in memory of the late ardent field trier from Booneville.

The concluding stake, the Pinehurst Open Shooting Dog Classic, carries a $750 guaranteed purse, to be divided $500 and $250. With one-hour heats, this stake is open to all bird dogs.

Judges are Claude Crawford of Binghamton, N. Y. and William Andrews, of Greensboro.

Suitable mounts from the Pinehurst Stables are available for those who wish to follow the trials on horseback. All arrangements may be made through James W. Tufts, Secretary, Pinehurst.
