Southern Pines Recorder's Court

In the regular Wednesday session of Southern Pines Recorder's Court last week, five Negro youths who had been arrested in West Southern Pines for carrying concealed weapons were sternly lectured by Judge W. Harry Fullenwider on the dangers that using weapons illegally could bring to themselves and to others. He cited the case of the young man who was badly wounded by a pistol in the hand of a companion, earlier last week in West Southern Pines.

Because none of the young men had been in court before here, and because members of their families had come to court with them, Judge Fullenwider taxed them with court costs only, after lecturing them on the folly of their actions.

All five had been arrested after a complaint from a West Southern Pines place of business that it appeared they were about to make trouble. They had been riding around in a car together and were picked up by local police as they were starting to leave town. In the car were found a pistol, an iron bar and a knife, the concealed weapons all five were charged with having. The judge directed that the weapons be destroyed.

The defendants, oldest of whom was 21, were: Alphonzo Hargrove of Route 1, West End; Ulice Graham, Jr., of Eastwood; James Curtis Swinnie of Pinehurst; and Quinzell Kimmel and Larry Williams, both of Southern Pines.
