Closets, Storage Space Featured In House Plan Made Available By USDA

Shown here is the floor plan for a three-bedroom house that is one of a series offered to the public by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, to encourage construction of good, low-cost farm homes.

Complete working drawings for this plan (No. 7164) may be obtained from the office of F. D. Allen, county extension chairman, in the Agriculture Building at Carthage, or by writing the extension agricultural engineer at North Carolina State, Raleigh.

Ample closet and storage space are featured in this house. The front door is protected by a small porch and opens into an entry which contains two good-sized closets for coats and other storage.

The back door opens from the covered carport into the utility room, where there is space for a sink, washer and dryer, the water heater, and a closet for outdoor clothing.

In the bathroom, the tub is separated from the lavatory and toilet space. There are shelves for bath linens and supplies. Closets for bed linens and cleaning equipment are located in the corridor near the bedrooms. There are big closets in each bedroom.

Even the carport has large storage space for garden and outdoor equipment.

The U-shaped kitchen and the dining area are located conveniently next to the family room, so that the homemaker can keep an eye on young children while she works. The living room also adjoins.
