The Presidents Message.

President Cleveland's Message is of utsnal length. But the space it occupies is not wasted. It is seldom that a document has issued from the Executive so full of information and instruction for the people. It is tree from verbiage, is written in a plain, business like manner, treats of a large number of subjects and is positive and outspoken in the expression of opin- hives. ions on the important issues of the hour.

Nearly four colums are devoted to our dealings and concerns with foreign nations, and the design of the President is evidently to let the people know the exact position of their Government on all such questions. This portion of the Message, wnich follows a brief and feeling allusion to the death of the Vice-President, contains some interesting points. The President administers a rebuke to Austria for rejecting Mr. Keiley for reasons which could not be acquiesed in with self-respect or without injustice to a large class of our citizens and the abandonment of a vital principle in our Government, and intimates that the position will remain unfilled.

The treaties which figured in the last hours of President Arthur's Administration meet with no favor. The President is emphatically opposed to a Nicaragua ship canal, prefering the Tehnantepec ship rail way as a means of connecting the two

The treatment of home subjects is, of ourse, the chief feature of the Message. The tinancial condition of the Government is good. The revenues for the fiscal year 1885 were $24,829,168 less than for 1884. but they still gave $63,463,771 surplus to the Treasury. The estimated receipts for the current fiscal year are $315,000,-000 and expenditures $245,000,006, leav-large and increasing Treasury surplus, extorted from the people by unnecessary taxation. Hence the President insists that the taxes must be reduced, but he says truly, "The question of the Free Trade is it the vines were not molested by cu not involved, nor is there now any occasion for the general discussion of the wisdom or expediency of a protective system." Industries and interests which have been encouraged by protective laws must not be injured or destroyed, and in any changes that may be made American labor, which is the capital of our workingmen, must be protected. 'The President further recommends that the reductions made shall arply to revenue derived from taxes on the important pecessaries of life so as to lessen

On the subject of the silver coinage the President speaks fully and emphatically. He points out in an exhaustive argument the financial disaster that would result from the driving out of gold by silver com, and most emphatically recommends the suspension of the compulsory coinage of silver dollars directed by the law of 1878. "Every month," rays the president "$2,-000,000 of gold in the public Treasury are paid out for 2,000,000 of sivler dollars to be added to the idle mass alrerdy accumulated." An argument in a para-

The President is fully in accord with the excelent recommendations of the Sec retary of the Navy, and believes that if they are heeded we shall have an American Navy at last. The subject of Polygamy is taken up with earnest feeling and the President urges a law to prevent the importation of Mormons into the country.

Civil-Service Reform is briefly treated but vigorously upheld, although it is evident that the President recognizes the importance of enforcing the rules with as much fairness and as little irritation as possible. Every other subject of interest alluded to by the President is treated with equal frankness, and there is a gratifying absense of the customery desire to shirk the res, onsibility of a positive opinion.

The Message is a safe, clear, conservative paper, and upon the whole is an able state document. From Adam's fall disease came,

The Goldsboro, Snow Hill and Greenville Railroad movement still rolls onward and gathers strength as it goes. It is now looked upon as a settled fact that Pitt county will adopt the subscription measure by a large vote at its election on the question of issuing county Railroad bonds to the amount of $30,000. The election tion will take on the 15th current. Success to the measure .-- Goidsburo Argus.

MANDS OFF, GENTLEMEN!

What a Georgia Paper Says! The Temperance Advocate published

Atlanta, in its issue of the fifth sale: "We publish below letters, parts of which have great significance for Georgia. It will be seen that the South is to be made a special field for the third party move ment, or in other words whether the Prohibitionists of Georgia will or not, these enterprising gentlemen of the North, not satisfied with the superior methods adopted by Georgia, seem determined to force themselves and their (advanced) ideas upon our people. We have a high personal regard for many who are connected with the National Prohibition party, but do think before they come down South to dis turb our methods that have proven success ful, it would be well for tigen to redeet portions of their own territory.

Why not let well enough alone? N man, though he were a tool, would for moment imagine that Fulton county could have been carried for Prohibition by either the Democratic party, the Republican party, or the Prohibition party, but when all came into the fight as good citizens to re deem the county from the liquor curse forgettieg for the time being that they be onged to any political party, then they moved the world. The carrying of Fulton county for Prohibition is called by some the wonder of the nineteenth century. To us it was the simplest thing imaginable. There was no politics in it.

To our third party friends we would suggest that they try local option and let all the people vote on the question without interfering with their party affiliations and they will be more successful.

Of course we have no power to stop those proposed lecturers coming into our State, nor would we if we could. But we can and do give the warning note to our temperance friends that have done so much for Prohibition. It is this, when these gencity or State that Prohil ition bas carried by a third or Prohibition party, then it will be true enough to listen to then.

And when they can show that they have arried one hundred and eleven counties of a State alike situated, while we have carried only one hundred and ten, then it will be time enough for us to adopt their methods in preference to our own."

Explanation Edgar why did you buy so many goods when times are so hard? Well ma, I will explain: Nellie and myself while out walking the other day found the streets of Smithfield almost deserted till we reached the iron front brick store of M. Summerfield & Co. From the crowd we met there we imagined that Sam Jones had put up his tent at that place and entering the store we could but wonder at the busy scene before us. Five men were kept busy selling, measuring and packing goods, and little Captain Sneed at the cash desk busy taking money, handed in from all directions. I asked prices of goods and before I could say "Jack Robinson" I found myself in possession of a fine suit of clothes, Russian circular for Nellie, some shoes, hats, furniture, carpets and other articles which I needed, and after paying for all these things I had enough money left to buy the egg-nogg for Christmas as d pay my next years expenses. The assortment of goods is so large and and the prices I paid are so small that I shall hereafter buy

For these, pretty and inexensive fancy costumes, can be made of bright colored and evening shades of silesia, scraps of velvet and velvetcen, and gold paper or gold figured wall paper.

The figures on the costumes, are cut ou of the paper and pasted neatly on the cos tume of silesia, after it is made up into Mikado and other Japanese and Chines costumes, peasant, watteau shepherd and shepherdess, Lady Teasel, folly, columbine, lown, and other fancy character costumes.

Some of the character costumes' which I have seen made of silesia, velveteen and tinsel paper, for children's parties, this season, are "Little Bo-peep," "Little Boy Bue," "Dick Whitington" with his cat. "A Torreador" or Spanish bull figher, "A German Page," "A Zingava" or Gypsy girl with a tambourine, just such a dress as Carnine wears in the opera of that name,-and really these all looked almost as well as if they were made of silk, satin, real velvet, and gold or silver embroidery or tinsel work.

It is a feature in all the doll collections of this Holiday season that they come in finer finish, at lower prices, and in greater variety than ever before.

There are seen in one store, no less than twenty different kinds of dolls, namely . talking, walking, crying, laughing, singing, washable, American and English ray, American and French rubber, boy, pegro. wax, bisque, composition, formerly called alabaster, dancing and waltzing dolls, beside dolls that can drink milk. play the piano, drive and erawl or creep, and perform other feats.

Dolls are not only given houses to live in, chairs, tables and beos, and all other furniture for the same, and every article of the toilet and dressing table, jewelry, India shawls, muffs, boas, and other furs, just like real live ladies and little girls or babies; for in the classification of dolls, there are not only boy and girl dolls, but dolls of all ages-babies, children, young girl, and full grown lady dolls, and all these dolls have their appropriate garments and dolls ar-ticles of every descripion.
