—"The fall session of Turlington Institute will begin next Tuesday, September 3d."

—"The Board of County Commissioners will meet here in regular session next Monday."

—"Mr. Seth Allen, of Benson, has recently returned from the northern markets where he has been to buy goods."

—"Mr. A. L. Sasser, of Goldsboro, was in to see us Monday and renewed his subscription for another year."

—"Mr. John R. Denning has moved to Benson and engaged with Messrs. J. H. Boon & Son as salesman in their store."

—"It rained every day in this section for 15 days preceding last Sunday. Since then there have been three days without rain."

—"Court will convene here next Monday, Judge W. S. O'B. Robinson, of Goldsboro, presiding. There are nine prisoners in jail at present."

—"Court will be in session here next week. We would remind all of our subscribers and friends that we will be glad to have them call and make themselves at home in our office in the Holt Building, upstairs, next door to Bank."

—"Rev. J. W. Suttle administered the ordinance of baptism to 20 persons at Swift Creek bridge, near Mr. B. R. Jones' last Sunday afternoon. Those baptized became members of Bethesda Baptist church. Several hundred people were present to witness the interesting services."

—"The following item is taken from last week's Wake Wide-awake, a newspaper recently established at Raleigh: 'Mr. Jas. H. Dupree, of Stephenson, Johnston county, had some very nice peaches on the market Tuesday. His best peaches sold readily at $2.00 a bushel. Others sold for 35 cents a peck. Mr. Dupree said the peach crop was short and inferior.'"

—"A correspondent writing from Hillsboro to the Raleigh News and Observer concerning the Orange county Teacher's Institute, has this to say of one of Johnston county's best teachers: 'The address of Prof. Canaday Tuesday night was a gem and was highly complimented. His appeal to the public school teachers to prepare all the boys for 1908 was thrilling.'"

—"One day this week W. F. Parrish and a negro had a little disturbance here. They were tried before Mayor Bingham and found guilty. Judgment was suspended on the negro upon the payment of one-half the costs. Parrish was fined one dollar and half the costs; whereupon he became angry and talked insultingly to the court. Mayor Bingham then sent him to jail 10 days for contempt. He has since been released."

—"There were more than 100 disappointed people at the depot Monday morning when the Hatch Bros. excursion train had passed without stopping. They had come, some quite a distance, with fond anticipations of a day pleasantly spent by the seaside. But when the train sped by at 30 miles an hour their hopes fell and they had to return home much disappointed. We understand that the Messrs. Edgerton, of Kenly, will run an excursion from Dunn, by here, to Ocean View Beach next Tuesday. So those who were disappointed Monday will have an opportunity to yet visit the seashore."

The Professional Building.

The handsome pressed brick front building on Market street almost opposite post office, erected by Dr. E. T. Dickinson and Mr. T. C. Jordan is now complete. It will be known as the Professional Building and will be occupied by Dr. Dickinson, Mr. Jordan, Dr. S. P. J. Lee and Mr. W. W. Cole.

It is a two-story brick building with five rooms on first floor and seven on second. It is a well appointed office building, the rooms being large, well ventilated and conveniently arranged. It has wide, spacious halls and a broad stairway.

The three rooms on the left of entrance on first floor will be occupied by Dr. Dickinson, as office, consultation and operating room. On the right of entrance Mr. T. C. Jordan, the jeweler, will occupy two rooms, store room and work shop.

On the second floor Dr. S. P. J. Lee has his dental offices and reception room. There is no town of this size in this State that has such well appointed dental parlors as has Dr. Lee. Mr. W. W. Cole, lawyer, has offices well arranged on thesecond floor. Both these gentlemen are to be congratulated upon having been able to secure such well arranged and convenient offices.

The Professional Building will be tenanted by four as popular and clever gentlemen as live in Smithfield.

Sudden Death Near Town.

Mr. N. H. Gurley died suddenly at his home near here Monday morning. The following account is taken from Monday's Goldsboro Argus:

The news of the death of Mr. N. H. Gurley at his home in Johnston county this morning was received with genuine regret by his many friends in this city today.

In saying that this community regrets to hear of this good man's death is but mildly expressing it. Genuine and deep sorrow pervades the hearts of his many friends and acquaintances throughout this county, where he was well known and where he had lived all his life until about two years ago, when he married the second time and changed his residence to Johnston county.

We might go on and sum up his virtues and excellent traits of character if they were not so well known. They need no introduction from this source. We could say nothing that would be more to his credit than to tell that he was a brave Confederate soldier and carries with him to his last resting place wounds that he received on the field of battle. He was a prominent character at all gatherings of the Democratic party while he was a citizen of this county and did the excellent service which will not soon be forgotten.

—The Confederate Veterans of this county will have their annual reunion in Smithfield Thursday, September 12th.

—Messrs. Skinner & Ragsdale have 500 receipts for curing hog cholera which they are giving away free to their customers.

—Messrs. W. J. Weeks and M. C. Lamb, of Keener, Sampson county, were here a few days ago, looking at the high prices on our tobacco market.

—The Old Maid's Convention will be held in Sanders Hall next Friday night, September 6th. Everybody, and especially old bachelors, are invited to be present.

—Work is progressing very rapidly on Smithfield's new hotel. Before many months have passed Smithfield will have one of the best hotel buildings of any town of its size in the State.

—Large sales, high prices and pleased farmers tell the story of the past week on the Smithfield market. There is more demand now than a few weeks ago for the better grades and tobaccos worth from 20 to 50 cents a pound are bringing fancy prices.
