The Woodchuck—Cousin to the Squirrel.

H. D. Reed and Verne Morton, in the November number of Country Life in America, tell an interesting and pictorial story of the woodchuck or "ground-hog."

"What could be more unlike in general appearance than a woodchuck and a squirrel? Yet they are cousins, both belong to the same family of mammals.

"The nature of the food of the woodchuck is such that he cannot lay up stores as the chipmunks do, nor is it of such a kind that it can be obtained during the winter.

Reflections of a Bachelor. Some women are so sure to fool men that they will say no even when they mean it.

A man can be engaging without being engaged, and a girl affected without being affectionate.

If concerning marriages a woman considers roses the language of the heart, she also considers dollars the language of the head.

You work to be able to eat and eat to be able to work, but what most men would like would be to be able to do the one without the other.—New York Press.
