The Legislature convened Wednesday at 12 o'clock. The first business of the session in both Houses was the selection of the officers.

The Senate was called to order by Lieutenant-Governor Winston. The roll call showed 49 Senators present. Nominations were then called for and the officers selected in the caucus on Tuesday night were duly elected.

A resolution was passed informing the House of Representatives that the Senate had organized and elected officers.

A resolution adopting the rules and regulations of the Senate in 1905 was passed.

A resolution was passed appointing a committee of two from the Senate and three from the House to notify the Governor that the Legislature was organized and ready for business. Senators Graham and Lovell were appointed on the part of the Senate.

Senators Buxton, Webb and Daniel were appointed a committee on rules. At 1:48 o'clock the Senate adjourned till four o'clock.

At the afternoon session a message was brought to the Senate informing the body that the House had been organized and ready for business. A message was also received from the House informing the Senate that Representatives Doughton, Dowd, Stickley and Carter had been appointed to act with the Senate committee to wait on the Governor.

The committee waited on the Governor and returned with the following message: "Your committee has notified me that you are organized and are prepared to proceed with business. My message will be ready to send you Thursday morning and if consistent with your idea of propriety, I would ask that you meet in joint session in the House of Representatives to-morrow morning at an hour fixed by you that I may in person, read my message to your honorable body, as there are some things I desire especially to emphasize. This was an old custom, and I think a good one, and a personal meeting with you will be appreciated by me." A motion was then passed, appointing two Senators to meet with these Representatives from the House to arrange for a joint meeting Thursday morning. President Winston appointed Senators Aycock and Redwine. The Senate adjourned at 5:55.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

The House of Representatives was called to order at 12 o'clock by Chief Clerk Frank Hackett, who was chief clerk of the House in 1905. After all the members had been sworn in the House proceeded to elect officers.

Representative W. C. Dowd placed in nomination Mr. E. J. Justice, of Guilford. The nomination was seconded by Mr. J. S. Manning, of Durham. The Republicans presented the name of Representative M. N. Harshaw, of Caldwell. Mr. Justice received 95 votes and Mr. Harshaw 32.

Messrs. Harshaw and Dowd were appointed a committee to escort Mr. Justice to the chair. Mr. Justice addressed the House, making a strong speech. In this speech he took a strong stand against the tyranny of the trusts and the public service corporations.

After the other officers of the House had been elected and adjournment was taken to four o'clock.

At the afternoon session a resolution was passed appointing a committee of five to act with the committee of the Senate to inform the Governor that the Legislature was organized and ready for business. The rules of the last House were adopted for the present.

A message from the Governor similar to the one received in the Senate was received in the House.

Mr. Doughton offered a resolution requesting the Governor to present his message to the House and Senate in joint session. This brought about quite a warm discussion, some members favoring the plan and others opposing it.

The motion was finally adopted and the House adjourned at 6:15.

CORONER'S JURY PLACES BLAME.

Conductors and Engineers of Both Trains, Train Dispatcher and Telegraph Operator Held to Be Subjects for the Grand Jury Inquiry.

Washington, Jan. 9.—The coroner's inquest over the Terra Cotta wreck on Sunday night, December 30, to-night held for the action of the grand jury Harry H. Hilderbrand, engineer of the "dead" train No. 2120; Frank T. Hoffmier, conductor of that train; P. F. Dent, night train dispatcher at Baltimore; William E. McCaulley, division operator of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; B. L. Vermillion, engineer of local train No. 66; J. W. Kelley, Jr., trainmaster of the Baltimore and Ohio, and William Dutrow, the telegraph operator at Silver Spring.

All the men held except Dent, McCaulley and Kelley were in the building where the inquest was held, and were at once placed under arrest.

Just before the jury retired today Charles W. Galloway, superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio, was asked by the coroner if he had heard all the testimony and he replied that he had. He was asked if he could point out any rule which had been violated by the witness in his case. Mr. Galloway replied: "They have all been violated; all the rules relating to the movement of trains." Mr. Galloway says that in his opinion, the engineer and conductor of No. 2120, the "dead" train, were equally responsible. He was asked if he was surprised at the disclosure apparently showing laxity among the operators regarding the rules governing their position. He said:

"I am surprised at their disregard of the trust. I can only say that in operating a railroad you must depend upon the fidelity and trustworthiness of the employees. If they are lacking in that, I know nothing that will compensate for it." The verdict of the jury was that the deaths were caused "by impact, due to the act of Operator William Dutrow, in displaying an improper signal to the crew of train No. 2120," and directs that Dutrow be held for the action of the grand jury.

The jury also held for the grand jury the others already mentioned as responsible in a less degree for the deaths. The jury arraigned the block system on the Baltimore and Ohio as not affording satisfactory protection to the lives and property and recommended that all block signal stations be kept open twenty-four hours a day and no additional duties be given the operators aside from working the signals and attending to their telegraphic duties.
