

The Big Cash Store

TO MY FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS:

I have just closed my tenth year, which was decidedly the largest in the history of my business. For this I am indeed grateful to those whose patronage has enabled me to accomplish this gratifying result.

I feel that my appreciation can best be shown by better serving my customers; this I shall endeavor to do to the best of my ability. I shall from this date strive to do a strict cash business. It is not my wish to extend credit to anyone. I find by buying for cash I am enabled to buy the very best goods cheaper than the person who gets dating on his bills, and get an extra discount besides. Cash counts. This is an age of advancement and the farmer who has been buying goods on fall time, paying an extra 25 per cent for a 3 to 6 months purchase is beginning to realize that by paying cash he can save from 20 to 25 per cent that goes into some other fellow's pocket.

I always carry a full stock of the latest, cleanest and best merchandise to be had, and remember, you can get a little better article here than from the fellow who sells you TIME. Wishing you a Prosperous New Year and a continued patronage.

Yours very truly,

PRESTON WOODALL

AIRSHIP FLIGHT WITHOUT A MOTOR

Claim of A. V. Wilson, Who Has Invented a Monoplane.

RESEMBLES BLERIOT MACHINE

Bar Harbor Man Declares He Has Flown as High as Seven Hundred Feet and Stayed Aloft Eighty Minutes—Will Try to Soar From Charles River Ice at Cambridge, Mass.

From the ice surface of Charles river basin at Cambridge, Mass., at some favorable time soon a monoplane with a man in it will rise from the ice, glide over Harvard bridge and settle to the ice again without the use of a motor or artificial power of any kind, according to A. V. Wilson of Bar Harbor, Me., aviator and veteran balloonist, who passed through Boston the other day on his way to New York.

Mr. Wilson after thirty years spent in the handling of balloons says that during the past twenty years he has realized that the conquest of the air could come only from the use of heavier than air machines. He has accordingly spent much of his time in study and experimentation of the various suggested types of kites, monoplanes and biplanes and has perfected and patented what he believes to be a more scientific combination of the recognized principles of aeronautics than any in existence.

Because of lack of funds Mr. Wilson was compelled to confine his early experiments to a motorless apparatus, and he has become so skilled in the art of gliding with this machine along the wind currents that he desires only a strong wind and a frozen river surface to demonstrate the wonderful possibilities of his invention.

Looks Like Bleriot's Machine.

In appearance the monoplane of Mr. Wilson is similar to the machines made famous by the flights of Bleriot and others in recent contests. Two great planes or wings stretch twenty-six feet from tip to tip. Their elevation and depression are controlled by levers in the hands of the operator, who sits on the framework between their inner ends.

Running backward from the operator's position is a tailpiece thirteen and one-half feet long, on the end of which is the lateral and horizontal rudder. This tailpiece is strengthened with wire guys running to the uttermost ends of the framework supporting the wings. Stout skids are placed under the ends of the plane supporting framework and tend to keep the wings above the ground when starting and landing.

In making flights without artificial power a wind of from twenty to forty miles an hour is required. The operator takes his seat with the apparatus facing into the wind, adjusts the planes into the lifting position and with a pushing start given to the machine by assistants rises by the force of the wind against the slightly up-turned planes.

Flies 700 Feet High.

A sliding weight is manipulated along a forward extension of the framework and can be run far out in front of the operator or drawn back to his position, thus acting in much the same way as the downward and forward pull of a kite string. By sliding the weight forward a tendency is created toward a forward and downward glide. The downward tendency is offset by the elevation of the planes, and the resulting progress is forward at a plane regulated by the angle of the wings. To descend it is simply necessary to depress the planes so that the wind strikes against their upper surfaces.

Mr. Wilson states that during his experiments at Eagle lake, Bar Harbor, Me., this winter he has made flights ranging as high as 700 feet and has remained in the air as long as an hour and twenty minutes, using the frozen surface of the lake as a starting and landing place and circling the lake in his flights. His machine is constructed of spruce frames, piano wire and "balloon cloth," a rubber or oil treated fiber.

His career has been a thrilling one. Wilson's first balloon trip was in 1860, when he was a boy about fourteen years of age and entered a captive balloon in Boston. The man in charge of the rope lost control of it, and the balloon landed in Walpole, Mass., after a flight of about thirteen hours.

Since that time Wilson has constantly followed ballooning and has made between 1,000 and 1,700 parachute drops. About 1885 he commenced with heavier than air machines.

A Princess an Inventor.

Princess Anna of Lowenstein-Wortheim, in Germany, recently patented under the name of Karma, an invention to prevent seasickness by keeping the berth horizontal, no matter how ever the ship may roll. The balance is maintained by gimbels similar to those in use on marine compasses, but the princess also employs magnets and electricity. The inventor believes the principle is adaptable to guns on warships and operating tables on hospital ships.

Marriage at Benson.

A very quiet marriage was celebrated at the home of Mrs. Emily Rose in Benson, December 30th, 1909, the contracting parties being Mr. H. H. Keen, of Dunn, and Mrs. Emily Rose, of Benson. The ceremony was performed by the writer in the presence of a few relatives and friends. After the ceremony the wedding party and guests were invited to the dining room where an elegant wedding dinner was served.

We wish for them a long and useful life.

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble as well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results, is pleasant to take and does not gripe. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.509 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.
