

EDITOR J. P. PITTMAN DEAD.

For Long Number of Years He Had Edited The Weekly Guide At Dunn, N. C.

Dunn, Oct. 31.—Editor J. P. Pittman, of the Weekly Guide, passed away this morning at 6:30 o'clock. He had been seriously ill for ten days. He was 48 years old. He came to Dunn in 1894 and became associated with George K. Grantham and E. F. Young in the newspaper work. He purchased the Times in 1896 from the above named gentlemen, since which time he has been actively engaged in the newspaper work in Dunn. He was a Missionary Baptist and active in his church work, and was a strong factor in the upbuilding of the town and community, always taking his stand on the moral side of all questions. He leaves a widow and one sister, Mrs. J. W. Lane, his father, mother and two brothers having died several years ago. The funeral services will be conducted tomorrow morning at eleven o'clock from the First Baptist church by his pastor, Dr. J. A.

Ellis, and the burial will take place at Greenwood Cemetery. He was married to Miss Foy Barnes, of Buie's Creek, August 9, 1900.

A Word in Regard to Coal and Wood

The time is coming when the citizens of the community will more thoroughly realize that it is absolutely necessary for us all to economize, particularly in the use of coal and wood. It is now impossible to buy a car load of soft coal, either Run of Mine or Lump—and many industrial plants in the State are shutting down for lack of coal. The writer is familiar with the coal situation and has used his best efforts in trying to supply the community with coal. There is no prospect in sight of securing soft coal any time soon. The shortage in soft coal is owing to the tremendous demand for all steaming purposes, such as railroad, ships on the high seas and all industrial plants in this country and abroad. Hard coal is obtainable in limited quantities. The writer has had the good luck to secure one car load of nut and one car load of egg Pennsylvania Anthracite to be delivered in the next few days.

I hope my customers will send in their orders for this coal in limited quantities, say one or two tons at the time, so that the entire community may be made comfortable. I would suggest that those who have wood or who can secure it for fuel, do so.

With great respect,
