ECONOMICAL FEEDS FOR LIVESTOCK

The Animal Industry Division Feeds Hundreds of Hogs Each Year to Determine the Best and Cheapest Rations.

Waste, or Damaged Peanuts, Is Valuable As Hog Feed.

A fall seldom passes without bringing with it some rainy weather just when peanuts are in shock and in condition to be dragged. Some years the loss of peanuts is exceedingly heavy. Other years it is almost nothing. When farmers do suffer losses of this kind it is well to know that damaged peanuts are valuable for hogs and that they may be substituted for vast amounts of corn and other concentrates.

In fact, damaged peanuts are so valuable that they should be thought of as being in a class with wheat shorts, wheat bran, peanut meal, and soybean meal rather than as damaged goods. It may not be so this year, but it has often happened that damaged peanuts realized more as a result of being fed to hogs than they would have brought had they remained sowed and been sold as marketable nuts.

This test was made upon the Edgecombe Branch Station Farm right in the center of the peanut-growing section. One lot of pigs was placed in a small pen and given a ration made up of two-thirds corn plus one-third wheat shorts. A second lot of similar pigs was fed the same amount of corn but damaged peanuts were substituted for the wheat shorts. The pigs in the first lot, where corn and shorts were fed, gained during the whole feeding period of 149 days 7 of a pound daily, while those in the lot where damaged peanuts were substituted for the wheat shorts, gained 8 of a pound daily. The peanuts proved to be superior, too, to the wheat shorts in economy of gains. When shorts were employed 7.3 bushels of corn plus 204 pounds of shorts were required to produce one hundred pounds of increase in weight; when damaged peanuts were fed only 5 bushels of corn plus 141 pounds of peanuts were required to produce an equal increase in weight. Pound for pound the damaged peanuts proved to be far superior to wheat shorts. In fact, these damaged peanuts were so valuable as a feed for hogs that they were sold through the hogs, for $1.36 a bushel when corn was valued at $2.00 a bushel and hogs at $16.00 a hundred-weight.

COTTONSEED MEAL 'CHEAPENS' RATION FOR WORK ANIMALS.

Realizing some years ago that the time had come when farmers who raise live stock and employ work stock must give some heed to the amount and kind of grain consumed by them the State Agricultural Experiment Station inaugurated some investigational work upon the Iredell, the Edgecombe and the Pender Branch Station Farms to determine just the place of cottonseed meal in the ration of a work animal. Some of the work animals upon these farms are fed upon a ration made up of corn and oats. Their team mates are fed exactly the same feed except that the corn is reduced some and cottonseed meal substituted.

This piece of investigation is not nearly completed; in fact, it is only really begun, but still some valuable and definite facts have come to the surface. It has been found, for instance, that no little amount of money is being saved by the introduction of cottonseed meal into the ration. When corn is valued at $2.00 a bushel, oats at 64 cents a bushel and cottonseed meal at $50.00 a ton the yearly expense of the feed bill of each work animal upon the Iredell Branch Station Farm was reduced $5.38 as a result of using even extremely small amounts of cottonseed meal in conjunction with corn and oats.

When the amounts of cottonseed are increased and the amounts of corn correspondingly decreased—and this is to be done soon—the annual saving will be still greater. All of the mules are in good health and have practically maintained constant weights. It is noticeable each spring, however, that the animals which have the small allowance of cottonseed meal "shed off" earlier and more uniformly than do those eating corn as the sole concentrate.

SAVE THE SWEET POTATO CROP

AN EXCELLENT TYPE OF STORAGE HOUSE FOR POTATOES.

Though North Carolina produces a good crop of sweet potatoes each year, a conservative estimate places the loss due to poor storage facilities at 50 per cent of this crop. Also, through lack of storage facilities prices for potatoes are lowered at digging time by the dumping of more potatoes than the market can care for. This produces a shortage from the latter part of March until the last of July when the early crop begins to make its appearance. For this reason the Division of Horticulture in co-operation with the National Department of Agriculture is now conducting a campaign to have as many storage houses built in North Carolina as possible. The sweet potato crop this year will be the largest in the history of the country. North Carolina will produce the largest crop in the history of the State, and will thus provide a surplus of a product that will be needed to take the place of other foods which have become high and scarce, owing to the war conditions. With this large crop on hand the question has arisen as to the best methods to save all of the crop harvested.

Experience has proven that storage houses are more to be depended upon than the old style earthen banks. These houses are wooden, hollow-wall structures with a special system of ventilation, and may be constructed to hold varying amounts from 500 to 50,000 bushels of the roots at one time. They have proven very successful in keeping the potatoes, having been tried both in an experimental and practical way, at the Pender branch station. At this station it was found that the loss in the houses was practically nothing, while a third of the roots were lost when placed in the old-style banks. In some cases the whole bank has been a total loss, or 20 per cent of the potatoes injured from the standpoint of marketable stock.

Many large growers over the State have already manifested much interest in these houses, many having built new houses or remodeled their old ones.

The Division of Horticulture is supplying, upon application, plans for building the houses, and will give advice in the erection and operation of them. It is estimated by Mr. R. G. Hill of the Horticultural Division that the building of houses advocated by his division will mean a saving to the farmers or the community, and will also mean that needed food will be saved to supply the market that now cannot be supplied during every year from March to July.

Extension Circular No. 30, "The Storage of Sweet Potatoes," and Farmers' Bulletin No. 847, "Potato Storage and Storage Houses," will be supplied free of charge, as long as the supply lasts, to all making application.

PROPHET TELLS OF WAR'S END

German Monk in 1701 Fixed Three Years and Five Months of Strife.

AMERICAN ENTRY FORETOLD

Document Discovered in Old Monastery in Mecklenburg Describes "Wagons Without Horses" and "Fiery Dragons of the Air."

Copenhagen.—In the razing of the old monastery of the Holy Ghost in Wismar, Mecklenburg, an old Bible was found which contained a remarkable prophecy regarding the present world war. It was written in 1701 by one of the monks on parchment that is now yellow and seared with age. It is now on exhibition in a glass case in the city hall of Wismar. So much publicity has been given to the prophecy in the papers of Germany that thousands have flocked to Wismar to see it.

The prophecy not only gives the cause of the war, but also indicates the countries engaged. Up to the present it has been amazingly accurate. It does not exactly state that Germany will be victorious, but indicates how long the war will last, when the decisive battle will be fought, and where and when peace will come, and adds that Germany will continue to exist as a power for many years. A translation of the writing on the parchment is as follows:

"When Malignity and Hatred Rule"

"Lord, have mercy on thy people despite the fact that they are turning more and more away from thee; that they are destroying thy monasteries and cloisters and forgetting thee. A time will come in Europe when these people will feel the weight of thy hand, when malignity and hatred will rule. It will be at a time when the papal seat will be vacant, and the conflagration will come as the result of the murder of a prince. Seven nations will rise against the eagle with one head and the eagle with two heads. The birds will defend themselves furiously and viciously with their talons, and their wings will protect their people. A prince from their very midst, a sovereign who mounts his horse from the wrong side, will be encompassed by a wall of enemies. His slogan will be 'Onward with God!' The Almighty God will lead him from victory to victory and many will meet their death.

"There will be wagons without horses, and fiery dragons will fly through the air dropping fire and sulphur and destroying cities and villages. The people will turn to God. The terrible war will last three years and five months. The time will come when food can neither be sold nor bought, and bread will be carefully distributed. The seas will be tinged with blood and men will lie in wait under the waves for their prey."

America's Entry Foretold.

Here follows a reference to America, which was in those times often referred to as the "country of the seven stars."

"The people of the Seven Stars will attack the ring of steel and suddenly fall upon the bearded nation in the rear and rend it in twain. The whole of the lower Rhine will tremble, but nevertheless will endure to the end. "The land to the west will be one vast desolation, and the land in the ocean will, with its king, be crushed and suffer all the pangs of hunger. The land of the bearded people will still endure for a long time to come, and following the war the world will be united in one great brotherhood.

"The victors will carry a cross, and between four small cities and four steeples of equal height the decisive battle will be fought. Between two linden trees the victor will fall upon his knees before his army, lift his hands to heaven and thank God. Following this all ungodliness will disappear; the indecent dances that prevailed before the war will be seen no more, and God will reign in church, state and family.

"The war will commence when the grain is ripening and will reach its height when the cherries bloom for the third time. Peace will be consummated by the prince in time for the Christmas mass."

All German newspapers have commented on this amazing prophecy. "It is remarkable," says one paper, "how accurately this monk has predicted events as they have thus far occurred. We sincerely hope that the longed-for peace will come, as he says, in order that we all may breathe freely again."
