

That our readers may fully understand this allusion to the conduct of President Adams, in regard to Mr. Jefferson, we give the following poetical effusion from his pen, which appeared in the Boston Gazette, in 1802:

SONG,

Supposed to have been written by the Sage of Monticello.

*Et etiam fuscâ grata colore Venus... Ovid.
And Venus pleases though as black as jet.*

Of all the damsels on the green,
On mountain or in valley,
A lass so luscious ne'er was seen
As Monticellian Sally.
Yankee doodle, who's the noodle?
What wife were half so handy?
To breed a flock of slaves for stock,
A blackamoor's the dandy.

Search every town and city through,
Search market, street, and alley;
No dame at dusk shall meet your view,
So yielding as my Sally.
Yankee doodle, &c.

When press'd by loads of state affairs,
I seek to sport and dally,
The sweetest solace of my cares
Is in the lap of Sally.
Yankee doodle, &c.

Let Yankee parsons preach their worst,
Let tory wittings rally!
You men of morals! and be curst,
You would snap like sharks for Sally.
Yankee doodle, &c.

She's black you tell me—grant she be—
Must color always tally?
Black is love's proper hue for me—
And white's the hue for Sally.
Yankee doodle, &c.

What though she by the glands secretes,
Must I stand shil-I shall I?
Tack'd up between a pair of sheets,
There's no perfume like Sally.
Yankee doodle, &c.

You call her slave—and pray were slaves
Made only for the galley?
Try for yourselves, ye witless knaves,
Take each to bed your Sally.
Yankee doodle, &c.

In 1805, Mr. Adams presented the public with another exquisite specimen of native wit and genius, in his poetical attempt to ridicule the expedition of Capt. Lewis to the Rocky Mountains—the concluding stanzas of which is as follows:

Let dusky Sally henceforth bear
The name of Isabella:
And let the mountain all of salt,
Be christen'd Monticella.
The hog with naval on his back,
Tom Paine may be when drunk, sir,
And Joel called the prairie-dog,
Which once was called a skunk, sir.

From the Washington Telegraph.

Extract of a letter, from the Hon. Mr. Alston, dated, Butterwood, N. C. July 10th, 1828.

Gentlemen: Since my arrival at home I have mixed but little with my friends and neighbors, owing to indisposition, but all I have seen I have conversed freely with on the subject of the Presidential election, and have no doubt of the result of the vote of the State; not less than three for one will be for Gen. Jackson; the calculation is four or five to one.

In my immediate district there will not be five hundred for the Administration, out of upwards of three thousand votes.

At a 4th of July parade where I was, it was said four only were for the Administration, and it was doubted whether either of them would vote for Mr. Adams. The company was large and very respectable; not less than fifty dined together.

Tax on Molasses.—The following paragraphs are extracted from some remarks in the last Fayetteville Journal:

"An article on this subject appears in the Raleigh Register of the 11th inst. which is intended to cast the odium of the 'Molasses Tax,' and of consequence, the whole Tariff, upon the two Senators and seven of the members of the House of Representatives from this State. It is well known that these gentlemen voted against the bill in all its stages. They were not like those parsons of political consistency, Messrs. Webster and Burgess, who spoke against the Tariff, and yet voted for it! They were consistent in their opposition, and were determined, if this 'bill of abominations' did pass, notwithstanding their opposition to it, that it should not be divested of those features which would operate upon the East as well as upon the South.

"But why are the Messrs. Gales' thus solicitous to build up the reputation of Mr. Webster, at the expense of the venerable Macon, Governor Branch and others? The reasons are obvious. Mr. Webster is the right hand man of the Coalition: he is now the great advocate of high prohibitory duties (such as suit the East:) he is the champion of Mr. Clay's 'American System;' his political fate is linked in with that of Mr. Clay, Mr. Adams, and all their retainers and worshippers, even down to those who receive $350 for publishing the St. Domingo notice six times.

"The fact is undeniable, that among the few, who justify the Tariff in the Southern States, the friends of the administration stand alone. The article in the Register which we are noticing, proves this fact. They do not condemn the Tariff, but they condemn certain of our members, for not expunging from the bill all that was objectionable to Mr. Adams and his friends of the East. They are willing to see the South ground down into the dust, so that the East may prosper, and with it, Mr. Adams' popularity. The friends of the administration in this State are the only Tariff men, or why have they selected Mr. Rush, the Tariff secretary, as their candidate for the Vice-Presidency—why are they such friends of Mr. Clay's 'American System,'—why is every Southern feeling and policy so little in unison with their own?"

Salisbury, July 15.—The wheat crop is harvested, and has turned out well; in a few instances only, where it was cut too green, has it been injured. New wheat is freely offered at 50 cents per bushel, and it is thought it will sell at 40. The corn and cotton crops are very promising; if the season continues propitious, it is believed by those who ought to know, that corn will be sold in the fall at 20 cents a bushel. Old corn is plentiful, and sells for less than 30 cents.—Carolinian.

The crop of sugar in Louisiana has this year been very abundant. It is estimated at 60,000 hhds.—some say more. The molasses of course is 30,000 hhds.

Murder.—A young man named Sherwood H. Broom, a shoemaker, was killed in this place (says the Milton Gazette) on the 4th inst. by Henry Brewer. Broom was stabbed in the breast, and only lived two or three minutes. We understand Broom was born near Greenville, Pitt county, in this State, where his relations now live. He has been in this place several months, and it is said has conducted himself very prudently.

Excessive Heat.—The Frederick (Md.) Citizen of Friday last, states that eleven instances of sudden death, from exposure to the heat, and drinking cold water, have occurred in that county, since the commencement of the present harvest.

Foreign.—Liverpool papers to the 9th June have been received at New-York. A slight advance had again been realized in the Cotton market. The British cabinet has been dissolved—and the ministers best known to the public as able and experienced statesmen, and men of business, have all resigned. A new ministry has been formed, which it is supposed will soon share the fate of their predecessors.

The intelligence that the Russian troops crossed the lower Pruth and the Danube in several corps on the 7th May at Roni and Ismael is confirmed. On their approach, Gratz was set fire to by the Turks, who retired to Brailow, and the principalities of Moldavia and Wallachia were occupied without resistance by the invaders.

Letters from Jassy, dated May 9, state that the Russians continue to advance with rapidity—their advanced posts were on that day 38 wersts beyond Jassy. Their force occupying Moldavia amounted to 35,000 men.

A letter from Constantinople dated the 26th April, states that on the 21st there had been a grand cavalry review, at which the Sultan appeared in European costume, and commanded in the European manner. The conduct of the Sultan and the Divan appears composed and resolute; and in the capital tranquillity prevailed, tho' not unaccompanied by apprehension. Several Russian vessels of war had appeared at the mouth of the Bosphorus, which led to the apprehension of a bombardment.
