RELIGION AND JUSTICE.

From the Poem of Dermot Mac Morrogh, by Ex-President Adams.

Divine Religion! bliss of man below,
Thou link of union between earth and skies,
Nurse of our virtue, solace of our woe;
Love of the learned, wisdom of the wise,
Thou from whose fountain, streams perennial flow
Of prayer sincere, and prayer and penance rise,
Oh! how canst thou behold such deeds of shame,
Such crimes accurst committed in thy name."

And if there be a Ruler of the Skies,
Justice, eternal justice is his law—
And whatsoever of justice earth denies,
Angelic hands in Heaven shall mend the flaw.
Rise, then, on Hope's seraphic pinions rise!
From worlds beyond the grave thy comfort draw
And deem the wrongs that virtue here sustains,
Proofs that on high a God of justice reigns.

The following satirical stanzas are from "Friendship's Offering," a beautiful English Annual for 1833, recently published:

RESPECTABILITY.

"Pray what do you mean by 'respectability?'
Is it wisdom or worth, Sir, or rank or gentility?
Is it rough sound sense, or a manner refined?
Is it kindness of heart, or expansion of mind?
Is it learning, or talent, or honor, or fame,
That you mean by that phrase so expressive to name?"

"No, no, these are not, Sir, the things now in vogue—

A respectable man, Sir, may be a great rogue;
A respectable person may be a great fool,
Have lost e'en the little he picked up at school—
Be a glutton, adulterer, deep drowned in debt,
May forfeit his honor, his best friend forget;
May be a base sycophant, tyrant, or knave,
But a livery servant at least he must have;
In vice he may vie with the vilest of sinners,
But he must have a cook and give capital dinners."

Dermot Mac Morrogh, or the Conquest of Ireland, an historical tale of the twelfth century, in four cantos, by John Quincy Adams. This is the title of a neat pamphlet of 108 pages, recently published in Boston. It is spoken very highly of, in several of the northern papers. The Boston Advocate states that the ex-President has been eminently successful in this fanciful, but elegant trifling of his leisure hours. He has chosen for his theme the events which led to the possession of Ireland by England in the twelfth century, and as has always been the fact, since the days of Eve and Helen, in all conquests and downfalls of man and empires, a woman is the cause of all. Dermot, King of Leinster, seizes and carries off Dovegilda, wife of Ororic, who in return, attacks Dermot and drives him out of the kingdom. He applies to Henry of England for succor, and ravages his kingdom, which he consents to hold in vassalage under the crown of England. Henry availed himself of this claim, and thro' it achieved the entire conquest of Ireland. This outline Mr. Adams has wrought up to a beautiful moral, illustrating the trite, but as he conceives, false maxim, that History is Philosophy teaching by example; an aphorism which has made a greater fortune in the world than it deserves. Mr. Adams, in his preface to the poem, says: "It is intended also as a moral tale, teaching the citizens of these States, of both sexes, the virtues of conjugal fidelity, of genuine piety, and of devotion to their country, by pointing the finger of scorn, at the example six hundred years since exhibited, of a country sold to a foreign invader, by the joint agency of violated marriage vows, unprincipled ambition and religious imposture."

Georgia anti-Tariff Convention.—This assembly has adjourned, after much warm debating and no little crimination and recrimination amongst its members. Mr. Forsythe and Col. Cumming seemed to have headed the party opposed to nullification, and Messrs. Berrien and Clayton those who espoused the doctrine. The former, after having protested against the authority of the Convention as representing the people of Georgia, seceded, followed by 52 others, leaving about 69 behind, who adopted sundry resolutions, some of which assert principles, which no republican can reject, and concluded by inviting the people of the State to join in a Southern Convention to meet in March next, for the purpose of devising such measures as may best conduce to the removal of the burthens imposed by the existing tariff. The President of the Convention is directed to communicate the resolutions to the several States, having common interest in the removal of the grievances complained of—so that we suppose they will be received in time to be laid before our present General Assembly. What they will do, time must determine.—Raleigh Constitutionalist.

Georgia Legislature.—A proposition is before the Legislature, to invite the States of North and South Carolina, Alabama, Virginia, Tennessee, and Mississippi, to join the state of Georgia, in a Convention, to consider the subject of the Tariff, and devise the most effectual and proper mode of obtaining relief from it. The Convention to be held in case five of the six states agree to unite in it.

We also find the following, among the notices of bills brought in:

"Mr. Haynes—An act declaring it a high misdemeanor for any Attorney, Solicitor, or Counsellor to appear in any Court in this State, in behalf of any Cherokee Indian, or descendant of a Cherokee Indian, or of any white person, in any cause, motion, or petition, calling in question the State's right of jurisdiction over that portion of her territory in the occupancy of the Cherokee Indians, or who shall make any motion, or in any manner attempt to enforce the late decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Worcester and Butler against the State of Georgia—and to provide for the punishment of the same."

It would seem from the above, that State Rights are to be sustained upon high grounds in Georgia.

A bill has been also introduced, against the President and Directors of future failing Banks, comprising a penalty of "thirty-nine lashes on their naked backs, and imprisonment at the discretion of the Court."

The Statue.—The last Greensboro' Patriot publishes a letter from Mr. Ball Hughes, the person employed by the state to restore the statue of Washington, to the Editor of that paper, complaining of the notice lately taken of him by the Patriot, and in no select terms, pronouncing the statement that he had got $3,000 and runaway, to be a "shameful and outrageous lie." He declares, "on his honor, that he has never received one or any of the instalments, until they became justly due according to the terms of the contract." He goes on to say—

"It always was my intention to restore the marble in Raleigh; but I am not in any way bound to restore the busts there. The news of the dreadful cholera here hurried me away from Raleigh; but not until I had completed my contract to the utmost for what I had been paid; neither have I ever received any money which I was not, by such contract, strictly entitled to. The less of one of my best workmen, and other reasons not necessary to mention here, demanded I should restore the busts, (not the Statue,) in New York, where I have every convenience for so doing; and by which arrangement the work in question would have been forwarded some months."

The Editor, in his reply, says that he made his statement on the authority alone of common report.

The Raleigh Constitutionalist, commenting upon the singular conduct of Mr. Hughes, very correctly remarks, if he "has any regard for that reputation which gained for him the confidence of our Legislature, and secured for him a bonus of $2,300, he will return forthwith to his duties, instead of attempting to vindicate himself through the columns of a newspaper, by prevarication."

New Paper in Wilmington.—The Fayetteville Observer says: We learn that H. S. Ellenwood, Esq. advantageously known as a writer, in this state, and formerly co-editor of one of the Boston papers, has issued proposals for a weekly paper in Wilmington, to be commenced as soon as the materials can be procured from the North. With regard to the character of the paper, we learn, that it will be devoted principally to the interests of the merchant and farmer; and will give the current news of the day, fairly and impartially, without distinction of party.

THE Tract of Land commonly called the Lamon Tract, lying on the south side of Tar River, in NASH COUNTY, extending from the river to the road at the half-way distance from Tarborough to Raleigh, and also lies on the stage road from Nashville to Raleigh, which situation would be a suitable one for a Tavern and Store.
