DEATH.

Death is here, and death is there,
Death is busy every where—
All around, within, beneath,
Above is death—and we are death.

Death has set his mark and seal
On all we are and all we feel,
On all we know, and all we fear:
First our pleasures die—and then
Our hopes, and then our fears—and when
These are dead, the debt is due,
Dust claims dust—and we die too.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman residing near Smithville, N. C. to a gentleman in this town:—

"A finer instance of female courage and presence of mind, was perhaps never witnessed in any age of the world, than the one I will relate, which took place in this county (Brunswick) near the town of Smithville, a short time since. A negro man (Joe, the property of old Capt. Brown,) went to the house of Mr. Daniel Bennet in his absence with the intention of committing an assault—Mrs. Bennet was in the house, when he entered and made known his intentions to her; she immediately rose up, when he threw his arms around her, she however by her exertions got rid of him for a moment, when he went to a large crack in the house to see if any person was approaching; while he was in this position, she seized a shot gun which was loaded with buck shot and shot him dead on the spot—she immediately communicated to her neighbors what she had done. A Coroner's inquest was held, when she appeared before the Jury and swore that she had done the deed, and why she did it."—Fayetteville Jour.

The Editor of the Richmond Whig has been imposed upon by some one, who has informed him that Gen. Blair, of South Carolina, was fined but five dollars for his assault upon the Editor of this paper. The fine imposed by the Court was three hundred instead of five dollars.—U. S. Telegraph.

Interesting Chemical Discovery.—A late Paris paper says: A singular and highly important discovery has recently been made by Messrs. Capron and Boniface, chemists, at Chailot. By a process, which they keep secret, and to which they give the name of "Mummification," they have succeeded, after passing a number of years in experiments, in so modifying and perfecting the known processes of preserving bodies as to reduce them to mummies, leaving all the forms unaltered. All the elements of disorganization which show themselves in the human body so soon after death are completely destroyed, and not only the external body, but all the viscera, the lungs, the heart, the liver, and even the brain, are perfectly preserved; the features also remain so perfectly uninjured, that correct portraits may be taken at any length of time after death, and, as the body is not enveloped in bandages as in the Egyptian method, the natural forms are perfectly preserved. The operation requires but a very few days, after which the dead bodies may be preserved in a room or a vault, or interred in the ordinary way, without being accessible to worms. They may also be exposed to all the variations of the air, either in a standing or sitting position, without undergoing any alteration. The inventors do not intend to make their process public, but it may be adopted, even by those who reside at a considerable distance from Paris, as a body placed in a leaden coffin or bathing tub, and completely surrounded by ice, may be kept uninjured for twenty days, and the operation may still be performed. At the last meeting of the Academie des Sciences, a human body, and also two hearts preserved in this manner, were exhibited, and the process appeared perfect; the discolored state of the skin, occasioned by the scar of an old wound, was fully perceptible, and not the slightest change of any kind was perceptible.
