

MISCELLANEOUS.

[The reader will be at no loss in applying the following to "Uncle Sam" and his family.]
From the Wilmington Advertiser.
MULTUM IN PARVO.

John Trott, one day, in some old quirk,
Cried "Dang it, father, I won't work;
You may command—but darn my eyes
If I'll obey!—I nullifies!"
Two heavy cudgels then he took,
And both o'er Father's head he shook,
Protesting, he abhorred dissention,
And had, to quarrel, no intention.
The old man bit his lip, of course,
And hinted at the use of force;
And, when his sons about him got,
He told them of the said John Trott,
And how on purpose to disgrace him,
The dog had dared with clubs to face him!
Nay further, the presuming elf
Was fain to set up for himself,
Intent to form some new alliance,
And bid old Dad a stern defiance!
This spake he in a furious pother,
To make them pounce upon their brother.
The obedient boys heard Father out,
Then—looked indifferently about;
Some said John in the main was right,
Although a little impolite;
That gentle means, instead of passion,
Were properest for the sad occasion;
That none could drive a lad so brave;
'Twere best to coax him to behave;
That, really, on the whole, they'd rather
Stand up for John, than stand by Father!
Some said that John was wrong—but still
To punish him seemed shocking ill!
He was their brother—they must like him,
And, Father, we can't let you strike him;
For, if we help you, in this fuss,
Some day you may come down on us;
The fittest course to end the fray
Is—give the fellow his own way;
Let him but manage as he pleases,
At once this household wrangling ceases,
And we shall be, as heretofore,
A happy family once more.
This wise advice was, to be sure,
Disinterested, as 'twas pure;
But well the old man knew, the door,
Opened for one, would let out more;
(As a whole flock of sheep will each
Follow the ram that makes a breach);
And, well convinced he had the power
To make the rebel's spirit cower,
Resolved to show the spunk that he did,
He gave no ground—no point conceded.
Words crowd on words, and threats on threats,
Whilst neither side the advantage gets;
The Father prates of legal forms,
The Son for independence storms,
And while the writs are out for Johnny,
Still shakes the cudgels at old Croncy,
The bloodless battle, as it rages,
The neighbors' eyes and ears engages;
Such wordy war, such fierce sham fighting,
All curious folk take vast delight in,
And wonder if the Son or Sire
Shall victory gain—without a fire!
While some espouse the old man's cause,
And wish success to "rights and laws,"
Hundreds bawl out, with brazen throat,
"Hurrah for pluck, and brave John Trott!"

Washington Steam Mill.—During the present week we have paid a visit to the Steam Saw Mill, recently erected by our enterprising fellow citizens, Messrs. Fannahill & Lavender. The building is large and commodious, located at the eastern extremity of the town; and, from its situation, constitutes a handsome ornament to our harbor. It is placed on piles driven into the bottom of the river, commencing at four feet water and extending to the edge of the channel, where vessels drawing nine feet may load in safety. The engine is on the high pressure principle, of 44 horse power, carrying two gangs of saws, capable of turning out about 12,000 feet of lumber per day. The machinery has but recently been put in operation, and its movement is such as to give entire satisfaction to the proprietors. The whole has been erected under the superintendence of Mr. John Patrick, of Wilmington, and the work redounds to his credit as an efficient engineer. We trust the enterprising proprietors may realize a liberal share of patronage in return for their undertaking.
Washington N. C. Union.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Rail Road.—It affords us much pleasure to announce, that in obedience to the instructions of a very large majority of the freeholders and voters of this town, that the Commissioners have resolved to contract for a loan of $200,000, to be invested in the stock of this Company; this with the individual subscription already made, will be more than sufficient for the organization of the Company; and the commencement of the work during the spring, may be reasonably calculated on. We hope to be able to show that the probable amount of transportation of produce, merchandize, &c. over this road, will be so great as to demonstrate that the stock in this Company will be as profitable if not more so than the stock of any other Company in the Union.—Fayetteville J. L.

Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road.—It will be gratifying to the friends of this important enterprise, to learn that the Surveying party which left Portsmouth on the 10th December last, for the purpose of a survey with a view to the location of the route of the contemplated Rail Road from Portsmouth to the Roanoke, have returned. We learn that the whole distance from the wharf at Portsmouth to the wharf at Weldon is but 76½ miles, and that the obstacles to the completion of the Road are even less than had been anticipated. The route surveyed crosses the Petersburg Rail Road track about two miles from Blakeley.—Norfolk Beacon.

Col. Johnson's celebrated race mare Bennets o' Blue, which was beaten in Columbia on the 24th ult. has been withdrawn from the turf. A statement of her account is published in the Columbia Telescope, by which it appears that she has won $13,050, and sold for $4,000, making $22,050—and has lost $5,020—balance in her favor, $17,030.

The Turf Register states that Mr. J. D. Ams has been heard to declare that Sir Archy has cleared him seventy-six thousand dollars! after deducting all expenses and the interest on the original purchase money.

Historical Mystery.—A most curious discussion is now going on in European circles, on the question whether Louis Philippe, king of France, is Louis Philippe. The Baroness of Steinberg, formerly Lady Newborough, has published a pamphlet, under the title of "Maria Stella, or the criminal exchange of a young girl of the highest birth for a boy of the lowest condition;" in which she denies the legitimacy of Louis Philippe, and asserts her own claim to the throne of France. The facts alleged by this lady, as abridged from the Caledonian Mercury, are, that in 1773 the Duke de Chartres, afterwards Duke de Orleans, alias Philippe Egalite, travelled in Italy with the Duchess de Chartres, under the name of Joinville; that during the Duchess's accouchment they staid at Modigliana, where she was delivered of a daughter; that Maria Stella, afterwards Lady Newborough and Baroness Steinberg, is that same person, and is accordingly Mademoiselle de Orleans; that she was by her real father, the Duke de Chartres, exchanged with the jailor, Chiapini, for a boy, of whom Madame Chiapini was delivered about the same time; that Louis Philippe, King of the French, is that same boy; that the Duke de Chartres' motive for making the exchange was to secure in his family a considerable property, which would have gone past him to another branch unless he had male issue; that the Duchesse de Chartres had several daughters before this time, and now despaired of ever having sons: that the Baroness of Steinberg found her information respecting her origin strongly confirmed by family likeness, and that she took the opinion of several eminent French lawyers on her case, and always obtained one in her favor. She inserts in her book, letters from several of the gentlemen of the long robe, with their full signatures.

Eruption of Mount Aetna.—A violent eruption of Mount Aetna took place on the 17th and 18th of November last, which destroyed Bronte, a town situated nine leagues from Catania, and which contained a population of about 10,000 persons.
