

To the passage of the 3d Resolution, Mr. O'Brien, of Granville, entered a Protest, which agreeably to his request, shall appear in our next, when we publish the proceedings.

The Convention having got through with the business before it, and a Resolution of thanks having been voted to the President for the Chair, that gentleman rose and delivered one of the most interesting and pertinent Addresses, which it has ever been our good fortune to hear.

We find the following among the volunteer toasts, given at the celebration of the 4th, at Enfield:—

By Gov. Branch. The Tariff compromised of 1833; Concealed and consummated by opposing patriots in a spirit of mutual concession and forbearance. It has restored tranquility to our distracted country and averted civil war and blood shed; May the indignant frowns of every good citizen rest on the unprincipled politician who again attempts to open this Pandora's Box.

By Wm. H. Southall. The Ladies of Nash, Halifax and Edgcombe; as lovely as though they had looked into Paradise and caught its earliest and freshest bloom.

The following letter from the Hon. Daniel Webster to John Bolton, Esq. of Savannah, will be read with interest by the people of the South. It will have a tendency somewhat to allay the fears recently excited, that the rapid multiplication in the Northern and Eastern States of periodical publications advocating the emancipation of the slaves, and the formation of numerous abolition societies, &c. meant something more than met the eye. The elevated position at present occupied by Mr. Webster, in our National Councils as well as in the estimation of those most active in the above projects, gives more importance to this disclaimer than it could possibly receive from any other source. We fervently hope that we may not be compelled, four years hence, to record such a change of opinion on this subject by Mr. Webster, as was exhibited by him in 1824-'28, in relation to the Tariff.

New York, May 17, 1833.—My Dear Sir:—I have received your letter of last evening, requesting me to state my opinion of the powers of Congress on the subject of slaves and slavery; and of the existence of any wish or design, on the part of Northern men, to interfere with the security or regulation of that species of property.

My sentiments on this subject, my dear sir, have been often publicly expressed; but I can have no objection to repeat the declaration of them, if it be thought by you that such declarations might, in the smallest degree, aid the friends of Union and the Constitution in the South, in dispelling prejudices which are so industriously fostered, and in quieting agitations so unnecessarily kept alive.

In my opinion the domestic slavery of the Southern States is a subject within the exclusive control of the States themselves; and this, I am sure, is the opinion of the whole North. Congress has no authority to interfere in the emancipation of slaves, or in the treatment of them in any of the States. This was so resolved by the House of Representatives, when Congress sat in this city in 1790, on the report of a committee consisting almost entirely of Northern members; and I do not know an instance of the expression of a different opinion in either house of Congress, since. I cannot say that particular individuals might not possibly be found who suppose that Congress may possess some power over the subject; but I do not know any such persons, and if there be any, I am sure they are few. The servitude of so great a portion of the population of the South is, undoubtedly, regarded at the North, as a great evil moral and political, and the discussions upon it, which have recently taken place in the Legislatures of several of the slaveholding States, have been read with very deep interest. But it is regarded, nevertheless, as an evil, the remedy for which lies with those Legislatures themselves, to be provided and applied according to their own sense of policy and duty. The imputations which you say, and say truly, are constantly made against the North, are, in my opinion, entirely destitute of any just foundation. I have endeavored to repel them, so far as has been in my power, on all proper occasions; and for a fuller expression of my own opinions, both on the power of Congress, and on the groundless charges against Northern men, I beg leave to refer you to my remarks in the debate on Mr. Foot's Resolutions in 1830.

I am, my dear sir, with much true regard,
Your obedient servant
DANIEL WEBSTER.

To John Bolton, Esq.
Washington, July 6.—The President, accompanied by the Vice President and Secretary of the Navy, his Private Secretary, and Col. Earl, arrived in this city at 10 o'clock this morning. After reaching Concord, he found that his strength would not enable him to undergo the repetition of his labors, which would be required in complying with the various engagements he had made. And it was feared, further exposure to the North Eastern winds, might prove permanently detrimental to his constitution, after his indisposition at Boston.—He was, therefore, under the necessity of giving up his journey, without going to Portland, in Maine, which he intended to have made the termination of his tour at the North.

The President left Concord, for Washington, on Monday, the 1st instant, after breakfast, and reached this city at 10 o'clock this morning, accomplishing a journey of 474 miles in three days. His strength has recruited considerably since he commenced his return. The ordinary fatigue of a journey in the stages, relieved by the repose obtained in the steamboats and rail road cars, was found light in comparison with the personal exertion necessary to sustain him throughout a succession of days, in exchanging salutations and greetings with the immense number of his fellow citizens who thronged to meet him. He would have found it impossible to have borne up so long under the fatigue, but for the inspiring animation imparted by the enthusiastic kindness of his countrymen. Globe.

Five thousand Girls.—Among other tokens of respect which will be shown to the President and Vice President, about five thousand of the fairest of the fair, unmarried and young, elegantly dressed in white, will join a procession to meet and greet them on their arrival in Lowell, Mass.

It will be gratifying to many of our readers to learn that the operations at and near the Swash are going on prosperously. A few days ago the schooners Select and Amity passed through the Flounder Slue, the former drawing 7 feet 3, the latter 7 feet 7 inches. The depth of water here was formerly between four and five feet.—Newbern Spec.

The Philadelphia Commercial Herald estimates the cost of public improvements now in progress at this time in that city, at four millions of dollars. The same paper supposes that the substantial growth of Philadelphia has been greater for the last five years, and will be greater for ten years to come, than that of any other city on the continent.

Warning.—The wife of Mr. Chester Beard, of Rockdale township, is lying dangerously ill. Near a year since she was picking her ear with a pin (a very common practice among females,) the head of which coming off lodged in her ear, and all attempts to extract it proved unavailing, and it is supposed that this will soon be the cause of her death.
Crawford Messenger.

COTTON GINS.
THE Subscriber, who for several years past, has been engaged in the Gin Making business,
In Kinston, has established himself
IN GREENVILLE,

Where he carries on the above business in all its various branches. All those who wish to supply themselves with Gins of the best quality, are respectfully solicited to apply to the Subscriber personally, or by letter. All orders for Gins will be promptly executed. From the Subscriber's long experience in his business; and from the approbation which his work has hitherto met with, he hesitates not to promise entire satisfaction to all who may see fit to extend to him their patronage. Gins out of order will be expeditiously repaired. The Subscriber takes the liberty of calling the attention of those who wish to procure new Gins, or to have old Gins repaired, to the expediency of applying to him in time. When all wait as is usually the case, until the work is wanted, it causes such a pressure of business, that many are obliged of necessity to submit to a longer delay than they wish.

ALLEN TISON,
In connexion with this establishment, carries on
The Lock and Gunsmith business,
He also makes Saw Mill Boxes, and Mill Inks, and Gudgeons, of a composition invented by Daniel Peck, of Raleigh—Grist Mill Spindles, with Steel Collars, (turned.) These articles equal to any manufactured in the United States.
All letters and orders must be directed to the Subscriber, at Greenville.

NOTICE.
THE undersigned, Commissioners appointed by the County Court of Pitt, will receive from this time until the 1st of Sept. next, proposals to contract for the Building a Court House,

IN THE TOWN OF GREENVILLE,
The plan of which to be as follows:
The Building to be of brick, 52 feet long by 40 wide, two stories high, fire-proof. The foundation of the walls to be based on clay, and the walls as thick as usual for buildings of similar size and description, and to be anchored.
The first story to be 10, and the second story 13 feet pitch, and the first floor 2 1/2 feet above the surface.
The roof to be quadrang and covered either with zinc, tin, or slate. Applicants to state the terms for each.
The lower story to contain in the sides and ends 16 windows, and the upper story 18 windows; each to contain 18 panes glass 10 by 12.
Two doors in the lower story with a passage to run across the width, embracing one-third the length of the building; with two rooms on one side, and two rooms and a stair case on the other. The upper story to contain the Court room and in one end two Jury rooms.
All the partitions to be of brick and to be based like the exterior walls. Four chimneys to be attached at proper places with four fire places below. The sills and caps of doors and windows to be of stone. The windows to have ketches and bolts, with shutters closing on the out side.
The style and finish of the Court room is reserved for future and special contract.
The foregoing is a general plan of the building which will be adhered to, but the Commissioners may see cause to alter or modify it in some of the particulars before closing the contract. If desired by the Contractor, half the amount of the contract price and perhaps more, will be paid in advance, and the balance in one year.
