

MISCELLANEOUS.

A LETTER

From Miss Mary, aged 16, to Miss Ann, aged 26.

I went in my silver and blue To the ball—I was really in bloom—Tow'rd me he eagerly flew; Yes, he—my dear Ann, you know whom;
He spoke of his transports and bliss, Indeed, "he's a love of a man;"
He swore, first by that, then by this—Do you think he means any thing, Ann?
I tried to look simple and meek, Whilst I trembled with joy and with fear, As his lips murmur'd over my cheek, In seeming to whisper my ear.
He spoke of the long joyous train, Whilst rapture leads on the bright vain, That await those who love not in vain—
Do you think he meant any thing, Ann?

Answer.

My thoughts I will frankly reveal, Oh! scorn not to listen to Ann;
I think that he meant a great deal, Beware of "this love of a man."
When he speaks of the long trains of bliss:
That love, in succession, will bring;
Dear Mary, just whisper him this—
That you like them all best in a ring.

MILITIA TRAINING SONG.

Tune.—Blue Bonnets o'er the Border.

March! march! ye rips and rapscallions, Why dont ye, ye blackguards march forward in order;
March! March! ye tatterdemallions, With brave Captain Popgun, the pride of the border.
Many a mother's son Shoulders his rusty gun, Many a lad who loves rum and hates water!
Fall in and make ready quick, Long Tom and sturdy Dick, Dont hold down your heads like a sheep at the slaughter.
Come from the tavern, where whiskey is flowing, Come from the grogshops, where whiskey is low;
Come from the streets where your valor you're showing—Come with the bean pole, the cornstalk and hoe!
The drums are a drumming!
The Major is coming!
So turn out your toes—move your bowlegs together:
Throw your cigars away, Now let the music play—You're training for glory, dont mind shoe leather!
March! march! &c. &c.

The Randolph Affair—The investigation of the case of Robert B. Randolph for assaulting the President of the U.
States has been laid over until the next term of the Court in which it is pending, the stated period of which is the first Monday in October next. "The Alexandria Gazette" says—

"For a month the Grand Jury have been patiently and laboriously engaged in an examination of all the facts which the District Attorney has been able to lay before them. The failure of Mr.
Pleasants, the editor of the Richmond Whig, to obey the subpoena of the Court, rather abruptly terminated the examination; and the Grand Jury were on Monday discharged, and the Court adjourned over. Mr. P. was summoned here to give up the name of the writer of an extract of a letter, which appeared in his paper, detailing an account of the assault, containing such terrible expressions as these—"I and a friend accompanied Randolph to the boat," &c. &c. Mr. P. respectfully denied the power of the Court to bring him to the District; at the same time making oath that he is entirely ignorant of any "plot" or "conspiracy" whatever, and that the extract of the letter referred to was handed to him by a gentleman of Richmond, and inserted as a matter of news, &c. &c.; at once showing that his evidence, if obtained, will be entirely unimportant. As far as we can learn, the evidence adduced only proves what is known already to the public, and no more.

The Wandering Piper.—This individual is now in Providence piping about the streets, collecting crowds about him, and putting money in his purse. He is described as an intelligent looking man, a little above the ordinary stature, dressed in a plaid cloak and trowsers, a cloth cap and green spectacles. He plays sweetly on the bagpipe. He bestows all, or nearly all of the money he collects to charitable institutions, or to persons in distressed circumstances, taking in every instance a receipt. He will, it is said, visit all the populous cities and towns in the United States during the ensuing summer, and return to England next fall. It is said that he is a person of distinction, and has been for many years an officer in the British army. He assumed his wandering vocation in consequence of a dispute with Court Bender, a French nobleman, as to the hospitality of different nations, which resulted in a bet of £5000 between the parties, both to travel in disguise, our hero as a piper in Great Britain, Ireland and America, and his opponent as a fiddler in France and Belgium. The person who collects by means of his musical talents the greatest amount of money will be of course the winner. We shall probably soon be favored with a visit.

Unique Title.—A weekly Newspaper has lately been established at Thomastown, Georgia, under the title of "The Hickory Nut and Upson Vigil," with the Motto "Crack it who may, it will be discovered to be sound to the kernel."

Singular Theft.—A man, calling his name William Avery, was taken to the Police Office and committed to the prison, on a charge of stealing $30 from a young lady in St. John's Church about three weeks since.

It appears the lady on entering her pew, placed her reticule, which contained the money, on the seat by her side, and in a few moments Avery, whose name was then unknown, came in and took possession of an unoccupied pew next behind where she sat. Soon after he was seen by a gentleman, who sat near, to reach over and take the reticule, and after taking out the money placed it back again, and immediately left the church. The gentleman informed the lady of what he had seen, when the retic-ule was examined and the money missed. Several persons went immediately in search of the thief, but he had disappeared. On Saturday last the man who saw him take the money accidentally met him in Canal street, and had him arrested and taken to the police.
While sitting in the back room of the Police Office, he was discovered with a pen knife in his hand, in the act, as the officer thought, of cutting his throat. He was immediately seized and the knife taken from him. On examination the wound he inflicted on himself proved nothing more than a small scratch. He took good care not even to cut through the skin. He has been recognized by several persons as a frequenter of different churches, where books, coats and cloaks, have unaccountably disappeared.

The general elections are just over in Mississippi, under the new Constitution, which gives to the people the right of choosing every Officer in the Government, Executive, Legislative, Judicial and Military. In some of the counties, there are said to have been as many as 75 or 80 candidates for the various offices, which, as naturally might have been expected, produced great confusion and excitement.

A Puzzler.—Married, recently, in Bethlehem, Con. Mr. Chauncy Strong, to Miss Mary Ann Kisson. By this connection, he becomes son of his sister, brother to his uncle, nephew to his brother, and cousin to his nephew. She becomes sister to her mother, daughter to her brother, sister to her aunt, aunt to her cousin, niece to her brother, and cousin to her niece. Query—in what relationship will the next generation stand?

The best thing to be done when adversity pinches, is not to sit down and cry, but to rise up and work.
