

part of the week was rather flat, but since Wednesday there has been more doing, and with the exception of the common kinds of American, which are a shade lower, the prices of all descriptions have been fully supported."

The recognition by England of Donna Maria as Queen of Portugal, took place at Lisbon on the 15th August, when Lord William Russell delivered his credentials to Don Pedro, as minister to the young Queen. Active interference in her behalf however was not contemplated; for when Don Pedro asked whether he might depend upon British support, in case of an attack upon Lisbon, he was distinctly assured by Lord William Russell, that unless any other foreign Power should interfere in behalf of Miguel, no active assistance could be rendered to the Queen. The moral effect of the recognition, which would moreover be doubtless soon followed by that of France, joined to the prosperous state of the Queen's affairs must soon, we apprehend, decide the controversy.

Paris papers had been received of the 1st of September, which state that the Queen of France had left that capital to join the King of the French, whose progress through the provinces had been marked with general expressions of respect and attachment. Donna Maria was received at Havre without any of the honors of royalty. The Portuguese ship which is to convey her to Lisbon had not yet arrived.

From Madrid the dates were to the 21st August, at which time the King of Spain was still living. Another war of succession seems inevitable on the demise of the King.

We find nothing authentic and no additional particulars even, of the alleged insurrectionary movements at Naples.

The British Parliament was prorogued on the 29th August till the 31st of October. The King delivered his speech in person. It is of an uninteresting character.

Slave Emancipation.—The Liverpool Albion remarks: The West Indies have, it must be confessed, driven a hard bargain with the Government. It was at first proposed to advance to them the sum of 15,000,000 pounds sterling, by way of loan; afterwards it was determined to convert the loan into a gift; it is now resolved to increase the gift to 20,000,000 pounds sterling. From calculations made by one of our contemporaries, it would appear that the sum, divided as the number of slaves in the British colonial possessions, gives 30 pounds sterling per head for each slave, including young and old, male and female, the robust and the decrepit. The principle of compensation having been admitted on both sides, it is now evident, that the Government proposed at first a less sum than they were aware they would ultimately have to give the slave-owners; while the latter very modestly, but in the true spirit of traffic, asked a much larger sum than the former could be reasonably expected to pay as the price of emancipation. The result of the higgling is now before us; the West Indians have extorted from the Government a greater amount of compensation than they were fairly entitled to. Ministers seem, however, to have feared, that, without the co-operation of the planters, their scheme of emancipation might be thwarted and rendered in the end abortive. They have, therefore, bought that co-operation (as they think,) at a high price, but, perhaps, at the lowest the planters were willing to take: Thus slavery, the maintenance of which has cost the mother country millions upon millions, will be costly in its abolition; more costly than in reason and justice it ought to be. The equitable rule would have been, to have awarded compensation where and when loss could have been proved. This rule, which is observed in affairs of ordinary life, is referred in the case of the planters. They are to receive compensation, not merely where no loss can be proved, but where none may ultimately occur. This substitution of free for compulsory labor, may verify the opinion very generally entertained, that, if not cheaper, voluntary is as cheap as forced labor. In that case the planters will pocket the whole 20, 000,000 pounds sterling, and the returns for the produce of the estates besides. Truly, the Whig is, in more senses than one, liberal government.

A CARD.

To Publishers of Newspapers and Periodicals in the United States and the British Provinces. The publishers of the New England Weekly Review are desirous of making up, on the first of January, a complete list of all the Newspapers and Periodicals published in the United States and the British Provinces, with the names of their publishers and the places where published; they, therefore, request all publishers to insert this Card, and also send them two copies of their respective publications in succession, that they may not fail of receiving one, in order to render the list complete.

ROBT. A. EZELL, Principal. Scotland Neck, Sept. 1st, 1833. 2 4

$25 Reward.

RAN OFF from my plantation on Toisnot, Edgecombe county, on the 19th April last, a negro man named

BRYANT,

22 or 23 years old, 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, stout built, quite yellow for the appearance of his hair which is as knotty as the negro's usually is, has long lips, large feet and long toes, has a down look when spoken to, had on when he went off dark clothes and a black furred hat. He will probably lurk about Dr. Hall's plantation near Tarborough, where his father and mother are, until he can procure free papers to pass to a free State, as he has done the like before. I have been informed that he has lately been seen at Spencer L. Hart's and at Rd. Hines's plantations. I will give the above reward to any person who will confine him in some jail within this State so that I get him again, or deliver him to me in Stantonburg.

Land for Sale.

BEING anxious to move to the West, I offer for sale the Tract of Land whereon I now live, containing

About One Thousand Acres

It is a healthy situation, in Nash county, on Stony Creek, about three miles above the great Falls of Tar River, with a commodious two story dwelling house (new,) and other out houses; apple and peach orchards sufficient to make 15 or 20 barrels brandy, besides other fruit trees. The land is of tolerable good quality and well watered. On the said Stony Creek (a constant stream) there is an excellent grist and saw mill, cotton machine, &c. (on solid rock foundation,) all in good order. Long credit can be given if it best suits the purchaser, or negroes will be taken in part payment.
