FOR THE FREE PRESS.

LOVE.

Oh! thou, the sweetest balmy flower
Thine emblem doth us cheer;
Two hearts entwined within thy bower
Are to each other doubly dear.

How swift the hours fly o'er their heads,
When blest to know they're loved;
Together linked with loving ties,
That never can be moved.

And oh! may lovers still be blest,
With love for love receiving;
And loving with the purest hearts,
Which never can deceive one.

And may the blessings that's in store,
Repay each faithful heart;
Where two fond hearts are far more dear
Than e'er words can impart.

But ah! where only one doth love,
His moments doth like ages run;
He feels the smart of Cupid's dart
He lingers for the sweet return.

But no! his love she can't return,
Her heart is on another placed;
And her affections ne'er can change
Till she is lock'd in death's embrace.

Then oh! cruel Cupid heal the wound,
Thou hast made with thy dart;
And quench this glowing living fire,
Thou'st kindled in my heart.

FORGET NOT ME.

When thy lovely form is kneeling,
Forget not me;
When at eve thy prayer is stealing,
Forget not me;
When thine eye is fondly beaming,
And the burning tears are streaming,
When thy soul of heaven is dreaming,
Forget not me.

When the light of day is fading,
Forget not me;
And the shades of night are speeding,
Forget not me;
When the world is deeply sleeping,
And the gentle streams are waking,
When soft dreams on thee are creeping,
Forget not me.

Suicide.—Mr. Daniel Davis, of Putney, Vt. committed suicide on the night of the 17th ult. The manner of committing the deed is, one would think, altogether the most horrid self torture that could be inflicted. He escaped from his house some time in the night, procured a hammer, went to his barn, ascended a ladder to the high beams, and in the first place endeavored to dig out one of his eyes with a penknife. But not succeeding, he struck the blade of the knife to the hilt several times, into one of his thighs, in order, as is supposed, to cut the large artery there situated. But failing, he leaned over the beam, as appearances show, with his head downward, and with the claws of the hammer aforesaid, he beat his head until he smashed the skull completely into the size of the palm of one's hand; hooking out with the claws of the hammer pieces of the skull and some part of the brain. And what is quite astonishing, after all this, he attempted to descend the ladder, as prints of a bloody hand were seen thereon; but his strength probably failed; and it is supposed he fell to the floor, as his ribs were broken. He was found the next morning by his family, apparently lifeless. But moving him, in some measure, restored animation; and he, it is said, made the following exclamation: "My God! my God! why hast thou forsaken me!" He lingered until Friday, perfectly rational, when he expired. He manifested much sorrow for what he had done—said he was tempted—and in an evil hour he yielded—he could not help doing it. He had been partially deranged for several months previous to his committing the horrid deed.

Brattleboro' Inq.

An Exchange.—A Monsieur, lately from Europe commenced in the suburbs of this city, the manufacture of Bologna sausages, and other articles of like savory import, and which business he carried on upon an extensive scale.—Another Frenchman, who was but recently imported, being anxious to see the beauties of this rapidly growing metropolis, took a promenade in the boulevards of the city, and after having viewed and admired the stately palaces of Lafayette Place and St. Marks, was returning homeward when his olfactory nerves were assailed by the delightful steam of Bologna sausages, which were borne on the southern breeze, in the line in which he was progressing; following the direction of the grateful odour, he attained the manufactory of Monsieur —, and having entered therein, regaled himself with a savory meal of the Bologna. So far, so good—but in a short time an intimacy grew up between the parties which resulted in the stranger and his wife taking up their quarters with the sausage maker, and now comes the horrible sequel; the Sausage man borrowed of his friend the small sum of $600, and not content with obtaining his friend's money, he contrived to wheedle himself into the good graces of his wife, and eloped with her, leaving the stranger his (the sausage maker's) wife and four children in exchange.—The stranger stated that "he did not care one tam about the loss of his wife, but the removal of the deposits had ruined him."—N. Y. Chron.

Fatal Occurrence.—The Lexington Observer, of the 22d instant, says:—"We learn by a gentleman, that on Monday last, Mr. John R. Scott, of Jessamine county, was shot through the head with a pistol, and expired in a few hours afterwards. The circumstances have not been fully related to us, but it appears a rencounter had taken place, or was about to take place between two individuals, January, and Reese, and that the deceased interfered to put a stop to it, when he was unintentionally shot by Reese, who perhaps intended to shoot his antagonist, January. The deceased was a highly respectable citizen."

Illinois.—This state has a fund of $2,000,000 which is to be exclusively applied to the purpose of public education. This sum is now bearing interest; and the difficulty now is in the adoption of a system best calculated to diffuse useful knowledge among every class of the community.

Horrid Murder.—A singular and tragic occurrence took place on the morning of the 20th ult. at Brownsville, Pa., which resulted in the death of a Mr. Owens. A traveller called at the door of a hotel kept by the son of the deceased, on the evening of the 19th—went to bed, and slept until between three and four o'clock the next morning when he arose and attacked the elder Mr. Owens, who was about getting up. After having struck him with a poker, he drew a knife, stabbed him three times in the back, once in the side and on the shoulder, cut a very deep gash in the face, and then cut his throat from ear to ear, the knife penetrating so deep as to cut the windpipe in two. The old man immediately fell and expired. He next attacked Vincent, made a pass at his throat, but missed it, the knife entering his ear, and cut his face from the ear to the upper lip. He then ran at the daughter of Owens, struck her with the knife, but did little injury. The murderer then fled to the river near by—plunged into the water, and swam down the stream. He was pursued by two men in a skiff, but disappeared near a bridge; whether he sunk or escaped, was unknown.

The Patterson, N. J. Courier, states that a vast cave has been discovered, at what is called the Notch, about half a mile from Mr. Simeon Brown's tavern near that place. The entrance to the cave is through a split of a rock, 16 feet long 2 wide. It has been explored a considerable way, but not to its full extent. The first area is about 300 feet square, and 60 or 70 high. The bottom is red sand.

The assassin of Casper Hauser has been arrested, and committed for trial. His death is certain; and confession, lest he perishes with sealed lips, will possess the greatest interest.

Earthenware China & Glass.

THOMAS J. BARROW & CO.
Importers, 38 Water-st.
NEW YORK.

ARE now receiving their Spring patterns of Earthenware, China and Fancy Goods, in every variety.

Their stock is very extensive, embracing every article sold in the line, and from their facilities in England, they are enabled to offer every inducement to their customers in patterns, quality and price. Merchants dealing in the line, will find it greatly to their interest to call, as the selections which have been made, are with a view to the North Carolina and Virginia markets; and every article will be put down to the lowest price which it can possibly be sold at. From the efforts hitherto made to give our customers satisfaction, we hope for a continuance of patronage from North Carolina.

COTTON GINS.

THE Subscriber, who for several years past, has been engaged in the

Gin Making business,
In Kinston, has established himself
IN GREENVILLE,

Where he carries on the above business in all its various branches. All those who wish to supply themselves with Gins of the best quality, are respectfully solicited to apply to the Subscriber personally, or by letter. All orders for Gins will be promptly executed. From the Subscriber's long experience in his business; and from the approbation which his work has hitherto met with, he hesitates not to promise entire satisfaction to all who may see fit to extend to him their patronage. Gins out of order will be expeditiously repaired. The Subscriber takes the liberty of calling the attention of those who wish to procure new Gins, or to have old Gins repaired, to the expediency of applying to him in time. When all wait as is usually the case, until the work is wanted, it causes such a pressure of business, that many are obliged of necessity to submit to a longer delay than they wish.

At the shortest notice, and will warrant them equal if not superior to any to be had in this section of the country or elsewhere.

JOHN WILSON.

Tarboro', Feb. 28, 1834.

Notice.

ON the 18th January last, or thereabouts, I put into the post office of Mount Prospect, in this county, two letters. (to be mailed on different days,) each enclosing two halves of two $100 United States Bank Notes, and addressed to John A. Cotten, at Philadelphia. The left hand halves which were enclosed in the first sent letter arrived safely—the right hand halves have never arrived. The Notes are of the following description: the one No. 515, dated 30 May, 1828, payable at the office of discount and deposit at Washington—the other, No. 918, dated 7 May, 1828, and payable at Nashville. The halves which have not arrived have been either purloined, or lost by accident; and the object of this advertisement is to give notice that I shall apply at the mother Bank of the United States for the entire payment of the same.
