Doubtless there are aspirants who think it is a long time between Cabinet appointments. It is no violation of confidence to say that Col. Watterson's editorial utterances are not popular at the White House.

Yes, there is more than one man who is willing to monopolize the hero business. There is a disposition in some quarters to change Booker Washington's name to Office Broker Washington.

Notwithstanding the many outside pointers, Secretary Long still seems to be short on resignations. The red lights may be less numerous in New York, but the halos are not yet visible to the naked eye.

Mr. Brooke Adams, of Mass., in a speech before the American Economic Association, in Washington, predicted future trouble for us on account of the decrease of the purchasing power of Europe.

Ohio wishes South Carolina to distinctly understand that it has no license to monopolize Senatorial scrapping. The British government also runs to commissions. It has appointed one to look into the coal supply of the empire.

The treasury of a Missionary Society has gone to dicker with the Bulgarian brigands for Miss Stone's release. Suppose they should take a notion to kidnap him, too?

Eloping is dangerous in Alabama, where a father shot a man who went to elope with his daughter, as well as a friend who was with him.

The cost of living in Washington having materially increased, the undertakers of the city have increased the cost of dying by raising the prices for use of hearses and carriages at funerals.

An exchange uses half a column to ask if merit in the public service is always rewarded. Certainly, brother, if it can produce enough "pull," come again! always glad to give information.

Iowa mustn't get giddy and turn up her nose at sister States because she has so many good things in the official line -- two members of the Cabinet, the speakership of the house, and the chairmanship of the Senate committee on Appropriations.

New York's new municipal government has taken charge, but visitors to the city do not find it run on Sunday-school ideas, and those hunting for goldbricks can still find them.

The Washington Post says there will be no more Cabinet Changes for some time, but it said something similar just before the recent announcement of changes. It is just barely possible that the Post doesn't know.

Senator Mason would better not be too precipitate in assisting those who are fighting reforms in the carrying of second-class mail. It is likely to be more dangerous than profitable.

Gen. Chaffee seems inclined to think that the Filipinos resemble American Indians in one respect -- the only good ones are dead ones.

The Nebraska men who had a stock broker arrested charged with "maintaining and operating gambling devices" is on the right track, although the courts may not decide in his favor.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Dec. 30, 1901. Perhaps never before have Christmas festivities in the White House reached the informal and almost uproarious stage that they attained this year. After the noonday luncheon the President and his family went to the house of Commander Cowles where, with their young cousin, the Roosevelt children enjoyed a great Christmas tree laden with many gifts.

After dinner the party entered the big East room and the President ordered the attending Orchestra to play the Virginia Reel. He chose Mrs. Cowles as his partner and they lead the dance. Mr. Roosevelt chafed, "balanced all" side stepped and cut pigeon wings until the ladies almost had hysterics and the youngsters howled with merriment.

The day after Christmas Mrs. Roosevelt and Doctor Rixey and the children, with the exception of Miss Alice, went down the river on the Dolphin. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. had a new gun and was counting on a great slaughter of canvasbacks but so far none have been received at the White House.

The advent of Governor Shaw into the Cabinet circle is anticipated with a good deal of pleasure. Mr. Gage has been in mourning since the death of his wife which has, of course precluded entertaining. The families of Secretary Hay and Secretary Long are also in mourning so that the list of house extending formal hospitality has been considerably narrowed down.

Senator Depew must feel himself a very much married man, as he has been through three wedding ceremonies. According to the French law, there must be a civil marriage apart from the religious ceremony and accordingly the Senator and his bride drove to the United State Consulate on Friday and were civilly married, the license having been signed by President Roosevelt himself.

The death of Senator Sewell, of New Jersey, on Friday leaves a vacancy in the Senatorial representation from that State and already there is speculation as to who will be his successor. It is believed here that the Governor will appoint a Senator pro tem to occupy Senator Sewell's seat until the legislature shall have elected his successor.

Minister Wu Ting Fang has filed with the Secretary of State a protest against the re-enactment of the Chinese exclusion act and his letter will doubtless be forwarded to Congress and referred to the Committee on foreign relations. There is every reason to assume that the bill will be promptly re-enacted, the only changes likely being of such administrative details as would make it more effective, but Mr. Wu is himself held in such high regard that the Secretary of State will doubtless bespeak for him a hearing by the Committee.

The State Department has received a communication from United States Minister Wilson, at Santiago de Chile, in which he says that the Argentine-Chile controversy may be regarded as settled for the time being if not for all time. Dr. Garcia Merol, the Argentine Minister in Washington, says that his country has made material concessions to Chile in order to preserve peace but he believes that it is better to concede certain rights than to precipitate what must have been a prolonged and bloody struggle.

The President, following the example of his predecessors, has already set aside a tract of land for forest-reserve purposes. This reserve is located along the boundaries of Idaho and Montana and will aggregate over one million acres. It will be known as the Kootenai forest reserve. Mr. Roosevelt also, it will be remembered, made an earnest recommendation to Congress to set apart a very large area in the Southern States to be known as the Appalachian forest reserve.

Representative Francis C. Newlands of Nevada gave a dinner at the new Willards' on the evening after Christmas to about fifty members of Congress and at which Secretary of Agriculture Wilson was the guest of honor. The affair was manifestly in the interest of irrigation legislation for the Western States and it is said to have made many friends. Mr. Wilson who is known to be in close touch with the views of the President on this subject, made the address of the evening. He devoted himself to a refutation of the idea that the irrigation of the Western lands would add to the competition of the Eastern farmers. He even argued that Eastern farmers would be benefited by the movement. He said that he had been in the East and that he had made many conquests. Mr. Newlands said that the friends of the movement had a most important champion in the person of Representative Cannon who, as Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations, would wield great influence. He said that Mr. Cannon was in favor of a bill which would provide for the starting of the actual work of irrigating the arid lands.

It is usually three times and out, but Senator Depew had to get through three ceremonies to get into the married state.

"Something New Under The Sun." All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acid gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a Treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently cures CATARRH, by removing the cause, stopping the discharges and curing all inflammation. Whatever the opinion may be of the assertion of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, that every man is three men, it must be conceded that many men have two faces. Everything comes to those who wait--if they wait long enough. The trial of Neely is about to begin in Havana.
