ALL GOOD THINGS must win upon their merits. The International Dictionary has won a greater distinction upon its merits and is in more general use than any other work of its kind in the English language.

A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.D., of Oxford University, England, has recently said of it: It is indeed a marvelous work; it is difficult to conceive of a dictionary more exhaustive and complete. Everything is in it—not only what we might expect to find in such a work, but also what few of us would ever have thought of looking for.

A supplement to the new edition has brought it fully up to date. I have been looking through the latter with a feeling of astonishment at its completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it.

What the New Woman Is Doing

LATELY I had occasion to view the shows of Christmas goods in some of the great department stores. Never before have these wares been more beautiful, artistic and costly. A sum that would have served Martha Washington to dress on for a year is asked for a single dinner gown. There was the most dainty and exquisite ermine jacket ever a sweet girl put upon her fair body, and its price was $250. An ermine muff alone was valued at $75. An exquisite carriage wrap from Worth cost $340. An imported pale blue silk muslin dinner gown with "angel" sleeves was marked $408. Beautiful? Where they did not border on the grotesque, as some of the articles did in the effort to make them as expensive as possible, these garments were beautiful as a dream of fairyland. I looked at them and later at my desk read the morning paper. On the front page was an item telling how a dressmaker unexpectedly discharged from the employ of one of our many millioned families had killed herself by swallowing paris green. Next I read an item in which the director of charities in a great American city reported that the average wage of working women in that city was $1 below the actual cost of living. My sisters, put all these statements together and read the awful tragedy now enacting day by day throughout our so called civilization. Over the gorgeous garments worn by millionaire women hovers many a time the curse of the starving, ruined woman who worked on it. Brother, sister, think on these things. Know this: In the true Christ civilization the laborer will live as comfortably as the capitalist. The surplus wealth created by both will go to the giving of pleasure and improvement to both. This must happen. Let us hope the revolution that brings it will come quietly and peaceably.

Some women's minds are like their rooms, stuffed with cheap ornamentation.

* *

The chief objection to a young wife having an old husband is that he will never let her call her soul her own. He usually will not let her out of his sight long enough to have any conversation with her old chums. He must hear it all. If she expresses an opinion counter to his prejudices, he makes such a row that she must take refuge in silence for fear of "exciting" him.

* *

Very old people, men or women, have no opinions. They have only set prejudices which they themselves mistake for opinions.

* *

This is the way of men and women in steam and furnace heated offices in winter: The women turn on the heat and open the windows to let in air; the men shut off the heat and close the windows.

To see a great big man coddle himself like an old maid granny is a pitiable spectacle.

The champion woman shot of New Jersey is Lillian Brewer, eleven years old. She has inherited the nerve and unerring eye of her father, Captain John Brewer, who was a famous wing shot. Lillian herself has sometimes broken eight out of ten glass target balls. In hunting she never shoots at any game when it is standing still, but gives it a chance for its life.

Women are tender hearted, oh, yes, but did you ever see one of the "bars" some ladies use on their carriage horses to make the animals champ their bits and toss their heads? How would you like to wear next your skin a small pad made of horsehair cloth with the bristle ends sticking out all over it? You would toss your head, would you not? Well, carriage horses are often forced to wear that kind of pad, only worse, next the tender skin around their mouths just inside the guiding rein. The bar for a horse is made of very stiff bristles, not seldom even of screws or nails. This cruelty is so atrocious that one is sorry for the people who permit it—sorry on account of the sure punishment that will overtake them because of it. In this universe there is exact justice, and those who dodge it are only heaping it up to break in a bolt upon them in future.

On the east side of New York city, commonly considered the slum quarter, there are 600 clubs of working girls, and the object of every one of them is something useful and improving. How is that for women's clubs? But these east side clubs do not belong to the federation.

A Brooklyn parson preached a sermon against the awful evil of the wearing of openwork hose by the ladies of his congregation. From that day the indignant women began to boycott him, quietly, but effectually. His congregation fell off to nothing, and he was forced to resign. The women decided that the real evil was in the minister's mind, not in the stockings.

USEFUL SOCIETIES.

VALUABLE WORK OF VILLAGE IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATIONS.

Towns Beautified and Built Up. Better Sanitary Laws Secured and Some Phenomenal Improvements Made by These Organizations.

Those who would profit by the increasing attention to the opportunities offered by towns and small cities both for living and for the conduct of business must needs resolve themselves into active local improvement organizations such as already exist in all parts of the country, says Frances Copley Seavey in the Chicago Tribune.

These societies, clubs, associations—call them by what name you will—have become the chief factor in the transformation of hundreds of places from the happy go lucky, shiftless, down at the heel appearance and condition characteristic of the ordinary small place to neat and lively business centers that offer many advantages as places to live. These organizations have been started for various purposes, and women have been largely, often exclusively, concerned in their founding and maintenance.

In some instances the primary cause of the movement has been an active evil due, perhaps, to sanitary defects, as in the case of Montclair, N. J., where an epidemic that roused the women to action was found to spring from a milk supply poisoned at its source by fever germs so that residents had actually been paying for a fresh stock of fine, active microbes delivered daily at their doors. Again, it has been the direct result of a longing for neatness and beauty and good "outdoor housekeeping."

Some one, usually a woman, has discovered that the local cemetery, a place hallowed to every resident, was in a shamefully neglected condition; that a park for holding out of door celebrations had become a necessity; that fine natural water privileges were being neglected or debased by the ignorance or selfishness of the few to the direct detriment of the many, etc.

Towns that were mudholes and dust heaps by turns, where tradesmen daily turned loose flying flocks of waste paper to mar the streets and frighten timid horses, where naturally charming adjacent country roadsides were made the common dumping ground for all sorts of unsightly rubbish, where vacant lots bore no attempt at decoration save mounds of tin cans and wildernesses of tangled weeds, have assumed the pleasant aspect of neatly paved, agreeably shaded streets.

Receptacles at street intersections receive the erstwhile loose papers, banana skins and other refuse formerly carelessly thrown into the streets to decay or on the sidewalks to produce dirt or disaster. Vacant lots have been cleared up and a weed ordinance passed and enforced. Ashes no longer form mountain ranges along streets and alleys, all being utilized in grading and filling streets or low ground. River banks have been cleaned, planted and in several instances walled, and with the stream have become the chief attraction of the place. Country roads have been relieved of their accompaniment of broken crockery, wash boilers, old mattresses and springs, etc., and nature given the chance to repair damages and make the drives of the immediate environs as delightful as undisturbed roadsides always are when far enough removed from the haunts of man.

It is a nice comment on the ways of humanity to note that neglected nature is always in a way beautiful, never offensive. It is only when human beings crowd in that ugliness and squalor result. This truth is even paralleled among dumb brutes. Wild animals do not devastate and wipe out the beauty of the woods, fields and waterways. It is only where domestic animals congregate that vegetation is destroyed, beauty obliterated and surroundings made wholly unbeautiful.

Truly civilized man can hardly do less or more than devote some of his mind, ingenuity, time, strength and money to covering up his worse than unsightly tracks. If natural beauty is the heritage of mankind, if we are to "leave the world more beautiful than we found it," we must be up and doing, for the ways of civilization are obstructing or destroying its charm at every turn.

There must be some building up where there is so much trampling down, or what will the world look like after a few more generations of "civilized" humanity have battered it out of all shape and comeliness? We go gayly along, cutting and hacking at everything we find in the way; we, mostly, take no thought in the matter of giving nature an opportunity to retrieve the opportunities that we have wrested from her, yet we make a great hullabaloo when there are floods and droughts and unsalubrious conditions, although we continue to allow all the trees and undergrowth on the watersheds to be swept away. Civilization is a strange term for such stupid, selfish or, at the best, ignorant proceedings.

If every community would look out for itself in these respects, bare banks would again be clothed with the vegetation that not only makes them lovely, but also prevents their being washed into gullies when the water rushes unhindered down such slopes. In the one case it dashes over them as it falls, scours out the soil and becomes a harmful agent; in the other it is first impeded in its fall by foliage and then percolates slowly through a natural retaining sponge consisting of fallen twigs, dry leaves and still older leaf mold and is gradually disseminated to the benefit of everything and every person directly or remotely concerned, which is the entire population.

HEADS SKULL NEVER ACHE

Never endure this trouble. Use at once the remedy that stopped it for Mrs. N. A. Webster, of Winnie, Va.,—she writes "Dr. Kings New Life Pills wholly cured me of sick headaches I had suffered for two years" Cure Headache, Constipation, Biliousness. 25 cents at all druggists.

Mrs. Laura S. Webb,

Vice-President Woman's Democratic Clubs of Northern Ohio.

"I dreaded the change of life which was fast approaching. I noticed Wine of Cardui, and decided to try a bottle. I experienced some relief the first month, so I kept on taking it for three months and now I menstruate with no pain and I shall take it off and on now until I have passed the climax."

Female weakness, disordered menses, falling of the womb and ovarian troubles do not wear off. They follow a woman to the change of life. Do not wait but use Wine of Cardui now and avoid the trouble. Wine of Cardui never fails to benefit a suffering woman of any age. Wine of Cardui relieved Mrs. Webb when she was in danger. When you come to the change of life Mrs. Webb's letter will mean more to you than it does now. But you may now avoid the suffering she endured. Druggists sell $1 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

WINE OF CARDUI

Taking a Chance.

He looked happy enough as he walked up to the postoffice box, set a huge bundle on the floor and began taking pretty square envelopes therefrom, dropping them by twos and threes into the box.

"Big lot of letters," remarked the policeman. "Nice day too."

"Letters!" said the happy man. "My dear fellow, these are not letters. They are wedding invitations."

A stern look came over the face of the hitherto friendly policeman.

"My friend," he said, "I am sorry to disturb you, but I must do my duty. Come with me."

"Arrested?"

"Yes."

"On what charge, sir? This is an outrage."

"Not at all. You are advertising a lottery through the post."

The man went along.—Kansas City Independent.

Value of Capital.

Once upon a time two utter bankrupts were considering ways and means of getting needed money.

"I know how we can make $3," said one.

"How?" asked the other.

"Raise a dollar note to ten by pinching a cipher after the one."

"Where will we raise the dollar?"

Then the scheme failed for want of capital.

Moral.—The great financial difficulty is in raising the first dollar.—New York Herald.

FREE! This $50 Prize For Some Subscriber of The Enterprise

The plan of giving away this valuable prize is as follows:

We have printed 1,000 tickets, numbered consecutively and beginning the 1st of October every person who pays $1 on subscription to THE ENTERPRISE will be given one of these tickets. Those who pay $1 get one ticket, $2 two tickets, and so on. It matters not whether you are an old subscriber paying up back dues or a new subscriber paying in advance, every dollar paid counts the same and gets a ticket.

One blank ticket has been sent to a person outside of the State to be numbered, the number to be known to no one but himself. This ticket after being numbered is sealed in two envelopes, these two enclosed in another envelope and mailed to Mr. J. G. Godard, Cashier of the Bank of Martin County, to be kept in the bank by him until all the 1,000 tickets are out, when the one at the bank will be opened and the number announced, and the person holding the ticket with the same number will be given the Steel Range.

If you are already a subscriber to THE ENTERPRISE now is a good time to pay up all arrears and some in advance getting a ticket for every dollar paid. The more tickets you get the larger number of chances you have at the Stove. If you do not take THE ENTERPRISE now is the best time to subscribe, get the campaign, home and general news, and at the same time have a chance to get this fine Steel Range. The sooner the tickets are out the sooner somebody will get the Range. Tell your neighbor about this and get him interested.
