Importance of Good Roads.

Below we print a clipping from the Wilmington Messenger, the truth of which cannot be more pertinent to any people than to the people of Martin County. We sincerely trust that every good citizen in this county will read this article, and then let us be up and doing, let's do away with all these sand beds and have hard roads throughout the county.

"New York state is going to spend one hundred million dollars in building good roads. Experts who have made an investigation state that the economic waste now going on because of the condition of the roads, which will be stopped by the proposed new road system, amounts to thirty-eight million dollars a year in that state. "This is an object lesson to the people of North Carolina. In some sections they realize the great advantage of good roads and are willing to tax themselves to secure them, but as a rule, our rural residents are too indifferent in this matter. They do not seem to understand how good roads will increase the value of their lands, bring the market towns near to the farms, reduce the wear and tear on wagons and horses while enabling time to be saved through ability to haul much heavier loads.

"Good roads are of vastly more importance to the farmers and land owners than to the residents of the cities and towns to which they lead though, of course they benefit the latter also. Another advantage in good roads to the country residents is the increased facility for mail service. Where there are good roads there is quick and frequent rural free delivery service, and this is becoming a matter of greater importance to them as the rural public schools create in the rising generation a greater desire for reading and keeping up with the daily events of the world over. Country people who oppose good roads do not know what injury they are doing to themselves and to their children."

In our last issue we called attention to information that had been given us in regard to fires at the graded school. The information coming as it did from a thoroughly reliable source we deemed it unnecessary to make a personal investigation. The superintendent of the school took the article to be a slam on himself and teachers, which was not intended, and replied to the article sending in his letter last Monday with the request that it be published. The article and a memorandum book in which we had notes and data for news to go into this issue were misplaced, (and such cases are frequent where the editor is printer and devil as well as reporter), the memorandum book was found late Wednesday afternoon all mutilated, but the article was not found. That is why it does not appear in this issue.

We will say, however, that our article was not intended as an attack upon Prof Liles or his teachers, for there is no one in the town who will do more for the upbuilding of the graded school than the writer. We were merely trying to do our duty as a newspaper. We had our information from men whose integrity and solidity of character will not be questioned by any one. But as to how they got their information we are not responsible. It is the duty of the newspaper to speak through its columns, not for its editor to put himself to any inconvenience to call the personal attention of those interested to public matters.

Its impossible for the editor of a paper to get all his news at first hand. He is compelled to accept a great many items of news from various sources, and also to accept the statements of others at times as the basis of his editorial utterance. We are very much grieved that Mr. Liles should take the article as he did for we are anxious to work in harmony with the educational forces for the advancement of our community.

If Mr. Liles will furnish us with a copy of his article we will be glad to publish it. We apologize for having misplaced it.

We do not feel, however, that our editorial squib is of sufficient interest to call forth an arraignment of us for simply pointing out what was commonly reported as a defect in the management of the school. We feel sure that this statement will be satisfactory to Prof. Liles and all concerned.

Heretofore the delays in getting out the Enterprise have been unavoidable, but this week its different. We intentionally held the forms so we could give the official returns from this county. While there may be some discrepancy in the figures showing the vote polled by townships, the total vote received by each candidate is correct.

The Progressive News, published and edited by Alexander Corey at Jamesville, has made its appearance. It is a neat five-column, four page paper and makes a splendid appearance. May the News live long and prosper.

As Others See Us

"The Williamston Enterprise reports a fine and substantial increase in its circulation. This may be attributed in part to the voting contest it has been running, but more to the all round excellency of the paper itself. May its good fortune stay with it."—So. Publisher.

Mr. Croker is telling what Tammany has stood for. It certainly stood for Dick a long time.

Promotions in the cabinet are coming with the dizzy frequency of advances in the general staff of the army.

Secretary Cortelyou is rather a silent man, which would indicate that the Treasury Department is about to pass to a golden standard.

Carter Harrison has sprained his back but not in the service of the democratic campaign committee.

You can smell the money burning in N. Y., yet.

Ex. Senator Burton laughed when he entered the penitentiary, but he didn't laugh any louder than the rest of us did.

There's so much prosperity in the country that the get-rich-quick man is making a tremendous onslaught on the people with savings. Watch out for him!

Treatment For Mange In Hogs.
Mange in hogs is not difficult to cure and seldom causes death. It is caused by a parasite under the surface of the skin, which produces irritation and later a scab. This is contagious. The best treatment is to wash the pigs in soft water and soap, then rub in dry sulphur. Repeat in a week. A third treatment is seldom necessary.—American Agriculturist.

Danger of Inbreeding.
Inbreeding should be avoided as much as possible, as this practice tends to lower the vitality of swine, says American Agriculturist. Of course when it is desired to perpetuate some particular characteristic inbreeding is allowed, but for the general farmer it is a dangerous practice and should be avoided in almost every instance.

Mostable Farming.
It is an admitted fact in agriculture that the greatest profits result not so much by increasing the acreage or the size of our herds and flocks as by increasing the productiveness of the soil, flocks and herds which we already possess.

He Who Chews Will Know
The Proof Is In the Chewing

The wholesome flavor and delightful, appetizing aroma of the tobacco grown in the famous Piedmont tobacco belt continues to create and popularize man's fondness for chewing tobacco. Lovers of real tobacco pass the good thing along—one chewer makes another chewer—until there are now many more chewers and more pounds of tobacco chewed, to the population, in those States where SCHNAPPS tobacco was first sold, than there are in the States where SCHNAPPS has not yet been offered to the trade.

Only choice selections of well matured, thoroughly cured tobaccos, grown in the famous Piedmont tobacco belt, are used in making SCHNAPPS.

That's why it has a better quality and more lasting flavor than the tobacco formerly sold to chewers at double the price they now pay for SCHNAPPS.

That's why a 10-cent plug of SCHNAPPS is more economical than a much larger plug of cheap tobacco.

That's why SCHNAPPS wins all classes of chewers: the rich, because they do not find a chew to really please them better at any price; the poor, because they get their money's worth of the real snappy chew and flavor not found in the highly sweetened mixtures. Neither the rich nor the poor wish to chew tobacco so intensely sweet that its true flavor and tooth-preserving quality are lost.

Look for the word "SCHNAPPS" on the tag, and on the plug under the tag and then you have it—the most wholesome tobacco produced, with just enough sweetening to preserve the quality and bring out the flavor—the real tobacco flavor that stimulates and satisfies.

Sold at 50c. per pound in 5c. cuts. Strictly 10c. and 15c. plugs.

Concerning Goats.
Goats in general, which is also true of milk goats, thrive best on hilly and rocky land, but they may be successfully raised on level land provided it is not wet and swampy. They cannot thrive under damp conditions. They thrive in both cold and warm climates, but the short haired variety suffers from extreme cold if some shelter is not provided. Otherwise they are affected by climate about the same as sheep are, except that very young kids are slightly more tender than young lambs. Milk goats, like all goats, are great foragers, subsisting on weeds and brush as well as upon good grass pasture.—St. Louis Republic.

Point on Feeding Cows.
If several kinds of food are placed before the cows they will select the kind first that is most palatable and when satisfied will reject a large portion, which may be wasted. When the foods are prepared and made more palatable by the addition of ground grain to hay, straw or fodder there will be less waste. In winter the object should be to have the animal consume the least desirable foods as a matter of economy, and at the same time give them other foods in connection therewith that will enable the animals to gain, as it should not be satisfactory to have them simply remain at the same weight.

Points on Mixing Cream.
It doesn't pay to mix the morning separated cream with that skimmed from milk of the previous night until both are aerated and chilled. The lactic acid bacteria have been working in the older cream, and the souring process goes on more rapidly in the new cream when mixed than if left by itself. Better take a little more time and cool each batch of cream before mixing them.
