Editor Enterprise:

The communication from Wm. H. Wyatt in the Enterprise May 4th awoke sleeping memories. Is he little Billy Wyatt, son of old Uncle Billy Wyatt, who could pray louder and longer, more fervently and effectually in a revival meeting than any man of his time? I remember his little cozy home by the deep sandy road north of town.

If memory serves me right little Billy Wyatt was a frail, diminutive youth, semi-religious, semi-literary and seemed always on the verge of the grave. I thought him long since fallen asleep with his sainted father. But here is to another communication from him.

He may remember Wm. Bagley an important factor in the old town, who used to be interested in sailing vessels from the West Indies, bringing in molasses, rum and tropical products. Think he would load them out with tar, turpentine, rosin and probably shingles. I remember his "English snuff box," of sniffing pinches of snuff, his red bandana handkerchief and loud blowing all impressive to me.

And there was old Uncle Billy Watts sitting on the long piazza of the Watts Hotel, often heard the big dinner bell, seeing strangers and well dressed men go in for dinner. It was the wish of my life to get dinner at that hotel, to see especially how it looked and how it tasted. But my wish was never gratified.

Yes, lawyer Williams, Editor of the Mercury, heard him address the court and jury using the word "stricken" instead of the usual phrase struck, the bar laughed and probably the Judge, he became confused. I think this was his last speech in the old courthouse.

I think the Mercury in print retained the letter "k" publick, etc. His father, Amle Williams, a merchant of the town, it was said did a large business "by memory," booking the day's transactions at night without memorandum.

The home of C. B. Hassell was the most imposing structure, the most attractive environment of tree and grass, vine and flowers, I had ever seen, and to have lived there a sort of paradisaical reservation. I remember his religious home in his younger days, the old "Skewarkee meeting house." I think probably a mile South of the present site. It looked solitary, sad and soothing, amid the great towering oaks of sweeping foliage that would cover deep the white sands in the autumn days, the tall virgin pine in their ever near, yet far away, indescribable sighings in the passing winds. The spot was ideal. The ground hallowed. The place ever awakening slumbering song and story. Its removal broke the links of memory, snapped the lines of tradition, and the gray old folk-lore passed from the memory and sayings of men.

Well, am thinking now of four I remember in school, who have not yet gathered together—the joys and sorrows of life for a pillow of final rest and lain down to dreamless sleep. Two at the old Reddick school house below Holly Springs, Cahah Perry and Frank Fagan. Two at the town Academy, George Whitley and Sylvester Hassell, all of different temperaments, different aspirations, different pleasures, different pilgrimages from the alpha towards the omega. How strange humanity's procession across the ages.

Yours truly,
Thomas Yarrell.

Is Your Home Cosy?

There are many so-called homes that do not deserve the name at all. Home means comfort, but when we have it fixed up so elaborately that we must sit in the garret or the back yard to genuinely enjoy ourselves, then it is high time we made a change and turned out the too-good-to-use articles and substitute for them real homely things that we could enjoy every day of the year and every moment of the day.

Men like pretty home-makers, no mistake there. They can appreciate beauty as well as the next one, but they want that beauty to be of an order that appeals to their comfort. Of what good are cushions so elaborately embroidered that no head can rest on them? What sense is there in easy chairs of such rich material that they are quite the reverse of the name given them? Is there any satisfaction in a room the furnishings of which

Good Words for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

People everywhere take pleasure in testifying to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. Edward Phillips of Barclay, Md., writes: "I wish to tell you that I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My little girl, Catherine, who is two years old, has taken this remedy whenever she has had a cold since she was two months old. About a month ago I contracted a dreadful cold myself, but I took Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was soon as well as ever." This remedy is for sale by S. R. Biggs.

cost hundreds of dollars, when it is only open at rare intervals, when the owner, perhaps, sits by the kitchen fire or in some dingy sitting-room, where he can put his feet on the fender if he wants to, can smoke, and as a great indulgence, tilt back his chair?

Let the sunshine into the gloomy rooms, have a couch to lie, a piano to play on; in fact, a home to live in; one wherein a sense of hospitality and good cheer exudes from the very tables and chairs, instead of a mausoleum of gloomy elegance, wherein every thing is for show and nothing to be used.

COTTON SEED MEAL.

For Mule and Horses.

At a meeting of the South Carolina Live Stock Association held at Columbia, S. C., on Feb. 8th and 9th an address full of practical advice, backed by scientific knowledge, was delivered by the eminent Dr. Tait Butler, of Raleigh, N. C., on "Practical Stock Feeding in the South." Dr. Butler is a recognized authority on feeds and feeding and what he says should have a special weight and influence throughout the entire South and that part of his discussion touching the feeding of horses, mules and colts is of special importance to the Southern breeder.

In the official report of the general discussion which followed Dr. Butler's address, this occurs, Dr. Butler was asked: "You speak of feeding horses on cotton seed meal. What about the muscular forming properties of cotton seed meal, on the animal, compared to corn and oats?"

Dr. Butler: "There is enough known about feeding horses cotton seed meal for me to state that if you had a horse that you were feeding, 14 pounds of corn daily, that you could take out four pounds of that corn and put in two pounds of cotton seed meal and get better results. Not because corn is not the best feed we have for supplying heat and energy, but there is another thing needed. When that horse supplies you muscular energy he is burning up his muscles just as you burn coal in a furnace to supply energy to run the machinery in your factories, and he has got to have something to build up those wasted muscles, and corn does not contain it in sufficient quantity. A little cotton seed meal is better than an additional amount of corn. When you are already feeding your horses stover and ten pounds of corn, I would rather have two pounds of cotton seed meal added than four pounds of corn. I would rather have two pounds of cotton seed meal added than four pounds of oats. Corn is a splendid horse feed, but we are wasting two million dollars a year

No Operation

Mrs. Malinda Akers, of Basham, Va., writes: "I had what doctors call 'prolapse,' and couldn't stand straight. I had pain in my back and shoulders, and was very irregular and profuse. Doctors said an operation was needed, but I couldn't bear the thought of the knife. After taking three bottles of Wine of Cardui, I could walk around. Can now do my housework and am in splendid health."

Cardui is a pure, vegetable, medicinal essence, especially adapted to cure women's diseases. It relieves excessive periodical pains, regulates irregularities, and is a safe, pleasant and reliable remedy for all sick women. In successful use for over 70 years. Try it.

in South Carolina feeding an all-corn ration.

"In what proportion would you feed corn and cotton seed meal?"

Dr. Butler: "That will depend upon your hay."

"Plenty of hay?"

Dr. Butler: "An average ration for a thousand-pound horse doing real hard work, is about 15 pounds of grain and 12 to 15 pounds of fodder and 15 pound of corn, I would take 5 pounds of peavine hay and 7 to 8 pounds of stover, and then add 10 pounds of corn and 2 pounds of cotton seed meal, and get better results. If I had oats to feed and had some peavine hay or clover hay, I do not think I would feed any cotton seed meal at all, because it is bad to feed unless you can mix it with something else. If I did not have any peavine or clover, I would certainly put some cotton seed meal in the ration of a hard working horse, unless I had plenty of oats, and they were cheap."

This is important testimony from the highest authority, and should interest every farmer and horse owner in the South. We send thousands of dollars into the Northwest every year for corn. We send into the Northeast every year thousands of dollars worth of our Cotton Seed Meal. Nobody is benefited by this but the railroads. If we keep our cotton seed meal at home to feed it will help us, and Dr. Butler says it will help our horses—and Dr. Butler knows.
