ISRAEL'S KING REJECTED. Matthew 21:1-17 -August 28.

"Resanna to the Son of David! Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the Highest I'

LTHOUGH God foreknew and the prophets foretoid that the Jewish nation would reject Jesus and not receive him as their King, nevertheless, everything was done as though the results were not foreknown and foretold. The prophecies were fulfilled. Today's study illustrates this. Jesus offered himself to Isfael as their Messianic King, just five days before his crucifixion, and on the exact day upon which, as the Lamb of God, he should have been received by them, in order that they might have been "passed over" and, as a nation, become the antitypical Levites from amongst whom would have been selected the antitypical priests. Their failure to receive Jesus at the appointed time did not at all interfere with the Divine arrangments, for all of the Jews found worthy to be of the spiritual Levites and spiritual Priests were selected, although the nation wase rejected. The remainder of those spiritual, antitypical. Priests and Levites God has been gathering from amongst the Gentiles ever since. By and by, all these, of whom Jesus is the Chief Priest, will be glorified on the spirit plane. Then will begin the great Messianic work for Israel, and through Israel for all the nations of the world. Thus in due time Israel's expectations will be realized on a grander scale than they ever dreamed of. Abraham, Isaac and all the prophets shall be made princes or rulers in all the earth. Israel Festored to Divine favor shall "obtain mercy" of God through the glorified Church, and shall become the channel of God's favor for pouring out upon mankind riches of grace.

The Sabbath day prior to his crucifixion was spent by the Great Teacher at the home of Lazarus and Martha and Mary. His fame had spread by reason of the miracle performed upon Lazarus. A feast was given in his honor on Sabbath night after sundown. It was then that Mary anointed him with the precious perfume which Jesus said was an anointing for his burial. The fragrance of this perfume has come down to us through the ages. The next morning, to fulfill the Scriptures. Jesus sent for the ass and its little colt to be brought. The ass was probably a white one, for it is reputed to have been the custom of the kings of Israel to ride upon white asses. The multitude who had come to see Jesus, and Lazarus whom he had brought from the tomb, filled with admiration, hailed Jesus with shouts, as "The Son of David!" The Great King! The Messiah! Certain scribes and Pharisees called attention to this and suggested that Jesus rebuke them. His answer was that, had the people refused to acclaim him, the stones would have cried out; because it had been prophesied centuries before, "Shout, O daughter of Jerusalem! Behold, thy King cometh unto thee. He is meek and having salvation; lowly, and sitting upon an ass, with its colt, the foal of an ass." The little procession headed for Jerusalem, the multitude shouting and strewing their clothing and palm branches for the ass to tread upon, as marks of honor to the great King whom they imperfectly, indistinctly, recognized-not realizing the still greater glory and honor of his later revealing in the end of this Age, when "every knee shall bow and every tongue confess to him."

Four months ago-on April 24th, we passed over the historic road from Bethlehem to Jerusalem, thinking the while of the great incident of this lesson. The road sweeps around the side of the Mount of Olives on a reasonable grade until suddenly a turn of the road and the sharp declivity of the Valley of Hinnom (Gebenna) brings Jerusalem into full view in a moment. Time and again we walked over part of the road and noted where the Master halted the little procession and wept over the City, saying, "O, Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings [for safety], and ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. For I say unto you. Ye shall not see me henceforth, till [that day when] ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord."-(Matt. 23:37-39.)

Our heart went out in sympathy for the Jewish people. We recalled how they have been nationally "left desolate" for eighteen centuries, and have been persecuted, even, alas, by those who have named the name of Christ! We specially rejoiced to think that "the time of Jacob's trouble" will soon be over-that the time when they will enter into the New Covenant relationship with God will soon be at hand. (Jer. 31:31; Rom. 11:27.) We rejoiced to think that soon Immanuel in the glory of his Kingdom will be revealed, and that all flesh shall behold the glory of that Kingdom. Then the Lord will pour upon Israel the spirit of prayer and of supplication and they shall look upon him whom they pierced. (Zech, 12:10.) We rejoice to think that "that day" when they shall say, "Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord," is nigh at hand. But, we reflect, correspondingly, the time of special favor to spiritual Israel must be drawing to a close.

That spot where Jesus stopped to prophesy Israel's future was the same one over which, a little later, the army of Titus marched to the destruction of Jerusalem, and, amidst famine, finally accomplished the destruction of the city, taking, according to records, ninety-seven thousand prisoners. One million, one hundred thousand, were said to have perished through famine and war. The ground around the City of Jérusalem the Romans planted thick with crosses, on which Jews were crucified until there was room for no more, says history.

The Great Teacher's entry into Jerusalem caused considerable commotion He went directly to the Temple and ordered from it the money-changers and dove-sellers who had no right within its hallowed precincts. Thus was fulfilled the prophecy, "The zeal of thine house has consumed me." The poor, the blind, the lame, again had his ministries. Again the chief religionists of the time were vexed and considered him an intruder upon their arrangements and were displeased with the multitude's shouting his praises as the Messiah, the Son of David. They rebuked the Teacher, who answered, Scripturally, "Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise."-Matt. 21:16; Psalms 8:2.

SMITH DEFEATS BROWN Georgia Chooses Man Whom She Turned Down Two Years Ago.

Atlanta, Ga., Special.-Early re-turns from the Democratic primaries Tuesday indicate a hard race between Gov. Joseph M. Brown and former overnor Hoke Smith for the gubernatorial nomination, with Smith in the lead and gaining steadily as the toll by counties increased. As the first 34 counties reported Smith had apparently safe leads in 20. He carried Fulton county, including the city of Atlanta, by 530 majority.

The returns came clowly, showing numerous upsets in calculations of the campaign managers. For example, Cobb county, the heme of Governor Brown, early swung into the Smith column, Savannah reported the final count in Burke county for Brown by the extremely narrow mar-gin of 4 votes, and McIntosh county for Smith by 21.

Governor Hits Editor.

New York, Special .- A Reno, Nev., special says: "Governor Dickerson, enraged by a story which appeared in a Reno paper on the selection of a new prison site, went into the office of the Carson News, which is edited Geo. A. Montrose, and demanded by to know if Montrose wrote the article.

"Montrose said he did not. but that if he had he would not be afraid to acknowledge it. Dickerson is said have made a lunge at Montrose, bis fist grazing the editor's cheek. Montrose, catching the Governor by the threat, bore him backward, also dolivering a stiff body blow. A friend separated them. Dickerson refused to leave and Montrose started to call an officer by telephone Dickerson then departed.''

Nothing Serious at Staunton.

Staunton, Va., Special .-- The caves now excite only casual interest. Strangers stopping off for business or pleasure visit the scene and pay a contractor 10 cents to go on a brilge across one of the caverns and look down at a narrow stream of muddy water that measures 100 feet.

The contractor who is undertaking to save these buildings has installed a pump and will pump the water out of his cave, and necessarily all the caves, sufficiently to enable him to work on the solid rock which has been covered by the rise, in the water.

Geological History of River Beds.

Undoubtedly at one time most of the rivers ran in fuller streams than they do at the present time, but it is altogether improbable that the present beds of the Peace and Athabasca riv-ers were filled to their banks. These river beds have been worn to their present depth in most instances by the erosion of the waters. In former times the courses of many of these streams were marked by rapids. The action of the water has worn the beds from the high levels that make the rapids to the present more uniform It is claimed that the edge of level. the falls at Niagara was at one time much nearer Lake Ontario than at present. The water is gradually wearing away the rocky front of the river bed at the falls. The same action has undoubtedly taken place in most of the rivers with deep beds and high banks. The opposite effect is continually occurring in the case of rivers with low banks and sluggish. current, as, for example, the Mississippi. There the bed is being gradually filled up with a deposit of soil brought down from the tributaries. such as the Missouri.

Manufacture of Sandpaper.

Old-fashloned sandpaper was made with selected sand-hence the name. What is known as sandpaper now is all made with crushed glass and is really much' better than the old-time produce. Old bottles, etc., are first crushed and then ground, and the various grades of fineness are secured by sifting. To get the powder on the paper hot glue is applied as it passes through a machine and the powdered glass is sifted on at the same time. Then a wooden roller passes over the sheet and presses fown and smoothes the sand.

Where Women Ruled.

The native women of Hawaii have always been prominent in affairs of state, in latter days being limited by circumstances to private influence, public harangues, writing for the newspapers or lobbying, and this being confined to a limited number. In ancient days rank of nobility descended from the mother, and the characters of many chieftainesses shine out as beacon lights in the history of this interesting people. During the monarchy women held most responsible positions, especially under the earlier kings, as regents and premiers, and for some years, and until very lately, a woman versed in Hawaiian customs presided as judge (and a most dignified judge) of the court of private ways and water rights. What attitude the Hawalian women as a whole would take on the equal suffrage question cannot be determined except by vote, but I think it fair to presume that they would favor it .--Columbian.

The Unreality of Opera.

There are people who still complain of the unreality of opera, who cannot subject themselves to its illusion. And indeed the illusion of opera breaks down if everything in it is not kept at the same distance from reality. In that world of musical expression we must never be suddenly lowered by any incongruous detail into the ordinary world of prose. Realism, the attempt to work upon the emotions by complete illusion of reality, is disastrous in opera. If the scene is a railway station we remember at once that people do not sing when they are catching trains.

Perfumed Beds.

There is nothing very novel, the uninitiated may think, about perfumed beds, for every one knows how good housewives have for a generation prided themsel; es on their napery, and that one of their special little fads was to place lavender bags among the sheets in order to add a little to the luxury of the sleeper. But when perfumed beds are talked of nowadays something is contemplated which was anknown to the old-time housewife.

Now between the mattress and the sheet there is laid a scented pad-a thin guilted affair, which has one layer of cotton freely sprinkled with the lavorite sachet powder-which causes the whole bed to smell deliciously of roses, violets, or whatever may be the chosen perfume.

Pillows are also opened and sachet powder is sprinkled among the feathers. Orris makes a perfume resembling violets, and there are some people who like that of pine, which is easily obtained by gathering the needles from the trees in summer and laying them flat in little sacks, which are inserted in both pads and pillows.

No Love for the Turtle.

"The only living thing in this place that nobody ever tries to pet is the turtle," said the animal dealer. There are certain tones of the voice, certain pats and punches that all ani-mals are especially responsive to. Parrots like to be rubbed at a certain spot on the top of the head, a magpie is happiest when somebody is scratching him under the wings, and certain other birds have a preference for tickling under the chin. The dogs, the cats, the mice and the snakes are partial to a particular kind of love making, and every day we have visitors who know enough about natural history to pet each bird and beast according to its likes-everything, that is, but the turtle. Nary a pat nor a punch nor a tickle does anybody bestow upon him. Sometimes I feel sorry for the poor old chap floundering in his pool in solemn loneliness.
