

MRS. WILSON GREY LAMB DIED

At her Home Monday After Months of Illness--A Woman of Rare Charm of Heart and Manner--Buried on Tuesday at Oakdale Cemetery

Williamston was shocked on Monday to hear of the death of Mrs. Virginia Cotten Lamb, wife of Col. Wilson G. Lamb, at her home on West Smithwick Street. Mrs. Lamb had been suffering for several months but the family and physician had no fears of immediate death. But Sunday afternoon a change was noticed and all through the night physicians and loved ones watched without hope and the end came at 12:18 p. m., Monday.

Mrs. Lamb was born in Hamilton sixty years ago and has lived all her married life in Williamston, where she has reared a large and attractive family. She was richly endowed with that rare charm of manner seen only in the women of the Southland. Her love for her home, her family, her State and her country gave her a place among the patriotic women who are perpetuating the deeds of those in whose blood is written the history of the South. She was the President of the Theodore Hassell Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, and a member of the Colonial Dames of America. For years she has been closely identified with the work of the Episcopal Church, being a devout communicant. She was the first leader of the Woman's Auxiliary organized in the parish and continued such for years. Her ready help could always be had and many unfortunate ones sought help of her and found it freely given. Possessing brilliancy of mind and beauty of features and manners, her presence gave pleasure wherever seen.

She is survived by her husband, Col. W. G. Lamb, and the following children: John C. Lamb, of Wilson; Mrs. F. F. Bullock, of New York; Mrs. Charles H. G. Mills of Charlotte; Misses Mayo and Annie Lamb, Messrs. Wilson G. and Luke Lamb, of Williamston. Two brothers, Messrs. Ed Cotten, of Martin County, and Augustus Cotten, of Baltimore, together with eleven grandchildren, also survive her.

The funeral services were conducted at the Church of the Advent at 3 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, by the rector, Rev. Morrison Bethea, the flower laden casket being borne in by Dr. John D. Biggs, A. D. Mizell, F. E. Fagan, Alonzo Hassell, Kader B. Crawford and H. M. Burras. The interment was in the family plot in Oakdale Cemetery. Among the out-of-town relatives attending were: Mrs. Sue B. Haughton, and Mrs. William B. Morton, of Washington; G. Charles Lamb, of Henderson; Gideon C. Lamb, of Scotland Neck; Mr. and Mrs. John C. Lamb, of Wilson.

Stroud-Brown

Wednesday, June 14th, at 9:30 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. T. J. Stancill, 3 miles from Greenville, occurred one of the prettiest home weddings of the season, when Miss Lela Brown, sister of Mrs. Stancill and Mr. Joseph James Stroud were united in marriage by Rev. C. W. Howard, of the Christian church, of Kinston.

The house was tastefully decorated in pine, ivy and potted plants, white and green predominating in the parlor, while in the sitting and dining rooms the color scheme was carried out in pink and white.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding March, played by Miss Mavis Evans, the bridal party descended the stairway in the following order: Misses Verna Lee Stancill and Lillian Stroud, the ribbon girls, Messrs William Evans and Robert Stancill. The other attendants were Mesdames W. J. Evans, dressed in pink silk, R. T. Coburn in white satin, both carrying bride's roses.

The groom entered with his best man, Mr. M. L. Turnage, of Greenville, who were joined at the altar by the bride, accompanied by her bride's maid, Miss Ada Ward, in blue silk, carrying pink and white sweet peas.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white satin en-train with pearl and crystal trimmings, carrying a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley, her veil being caught with orange blossoms. The gentlemen were in full dress suits.

The beautiful ring ceremony was used, the ring being carried in by Miss Mattie Evans, niece of the bride.

During the ceremony Schubert's Serenade was softly played and Lohegrin's march was the recessional.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held by Mr. and Mrs. Stancill. Dainty refreshments, consisting of cream, cake, mints, etc., were served.

The newly married pair left on the mid-night train for New York, Atlantic City and other points of interest.

The bride's going-away gown was of navy blue cloth with hat and gloves to match.

After their return they will be at home in Scotland Neck.

Mrs. Stroud is a woman of sterling worth, high Christian character and a teacher of no mean ability. Mr. Stroud is popular among his friends and is rapidly gaining recognition as a contractor, having under construction at the present time the erection of the handsome graded school building at Scotland Neck.

Bank at Jamesville

The opening of the bank at Jamesville marked a turning point in the business life of that town. Nothing so distinguishes a town or city from other places as good banking facilities. The people of Jamesville and vicinity will soon see the beneficial effects of the bank. The institution opened for business on Friday last. There were over $2700 in deposits and the prospects for success are splendid. Asa J. Manning, who is cashier, is fully capable and worthy to do the work and the other officers and directors are sound business men. This makes the sixth bank established in the county, the Bank of Martin County being the oldest.

He had suffered from ptomaine poison and died after several hours of intense agony, the attack not yielding in the slightest to the most careful attention of physicians. The parents and the other members of the family were almost prostrated with grief, and the sympathy of the entire town and community goes out to the bereaved ones.

Death of David Gurganus

David Gurganus died at his home near Williamston, June 12th, after an illness of thirty-eight days. On May 5th, he was thrown from his buggy by his horse and received a serious wound on his right leg. Blood poison set in and God took him home where he longed to be.

He was prompt in all obligations, willing to fulfill all duties.

He was sixty-four years and twenty-six days old. He never professed religion but had a hope in Christ. He was sober and upright in all his ways.

Attempted Robbery

Wednesday night Policeman Weatherington was on his rounds to punch the clocks, and going to one behind the store of Anderson, Crawford & Co., found that a shutter to that building was open. Upon investigation he found the sash raised and a bag full of merchandise by the window. Charles Baker, who rooms on the second floor, was called but failed to come down. Weatherington went for Chief White and together they searched the store but could find no one concealed. It is thought that the burglar, on seeing the lantern of the watchman as he approached the building, vamped and left the goods behind. After a thorough examination of the window, it was concluded that the pin in the bar across the shutter had been removed either during the day or at the time of the entrance. A portion of the sash was also broken. There is no clue to the burglar. The bag contained two suits of clothing, several pairs of overalls and shirts, a pair of shoes and a bolt of silk. Several weeks ago the store was entered and a quantity of goods stolen but there was no clue to the intruder.

Cuts Throat with Razor

Yesterday afternoon the entire city was shocked at the report that Charlie Ricks, eldest son of Sheriff and Mrs. Geo. E. Ricks of this city, had attempted his life. He had been despondent and very much depressed all day because of the death of his fiancée, Miss Zaddah Watson Sunday morning about 3 o'clock. He was very devoted to the young lady and for the time being her death had no doubt preyed upon his mind to such an extent that he became temporarily not himself. He used a razor to perform the deed and but for the timely arrival of friends would no doubt have succumbed to the injury.

The first intimation his family had of the terrible deed was about four o'clock when he was heard to groan aloud, then some members of the family rushed upstairs and found that the door to his room was locked, the window was then opened and they went out on the roof of the shed room and to the window of his room, where he was seen lying on the bed in a pool of blood. Assistance was called for and immediately neighbors rushed in. Mr. T. C. Carrowan was the first to reach his bedside and stopped the flow of blood until physicians arrived.

Drs. John G. Blount, J. L. Nicholson, Joshua Tayloe, A. C. Hoyt and D. T. Tayloe responded to the call and dressed the wound.

The young man lost a considerable amount of blood and was for a time in a precarious condition.

He is today resting well and strong hopes are entertained for his recovery.—Washington-News June 19th.

The Poet Won

"I understand Kipling is paid a dollar a word for his poetry," said the soulful poet to the hard-headed editor. "Now you don't pay me any such price for my poetry."

"I can hardly afford to pay you a dollar a word for your poetry," the editor said; "but I will pay you a dollar a line for a short poem."

The poet departed to return next day with the following poem:

John
Yeans,
Jane
Turns,
Eyes
Meet;
Love
Sweet;
Jane
Stops;
John
Pops.
Both

'Nough
Said.
John
Mad,
Jane
Sad,
Both

Won't
Speak.
