GRADUATION WEEK TO AT ANNAPOLIS

ACADEMIC BUILDING, NAVAL ACADEMY

the officer! When the cheers died away

Friday, June 6, Annapolis had passed through one of the most brilliant weeks since the Hon. George Bancroft, secretary of the navy under James K. Polk, founded Naval Academy in 1845.

Friday terminated the cadet week of work and play. When the cadets were lined up, glistening like diamonds in the afternoon sun in their dress uniforms, to receive their diplomas and listen to the address of the Hon. Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, it was the last dress parade on the old grounds for many, for on the morrow the uniform of the commissioned officers replaced the garb of the cadet. The day marked an epoch in the lives of these boys who have spent four long years of study, a day the pleasant memories of which will come back to them in the cold dim watch of the midnight

This year was the second in the annals of the academy that the cadets graduated as commissioned officers.

Official Reception. At 10 o'clock the board of visitors arrived and the entire morning was devoted to an official reception. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the board of visitors gathered at the superintendent's quarters, where another reception was tendered them. Then the cadets were drawn up, resplendent in their dress uniforms, to go through the evolutions of dress parade. After the parade the awards were made.

The professional prizes, open to any member of the graduating class, last year went to Midshipman Howard E. Saunders. They are: Class of 1871 sword for practical and theoretical gunnery, cup offered by National Society Sons of Revolution for excellence in practical gunnery, cup offered by Col Robert M. Thompson of New York and graduate of class of 1868 for On Monday night the Masqueraders, an organization made up of midshipmen, presented their annual play.

On Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock there was a street riot and skirmish the first battalion. At 10:45 an artillery drill by the second bat talion. At 2:30 the board of visitors inspected the buildings and grounds At 6 o'clock dress parade. At 8 o'lock the superintendent gave a dinner to the board of visitors, and another per formance by the Masqueraders was held at 8 o'clock.

Wednesday morning at 9:15 the cadets took part in a competitive artillery drill, and in the afternoon at 2:30 in another competitive drill in seamanship. At 6 o'clock the cadets formed for dress parade. At night the cadets gathered their mothers. sisters, sweethearts and friends at a garden party given to the members of the graduating class by the super intendent.

On Thursday a competitive infantry drill was held in the morning at 9:15, torpedo and gun drills and exercises in practical engineering at 2:30 and 4:30 in the afternoon. After the dress parade at 6 o'clock the presentation of colors for general excellence took place. The right to carry those colors it an honor which is keenly fought for by the cadets. The annual alumni dinner was held at 8:30 on Thursday night and from 9 to 1 the members of the first class again gathered their friends at their german. On Friday graduation exercises tool place, and Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, addressed the cadets The farewell ball started at 9:30 and at 12:30 the farewells were said.

Society Stars There. The social gayety of the week is its biggest features. For months the belies of all the big cities in the east and many in the west live in anticipation of the joys awaiting them during "June week" at the fa-mous training school. Here fair femininity holds court for five days. Along 'Took the promenades of the romantic summer

The poor "cit" who acts as her escort while the midshipman is at drills or attending his many other duties fades into the background when "the boy of the sea" sails into view and relieves him of his precious charge.

On Saturday the cadets embark for the yearly cruise for practice, while the graduate dons his "cit's" suit and leaves for a short visit to his home before he goes to sea under orders to begin his real life work for Uncle Sam

TOO BUSY FOR LONG TITLES

Germans Sensibly Abbreviate Names Which They Realize Cause Much Waste of Time.

Long-winded German names are something of a trial to the world at large, but the Germans themselves appear to have found the remedy, says the Scientific American. In 1909 an international aeronautical exposition was organized at Frankfort-on-the-Main. Its full name in German was "Internationale Luftschiffahrt-Ausstellung." After being abbrebiated to "L L. A.," this ultimately became "lla; and as the "Ila" the exposition has since been universally known. In like manner the "Allgemeine Luftfahrtzeug-Ausstellung" held last year in Berlin was known as the "Ala;" and now we of the "Damnu," which, to the busy man, is a happy substitute for "Deutsche Ausschuss fur den mathematischen und naturwissenschaft-lichen Unterricht." "Imuk," which signifies Internationale mathematische Unterrichts-Kommission and "Datsch," a condensation of Deutsche Ausschuss fur technische Schulen.

Of course, this method of syncopation has its limits! since many combinations of initials are unpronouncable, while others might be too grotesque to be palatable. On the other hand it eems likely that in future the names of many expositions, societies and the like will be deliberately selected with Mental Originality.

Anatole France has coined a phrase which may have the breath of life in it. What is madness, after all," he says, but a sort of mental originality." writes that Charles Dickens always liked madmen, and cities among the madmen good Mr. Dick, in "David Cop-perfield," whose innocence is described with such tender grace. "I believe," writes the great Frenchman of letters that Dickens had more feeling than any other writer. I believe that his novels are as beautiful as the love and pity that inspired them. I regard David Copperfield' as a new gospel. I believe, lastly, that Mr. Dick is a 'sensible' madman, because the only rea son left to him is the reasoning of the heart, and that is hardly ever received. What matter if he does fly kites on which he has written some reflections concerning the death of King Charles I.? He is benevolent he wishes ill to no one; and that is a piece of wisdom to which many same men do not so easily attain as he."

Quinine Made Her Deaf. In an earlier day it was by no neans an unusual thing during the fever and ague season in Indiana to meet persons who apologized for tem porary deafness by saying that they had been taking quinine. The New York Medical ournal reports a case where a girl sixteen years old in the course of 15 minutes took 30 grains of quinine. Following this heroic treatment she complained two hours later of intense headache and severe ringing n the ears. By the following morning perception of all sounds was lost. LESSON FOR JULY 20

MOSES CALLED TO DELIVER ISRAEL.

LESSON TEXT-Ex: 3:1-14. Read th ontire chapter.

GOLDEN TEXT—"Blessed are the pure n heart for they shall see God." Matt.

Last week we learned that Moses had a vision of a great need; in to-day's lesson there is revealed to Moses the other half of the lesson, viz., One who could meet that need; One who could supply all that was lacking when Moses made his first ill-advised attempt to free his kins

Bush and Voice.

I. The Manner of Moses' Call His call came in the midst of his labor as a shepherd. God does set a premium upon idleness and his greatest revelation came through two very common agencies, a bush and a There were probably many other such bushes on the back side of the desert, but this one is distinguished by the presence of Jehovah. Moses turned aside to see this "great sight." Why was it not consumed Because it was divinely lighted. Having secured his attention Jehovah spoke to Moses, called to him out of the midst of the bush. When men pause in the faithful discharge of the common tasks of life and consider God it will not be long before they will hear his still, small voice. God's call is never to the idler and is gen erally through the common agencies and experiences of life. The time is ripe for deliverance. God had tested Moses for forty years. Now God is ready to reveal himself here upon Horeb, the mountain of God. Je-hovah's presence is symbolized by the fire (see chapter 13:21, 22 and 19:18). The lowly bush suggests the incarnation. In Jesus humanity was on fire with the presence of God, yet was not consumed.

II. The Purpose of Moses' Call.
This was two-fold: (a) Deliverance from sorrow, oppression and the task masters of Egypt (type of sin) vv. 9 10, 17. (b) Deliverance to freedom a better land, to service, worship and riches, vv. 8, 12, 21, 22. Moses made ready response to the voice of God saying, "Here am I" (v. 4). He had not grown cold and cynical during his shepherd days, but rather was more keen and teachable. He had, how ever, another lesson to learn, viz. the majesty and holiness of God. So it was he is halted and commanded to remove his shoes (v. 5). The Christian can draw nigh with bold ness (Heb. 10:19) but he must remember to do so with "reverence and swe" (Heb. 12:28, 29).

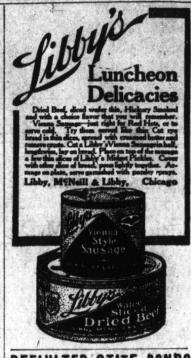

God's Answer.

III. The Credentials That Accom panied Moses' Call. As has been suggested, this call came by means of very common agencies, viz., a bush and a voice. While Moses no longer depends upon his own strength yet he lacks that assurance and those credentials that will justify, in his own sight, a return to the court of Pharaoh. "Who am I that I should go?" God's answer is, "Certainly l will be with thee." Moses need have d the Christia (Matt. 28:30). "If God be for us who can be against us?" Our commission which is from God is certain of ultimate success. There could be no pos sibility of failure for Moses is told that when deliverance is accomplished "ye shall serve God upon this fied for he remembers his previous experience with his kinsman (2:13, 14), what shall he say to them? In answer God gives Moses a name by which he shall be known "I am that I am," and further he is to tell them that he is the "Jehovah, the God of their fathers." God does not set before Moses a primrose path to fol-low. He plainly states that Pharaoh will object and that their deliverance will be wrought by a mighty hand.

IV. Moses' Response to the Call. We have seen that this call 'in" the midst of the common duties of daily toil; that it was "for" a definite, a specific purpose, deliverance from and deliverance to; this call came "by" God. A God, past, present. future. God a person, "I am." God, a power, "I will." but the call was "to" an agent. God works his purposes through man, "I will send thee." This agent had assurance, proper credentials, and was promi power, sufficient aid. Moses as this agent was a man of (1) humility (v. 11); (2) lacking in knowledge (v. (3) lacking in confidence 4:1); (4) lacking eloquence (4:10).

V. The Teaching. We thus have presented a wonderful revelation of God. The unconsumed bush appealed to Moses. Filled to fullness with the flaming fire of God's glory it was still unconsumed, a suggestion of what the presence of God means either in a man or among a people The visible is followed by the audi The visible is followed by the audible and there is brought to our attention the absolute purity of God, the infinite power of God, the marvelous patience of God, the overwhelming pity of God and the irresistible patience of God. Such infinite resources are at our disposal.
