

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES—RESINOL—CURED

Atlanta, Ga., April 24.—"My face was covered with pimples which defied creams, soaps and cosmetics. They were a source of constant humiliation to me. By the time I had finished a cake of resinol soap and half a jar of resinol ointment, my skin was soft as velvet, and as smooth. My friends were stunned, and everyone asked me what I had done. When I told them, I think they hardly believed it, for the transformation was simply wonderful. Since then I have been using resinol soap and shall never be without it again, for I have learned the delights of a clear, soft, beautiful complexion that may be attained by its constant use." (Signed) Miss E. P. Gaddis, 284 South Pryor St.

Resinol ointment and resinol soap stop itching instantly and speedily heal eczema, and other skin humors, dandruff, sunburn, sores, burns and piles. Sold by every druggist.—Adv.

Marble Windows.
Remarkably beautiful effects are secured by the use of marble as a means of transmitting light instead of glass. This has been accomplished by a new process which has been devised by an engineer of Hamburg, W. Engle. He has succeeded in making plates of marble no more than three millimeters in thickness and for the use designated it is available up to 20 millimeters thick. The suitability of marble for this purpose was realized some time ago, but the difficulty encountered was that of securing the marble in slabs of sufficient thickness. These plates permit of the passage of a greater amount of light than treated glass does, and at the same time, imparts to the rays a much pleasanter color. Most opal glass imparts to the light an undesirable greenish tinge, while the light which passes through the marble has a reddish violet which is much pleasanter. After the marble has been ground down to the desired thickness it is subjected to an immersion in oil under high pressure, and the effects secured in this manner are said the superior to those of stained glass.

GOOD CHANGE.
Coffee to Postum.
The large army of persons who have found relief from many chronic ailments by changing from coffee to Postum as a daily beverage, is growing each day.

It is only a simple question of trying it for oneself in order to know the joy of returning health as realized by an ill young lady. She writes: "I had been a coffee drinker nearly all my life and it affected my stomach—caused insomnia and I was seldom without a headache. I had heard about Postum and how beneficial it was, so concluded to quit coffee and try it.

"I was delighted with the change. I can now sleep well and seldom ever have headache. My stomach has gotten strong and I can eat without suffering afterwards. I think my whole system greatly benefited by Postum."

"My brother also suffered from stomach trouble while he drank coffee, but now, since using Postum, he feels so much better he would not go back to coffee for anything."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.
Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled—15c and 25c packages.
Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly—30c and 50c tins. The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

HUERTA LASTED ONLY ONE YEAR AFTER WARNING

His Flight Follows Twelve Months of What May Be Called Tottering.

FALL CERTAIN FROM FIRST

In the Absence of Recognition by the United States It Was Recognized That the Dictator Would Be Unable to Retain Power.

Washington.—Just one year has elapsed since President Wilson announced that his Mexican policy then consisted of the edict that "Huerta must go," and assured the American public that the Mexican president was "tottering," and soon would fall.

For the first four months of President Wilson's administration he was absolutely silent regarding the Mexican situation, though it gradually became known that he did not intend to grant official recognition to the Huerta government. Late in June, 1913, representatives of a number of European powers drew up a letter of protest, in which it was declared that the United States had largely contributed to the anarchical conditions in Mexico and that it ought either to recognize the Huerta government and discourage the revolution or assume responsibility for the pacification of Mexico. This joint document reached the hands of President Wilson, and resulted in action by him.

Lind Sent to Mexico.
Henry Lane Wilson, hold-over ambassador to Mexico, was recalled, and after a scant hearing at the White House was asked to resign. John Lind, former colleague of Secretary Bryan in the house of representatives and former governor of Minnesota, was designated the president's confidential agent and sent to Mexico in an endeavor to get Huerta's sanction to a plan for his elimination.

Mr. Lind presented four proposals to President Huerta, through his minister of foreign affairs, the Mexican president declining to receive the American emissary because he had no credentials. These proposals, or rather demands, were for:

The resignation of Huerta.
The establishment of a provisional government, pending the holdings of elections.
The elimination of Huerta as a candidate for the presidency by election. The conclusion of an armistice between the contending forces.

U. S. Backs Down.
In the correspondence that ensued the United States receded from its proposals one by one until there remained only the demand that Huerta be no a candidate in the elections due to be held in the fall. It was generally conceded that in the Lind correspondence Huerta's foreign minister, Frederico Gamboa, had decidedly the best of it, and the administration was finally left to content itself with Gamboa's statement that certainly Huerta could not be a candidate to succeed himself because of a constitutional prohibition to that effect, as the net result of the Lind discussions.

President Wilson addressed congress on the subject immediately upon the failure of the Lind mission, urging a policy of patience, while Lind went to Vera Cruz, where he remained almost continuously, playing the role of reporter to the president until April last.

Soon thereafter William Bayard Hale, the president's campaign biographer, who had also been serving in Mexico City, as an unofficial observer for the president, was assigned on another secret mission and went to the Mexican border to ascertain the purpose and character of the Constitution.

U. S. Backs the Rebels.
His reports, combined with other information possessed by the president, are considered to have been chiefly responsible for the president's decision to back the Constitutionalists just as far as possible. This policy of support for the revolutionists was never officially announced, but became increasingly evident.

Meantime Huerta had found, so it was officially asserted in Mexico City, that the congress, consisting largely of Maderistas, was conspiring against him and defeating his governmental projects. He accordingly, in October, arrested a large number of the deputies and put them in prison, where many of them remained for considerable periods. He declared himself a virtual dictator, pending, he said, the elections, at which a new congress was to be chosen and candidates for president voted upon.

Two Prophets.
Apropos of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's light-hearted prophecy that the English would yet rise up and lynch their militant suffragists, Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain said in New York: "Sir Arthur is one of the minor novelists, and still more, he is one of the minor prophets. Give women the vote instead of lynching her—that is the better way to put an end to militancy."

"And Englishmen" of Sir Arthur's chuckle-headed type say exasperating things like that about the militants one minute, and the next minute seech them to bury the hatchet. Well they'll bury it."

Mrs. Boissevain smiled gayly. "They'll bury it, all right—in oil paintings—and statuary—and, maybe, a chucklehead or two."

This action by Huerta brought an angry response from President Wilson, who notified him that the United States would not consider giving any recognition to the results of elections following such an usurpation of power.

European and South American governments were given to understand that they might expect drastic action by the United States in Mexico if Huerta did not retire. But Huerta did not retire, and the United States took no action.

Huerta Stays on Job.
Though barred from being a candidate, it was announced that Huerta had received the greatest number of votes in the elections held in November, which were admittedly farcical. Felix Diaz was also a candidate, but, fearful of Huerta, did not venture further into Mexico than the port of Vera Cruz.

The elections for president were declared null and void, because not a sufficient number of districts had participated in the voting, and as a result of the farce Huerta remained in power as provisional president.

In December in addressing congress, President Wilson announced that Huerta, the usurper, was near his collapse, and expressed the opinion that it would not be necessary to alter the policy of watchful waiting.

Meanwhile Francisco Villa, former bandit, achieved new fame by capturing Juarez, in December, thus beginning a series of brilliant victories which gave the revolution its momentum which has swept Huerta out of power.

U. S.-Mexican Crisis.
In early April came the incident which precipitated the present phase of the situation, the arrest of an officer and boat crew of the Dolphin by Mexican Federals at Tampico, then besieged by the rebels. After a week of quibbling over Admiral Mayo's demand for a salute to the American flag at Tampico, while the Atlantic fleet was en route to Mexican waters, the approach of the German steamer Ypiranga laden with huge quantities of arms and ammunition for Huerta impelled the president to direct Rear Admiral Fletcher to seize Vera Cruz.

During a few anxious days, when anti-American rioting was in progress in Mexico City, it was feared that Huerta would adopt a policy of war toward the United States. He accepted, however, as promptly as Washington, the offer of the A. B. C. representatives for mediation, and in those conferences offered to resign whenever the pacification of the country was guaranteed. This proposition the United States could not meet.

Huerta's Danger Grows.
After arranging for the quashing of the quarrel resulting from the Tampico incident the mediators endeavored to arrange with Constitutionalists for a conference on Mexican affairs, to which the Huerta representatives were agreeable.

With the Constitutionalists rapidly advancing southward, taking the principal cities, and the United States holding the principal port and source of revenue, Huerta's position rapidly became desperate.

Yet during the first week in July he went through the farce of holding elections, which were declared null because of the small number voting.

Finally, on July 11, he appointed Chief Justice Carbajal minister of foreign relations, and it was then understood that it was preparatory to his resignation of the presidency, so Carbajal might succeed him and make terms with the Constitutionalists.

NEW PRESIDENT NOT SOLDIER
Francisco Carbajal's Public Career Has Differed Materially From That of Huerta.

Mexico City.—Francisco Carbajal is forty-four years old, a native of the state of Campeche, and a lawyer. Almost ever since the start of his career he has occupied posts in the judiciary. In the Madero administration he was a senator, but relinquished his post to re-enter the supreme court, of which he was chief justice at the time General Huerta appointed him minister of foreign relations.

When General Porfirio Diaz determined in 1911 to treat with the Madero revolutionists, Senator Carbajal proceeded to Juarez as his commissioner.

Senator Carbajal has a reputation for possessing considerable intellectual force and independence of character. His demeanor is quiet. He shuns the exuberance in verbiage and gesticulation to which Latin-Americans are prone. He is courteous, but a man of few words and little given to elaborate compliments.

Besides, he is neat and well groomed in appearance. His features indicate pure European descent, without any admixture of Indian blood.

Altogether he is a man who conveys an impression of reserve power. He is a good man of business.

His probity has never been questioned. He has been sagacious and successful in investments and, while not rich, is a man of independent means. He is a man of family.

Croom Is Member of Board.
A. H. Croom, of Gragaw, is the legally appointed and duly qualified member of the Board of Directors of the Central State Hospital at Raleigh under appointment by Governor Craig and confirmation of the State Senate, and R. H. Salisbury, of Hassell has no title to the position is the decision of Judge W. M. Bond. That opinion was rendered recently in Wake Superior Court. Mr. Croom, the defendant, being represented by Mr. R. C. Strong, the plaintiff, being represented by Messrs. Manning and Kitchin.

Not Much Sound.
Jones—You should look more pleasant since the doctor said you were as sound as a dollar.
Brown—Yes, but there isn't much sound to a paper dollar.

SEABOARD WINS IN INSPECTION CASE

JUDGE BOND DECIDES THAT BOOKS OF RAILROAD ARE NOT OPEN TO PUBLIC.

DISPATCHES FROM RALEIGH

Doings and Happenings That Mark the Progress of North Carolina People Gathered Around the State Capitol.

Raleigh.
Judge W. M. Bond, in the superior court ruled in favor of the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company and against the state and the North Carolina Anti-Saloon League in the noted case of State vs. Seaboard Air Line, involving the right of railroad companies to refuse to submit their books on deliveries of intoxicating liquors to inspection of citizens generally on demand as provided for in the state statute providing machinery for the enforcement of the prohibition law.

The Seaboard has been indicted for refusal to allow Superintendent R. L. Davis of the State Anti-Saloon League to inspect the records of deliveries at the freight depot of the Seaboard at Raleigh, counsel for the Seaboard contending that to do so would violate regulations for interstate commerce and that these had precedence over any state statute.

Judge Bond examined only one witness, Superintendent Davis of the Anti-Saloon League and heard the contention of the Seaboard counsel that the company was ready at all times to submit to any examination by a duly accredited officer of the law as to any specific deliveries, but that under the interstate statutes, its book could not be opened to citizens generally for any and all sorts of examinations. There was argument too by former Governor Kitchin as counsel for the Anti-Saloon League in which it was insisted that deliveries of whiskeys in the state are subject to police regulation and that the Webb-Kenyon act specifically puts these matters under the state regulation and that, therefore, the state statute authorizing such examination was as demanded by Superintendent Davis, of the Anti-Saloon League was well within the rights of the state and not in conflict with the proper construction of the interstate commerce act. However, Judge Bond ruled with the railroad company.

The state and the Anti-Saloon League gave notice of appeal and the case now goes to the supreme court of the state and will most probably go on up to the United States supreme court before the matter is finally settled.

Moving Pictures of State Farm.
Chairman H. B. Varner, of the state prison board of directors, was at Raleigh arranging for a series of moving pictures to be taken of the splendid 7,500-acre state farm in Halifax county, on Roanoke river, with a view to showing to the people of the state without any cost to the prison management or the state, through the moving picture shows, some idea of what splendid proportions that farm has assumed.

Just back from the farm, Chairman Varner, says he never in all his life saw such fine crops. There are 1,500 acres in soya beans, cow peas, alfalfa and clover, 1,500 acres in corn—5,000 acres in all being under cultivation. There are nine miles of dikes that protect these crops from river overflows.

There are about 300 convicts on the farm, the majority of them being defectives physically that are not fit for service out on the public works contracts. Mr. Varner says that two fine farm mules were killed and another seriously injured recently in a severe electric storm, being struck by lightning.

Chairman Varner and members of the board of directors held their regular July meeting at the farm, those attending being Chairman Varner, N. E. Edgerton, Selma; R. H. Buckingham, Fayetteville and Superintendent of Prison J. S. Mann of Raleigh.

Laboratory Will Get Money.
The tangle in the funds for the state laboratory of hygiene through a "kink" in the legislative statutes involving the appropriations for this important division of the state department of health, was straightened out by the governor and council of state through an amendment to the ruling of Attorney General Bickett to the effect that he state treasurer would be justified in paying the full $8,000 per year instead of $4,000 per year for the laboratory, and authorized Treasurer Lacy to do so.

There have been a number of deaths from disease there as well as a number of fatal accidents.

Brimley to Have Charge of Exhibit.
Governor Craig issued a commission to H. H. Brimley, curator of the state museum, as executive commissioner on the part of North Carolina to have in hand the installation of whatever exhibits the state has at the Panama-Pacific exposition and to prepare the literature exploiting the state and her resources that is to be distributed there. Mr. Brimley is already, through his division of the state department of Agriculture, collecting grains and other agricultural material that will be used. An effort is being made to bring about a financial adjustment whereby a number of the wealthier citizens and corporations of the state will advance the money for a creditable state exhibit and depend on the 1915 legislature to reimburse them through special appropriation.

A Pleasure to Governor Blease.
Columbia, S. C.—In response to the request of Governor Craig of North Carolina, for permission to pass through South Carolina en route to the joint encampment to be held at Augusta, Ga., Governor Blease replied that the permission requested was unnecessary as the troops did not intend to enter the state for military duty.

"However," Governor Blease wrote, "if you prefer permission from me for your troops to pass through, as a courtesy to you, it is a pleasure for me to, and I hereby grant such permission."
