BILL TO TAKE MARTIN OUT OF STATE PRIMARY

Representative Clayton Moore has introduced a bill in the Legislature to exempt Martin county from the State-wide Primary Law. This is a surprise to the home folks as nothing has been said along this line and it is especially surprising to those who have recently heard Mr. Moore state that the demand for the repeal of the State-wide Primary Law was coming from those who wanted to transfer the political power from the people to the back rooms of politicians of the State. So the political horizon must have brightened up and made some new impressions on our Representatives causing him a change of heart. Yet the folks at home who want him there want to know what is wrong with the citizens of Martin County that they cannot go out to their polling places and express their sovereign will. Must they again go into the open convention where many good women will not care to go? There may be urgent need for the change but we fail to see it and must beware for information on the subject.

GRIEF AND MISERY

The Enterprise: I think we, as loyal citizens to our country, ought to have a waking up. Look what the devil is doing with his jug of Monkey Rum. People will meet in work gangs with the spirit of the devil putting the cup to his brother's lips. Remember what God says about putting the cup to your brother's mouth, grief and misery are to be his lot. Isn't it sad to think how our country is going? It is good to meet in the Spirit of the Lord and not the devil. Wake up, officers and church people, if you are God-fearing let us do all we can to break up this monkey rum business before it ruins the spring generation and pray that God speed the day when the business is broken up, even if it be Judgment Day.

There are certain birds seen in some sections of Europe that are always on the wing. No one has ever seen them rest, but they are forever poised in mid-air. The natives call them "Last Souls," seeking rest and finding none. How like men who have to Christ but are driven hither and thither, listening to every voice but the voice of God. To all such Jesus says, "Come unto me and rest."
We invite you to worship with us Sunday.

CAMPAIGN FOR SIGNERS NOW IN FULL SWING

The announcement in this issue that representatives of the peanut growers' Exchange of Suffolk, Virginia and North Carolina have arrived in Williamston for the purpose of making a thorough canvass of this county is one of more than ordinary interest to the farming and business interests of Martin. The men who are to present this movement for the organization of a large exchange for the peanut growers of these two states came into our midst as representatives of the present peanut exchange, which is made up wholly of growers and which has to its credit among other things, having secured the peanut market report service through the United States Bureau of Markets.
The contract which they are presenting to the growers to sign, is based on the commodity plan of marketing, of California, which has won such an enviable reputation for the successful marketing of all farm products grown in that state. Not only are the peanut growers of these two states the first east of the Mississippi to attempt to organize on the commodity basis, but there is no other crop that is more favorable for such an organization or that needs more a better system of marketing.
The outstanding feature of these commodity associations is that the growers agree to market their crops for a period of years through a central exchange or selling association, which builds up its own system of distribution and which is ever working to secure an increased consumption of its products through an educational campaign of publicity. That such a campaign of publicity for peanuts and peanut products is sorely needed is emphasized by the fact that the present peanut exchange has sold over $5,000 worth of peanuts by parcel post in response to a small advertisement one time in the November issue of two national magazines and that as the result of a demonstration recently held in a 5 and 10-cent store in Norfolk a cartload of peanuts and peanut products were sold in thirty days.
Two exceptionally good reasons why the growers of Martin county should not hesitate to sign this growers' contract is that already more than 3,700 growers in other counties have already signed and that the extensive workers of both Virginia and North Carolina are giving this movement their hearty support. These agricultural leaders are helping to put this exchange across on the broad ground that the organization of the peanut growers is not only necessary for the peanut industry, but will set the pace for the tobacco and cotton growers to follow.

HARDING HAS FINISHED CHOOSING HIS CABINET

President-elect Harding has selected his cabinet as follows:
Secretary of State—Charles Evans Hughes.
Secretary of Treasury—Andrew William Mellon.
Secretary of War—John Wingate Weeks.
Attorney General—Harry M. Daugherty.
Postmaster General—Will H. Hays.
Secretary of the Interior—Albert Bacon Falls.
Secretary of the Navy—Edwin Denby.
Secretary of Agriculture—Henry Cantwell Wallace.
Secretary of Commerce—Herbert Clark Hoover.
Secretary of Labor—James John Davis.
Mr. Hughes is fifty-eight years old and from New York. He has wide experience in the practice of law as well as politics. His work in the insurance investigation first made him famous, next while Governor of New York he showed himself to be a man of backbone when he forced the fight against the Saratoga gamblers. He was for a time on the United States Supreme Court bench. His greatest flunk in life was as presidential candidate against Woodrow Wilson in 1916.
Mr. Mellon comes from Pennsylvania and is sixty-five years old. He is considered one of the most active business men in America and is engaged in practically every business industry in the country. He is said to be the second richest man in America—next to John D. Rockefeller.
Mr. Neeks is now a Massachusetts banker, sixty years old. He has served in the Army and Navy and in both Houses of Congress.
Mr. Daugherty is a lawyer from Ohio, sixty years old and has had much to do with Republican politics for several years.
Will Hays is the little lawyer from the little Indiana town and is only forty-one years old, but when it comes to politics he knows a plenty.
Mr. Denby, fifty-one years old, comes from Detroit, Michigan, the same place where Ford cars come from. He has had wide experience in law and local politics, also Army and Navy experience.
Senator Falls is fifty-nine years old, was born in Kentucky, but is from New Mexico and is now serving as Senator from that State.
Mr. Wallace is fifty-four years of age, a farmer, live stock man and editor.
Mr. Hoover comes from California, forty-six years old and is a civil engineer. He has done much valuable work in the industrial and commercial world but his work that has been most admired and that will be remembered for many ages has been organizing relief work. He was engaged in this for the Allies long before we entered the war and when we declared war he was made Food Administrator for America and as such was practically the world's feeder.
Mr. Davis now hails from Pittsburgh, the same town that Mr. Mellon comes from, but was born in Tredegar, Wales. He is forty-seven years old, an iron and steel worker and active in Union affairs.
The people of all parties believe that Mr. Harding has called to his Cabinet a Cabinet of honest and able men and some of them are men of unusual distinction and prominence. They are all Republicans but are not considered partisans. It is believed that they are in sympathy with world peace and that a "substantial" League of Nations may be looked for in the near future.

Miss Pittman was formerly of Speed, N. C. and is a very charming and attractive young woman. Dr. Pittman is the physician and surgeon of Oak City and has won for himself a splendid reputation as such. Neither is a stranger to Oak City and it is with great pleasure that we welcome them.
Miss Mary Louise Cartarphen, a nurse of Williamston, was in town last week on professional business.
Miss Millie Roebuck left Tuesday afternoon for Jamesville to witness the marriage of one of her cousins.

Some Questions on Municipal Election

My dear Enterprise:
Your recent article regarding women and the town in general and voting in particular is most interesting. You are leaving us poor women too much for even reputed active imaginations. Please enlighten us about who selects the mayor and five aldermen for whom we are to vote in May. When does this selection take place and whose selection are these six men?
Who appoints the policeman? The health officer and others? We plead for light on the weighty subject.
Yes, we wish the stock kept off the streets and out of our front yards and gardens. We also wish to have the chickens housed or penned. Who can protect grain and gardens if chickens are allowed to run at large, fattening on their neighbors carefully cherished possessions?
We consider that the present board of City Fathers have done their work beautifully and deserve all praise. But, one of our new voters informs the writer that after some conversations with the five that four refuse to be put up for re-election. One even foams at the mouth when the subject of remaining on the board is mentioned to him! This means four new men. Does the mayor wish to run again for office?
Please Mr. Enterprise put us straight on the subject.
It is the writer's opinion that there is not a club of women in town which was formed with Civics as the inspiring theme.
Yours respectfully,
A WOMAN VOTER

ATTEND BANKER'S MEETING

Group No. 1 of the Bankers Association of North Carolina met in Belhaven Wednesday. There were about sixty Eastern Carolina bankers present. Dr. John D. Biggs, C. D. Cartarphen, Jr., Joseph A. Mizelle, Harry A. Biggs and Luther Peel attended from Martin County. There was a good program and it is said by Dr. Biggs, President of the Farmers & Merchants Bank that the address of W. E. Stubbs, Cashier of the bank of Belhaven, was the finest he has ever heard and he has attended District, Interstate and National Bankers' Associations. It will be remembered that Mr. W. E. Stubbs was the first man ever to put a pen on a bank book in Martin County, which was for Mr. J. G. Godard who opened a bank where the post office is now located.
The Address of Welcome was made by Mr. Justus of Belhaven, and the response by Dr. Biggs. After the business of the Association the Belhaven Chamber of Commerce gave a reception to the visitors. Mr. E. H. Johnson was toast master, the evening was greatly enjoyed and the visitors agree that Beaufort County is not all bull.

THE SPIRIT OF WOMAN

They talk about a woman's sphere, As though it has a limit; There's not a place in Earth or Heaven There's not a task to mankind given, There's not a blessing or a woe, There's not a winnowed "Yes" or "No" There's not a life, or death, or birth, That has a fourth's weight or worth, Without a woman's life.

EX-MARTIN MAN MAKES AN IMPORTANT SPEECH

Mr. Thomas Yarrell, of the 61st N. C. Regiment, Confederate Army, formerly of Martin County, an uncle of Julius Peel, who has been for many years a native of Texas, having the important City of Yarrington, Texas named in his honor, and now a prosperous banker, sends to relatives here a large portrait of a confederate monument erected in Belton, Texas, by the United Daughters of the Confederacy, together with the enclosure of a printed address by Mr. Yarrell, which is below reproduced, and possibly of interest to many former Confederate soldiers who served in that great War of the States:
On to Washington was the war cry of thousands on the field of Manassas fifty-six years ago, but, now the peaceful voices of a few, here and there, ask: "Are you going to Washington?" What a pathos, what a drama, what a tragedy, what a vision backward over the strange mysterious course of destiny.
Cavaliers, Confederates, yes, yes, go to Washington, it is yours now through victory of peace. Behold the magnificent splendor of your Capitol with Spartan pride—back it with Confederate devotion and the Nation is safe for another century. Visit the grave of Washington, the noblest Cavalier of them all; step softly with bared head, with lips quivering in veneration, your noiseless tread about the tomb will echo the glory of your country in thrilling solemnity.
Tarry a little at Alexandria on the Potomac—the cradle of Revolutionary days, see the sombre shadows of the tragedy of Ellsworth in the early sixties, as startling, as momentous, as prophetic as the fall of Sumter. See the home of the illustrious Lee, the noblest Confederate of them all, the proud culmination of chivalric destiny—here, the ten thousand dreamers under the little white marble slabs—the silent sentry of the home of never more.
Take the train South and see Richmond on the James, stroll its streets in pensive mood, with your hands clasped behind you, like Napoleon on the fall of the sea—ever dreaming—ever gazing toward his sunny France. Find your way up a little Shrine on a little hill where Patrick Henry spoke and you will know liberty will never perish from the earth. With folded arms, with floating eyes look for the last time on the White House of the Southern Confederacy—in awe gaze at the tomb of its occupant at Hollywood and say all is well, all is well, a brave, beautiful benediction.
Now, if weary of limb and thought, rest in the shades of the sunny romantic days of the Old South, the epochal rise of Dixie—Ere coming of McEllan on the Peninsula—the thunderbolt of battle, Stonewall Jackson in the Valley—the simple, sublime heroism in the shadows of the Apple tree and you will feel and know you are in both the Eden and the Gethsemane of the Confederate States of America.
Come a little further South and you will find Petersburg—halt, look, see the trenches—the Vardam of the Confederacy—the horror and endurance unparelleled in the annals of human history.
Return home, take the old chair by the fireside, and rejoice that you have lived again the wonderful days. Now, in serene calm listen to a few more tattoos of the twilight—then gather up the empty blanket for a shroud—the empty canteen for a pillow—lie down to sleep with your comrades and the passes—it is glorious—the Spirit will pass on to the reveille of the dawn on the other shore. Then, Ah! the Cavalier, the Confederate—the sweeping flame of chivalry form the days of Cromwell at Naseby to the days of Lee at Appomattox, will have passed forever, the bloom and the flower of the Anglo-Saxon.

CAROLINA TOWN OWNS RAILROAD

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 23.—Besides owning and operating its own water works, electric light plant, opera house and a railroad four miles long, the little city of Warrentown, Warren county, North Carolina, with a population of less than 1,000 is also building a hotel to cost $140,000, to be paid for by the bond issue.
The municipally owned railroad runs from Warrentown to Warren Plains, where it connects with the J. C. the only line entering Warrentown.
"We have made a profit on our municipally owned except our opera house, last much on it," says Polk, promoter of the hotel.
Warrentown is one of the poorest in the State and it is essential that it should be developed before it expires.
