IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY MARKS BURIAL OF ONE OF MARTIN'S MARTYRS

The body of Private John D. Mizelle arrived Wednesday from New York, after having been buried two years in French soil. Traveling three thousand miles to his last resting place in honor of his fathers. Private Mizelle was wounded at the battle of the Marston on September 29th, 1918. He was conveyed to the first aid station behind the lines the next morning and died there that night at 8:45 P. M. His body, numbered B 13,343 was buried near Ypres.

John D. Mizelle was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Mizelle, and was born in Williamston on February 25th, 1898. He was educated in the local schools and worked here until he went to Warrenton, July 5, 1917, to enlist in the United States Army. He was transferred from Warrenton to Camp Sevier, South Carolina and entered in Company H, 120th Infantry, 30th Division. He sailed for France in May 1918, and his first engagement in battle was on September 29th, 1918.

The funeral services were conducted by Mr. Larkin and Mr. Joyner at the home of the young martyr's parents and a large crowd of appreciative friends attended to show the only mark of esteem and respect possible for one of our "boys who never came back." The active pall bearers were Lieut. D. E. Gurganus, Sergeant James A. Leggett, George Bunch, and Norman Harrison, Albert Bunch and Norman Harrison, Privates Albert Gurkin, Clyde Waters, and Henry Williams. At the grave a quartet "The Vacant Chair," was sung by Mr. Larkin, Harry Biggs, J. W. Ward and Lieut. Maurice Watts. After the ceremony three volleys were fired over the grave and in the distance "taps" were sounded by Rev. Larkin. The firing squad was composed of Messrs. John Philpot, Charlie Mobley, Whit Purvis, Clyde Anderson, Don Baker, John A. Ward, Mack Jones, Simon Lilley, Jack Chesson and Lieut. Maurice Watts. Arthur Roberson, Haywood Rogers, George Wynne, Lieut. Wig Watts, and Ronald Wynne formed an Honorary Guard. All these young men officiating were World War Veterans and in uniform.

DINNER PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Anderson entertained last night at the home of Mrs. Caroline Martin on East Main street with a dinner party. Their guests were Messrs. Mary Smith, Martha Cotton Crawford, Martha Slade Hassell, Elizabeth Wadsworth, Messrs. B. Duke Critcher, T. Ryan Boyd, Lewis Horton, Marriott-Britt, and J. W. Watts, Jr.

SHOULD ORGANIZE

Martin County has veterans of the Civil War, the Spanish American War, and the World War, yet no one seems to be enough interested in them to call them together for organization. Most counties are at least inviting boys at a dinner as a recognition of their service. The Enterprise stands ready to help in such a work and will be glad to hear suggestions that may be offered to put some plan in action.

ONE EDITOR IN HEAVEN

"There is one editor in heaven. How he got there is not positively known but is conjectured he passed himself off as a minister and dropped in unsuspectingly. When the dodge was discovered they searched the realms of felicity all their length and breadth for a lawyer to draw up the necessary papers for ejection, but they couldn't find one, so of course, the editor holds the fort."—Exchange.

Fulford and wife Bettie Fulford, on the 31st day of December, 1919. Said deed of trust being of record in Martin County Registry in Book A-2, page 414, and the stipulations therein not having been complied with and at the request of the parties interested, I will expose to public auction in front of the court house door in Williamston, North Carolina, at 12 o'clock M., on the 21st day of April, 1921, the following described tract of land:

Beginning in the Drunkard road and adjoining the land of E. A. Roberson on the north, of L. Leggett on the south, lands of J. B. Ayers, containing 60 acres, more or less. This the 21st day of March, 1921. B. DUKE CRITCHER, Trustee.

SHERIFF MAKES A SPECTACULAR RAID

Tuesday, Sheriff H. T. Roberson, with the assistance of his deputies and revenue officers made a whiskey raid on the farm owned by Noah T. Leggett, just two miles west of Robersonville. In the woods in front of the Leggett home were found the remains of at least a dozen plants, between four and five hundred gallons of beer and several jugs of monkey rum. Only a small quantity of whiskey was kept in the house. Noah Tom's son, Staton Leggett, lives only a short distance from his father and his family got the hint that Revenue officers were on their trail, so when the sheriff reached his house, Jim Knox, an assistant, was caught traveling about ninety knots an hour for the woods with a five gallon jug of monkey rum in each hand. In the rush Knox had managed to saturate his clothing with the stuff and when the officers revived from the effects of the inhalation, they didn't know whether Knox was an anaesthetizer or a transporter of monkey rum. Several jugs of whiskey were found in the home and barn of Staton Leggett.

The sheriff arrested Noah Tom Leggett, his two sons, Staton and Charles, upon the charge of distilling whiskey and arrested Jim Knox on the charge of aiding and abetting in the making of it. They were released under bond in the sum of $200.00 for their appearance at the next term of Recorder's Court which will be held May 24.

JUDGE DEVEREAUX'S DEATH

The unusual circumstances connected with the death of Judge John Devereaux, who was a former North Carolinian, has some connection with Martin and Bertie Counties. The Devereaux and Rhoads families were very prominent in the above mentioned counties in the early days, even just prior to the war between the states. These families lived in wonderful style during the ante-bellum days, and many interesting records are handed down of their achievement and history, evidences of their having lived in this section are found in the names of swamp lands on the Roanoke river; everyone is familiar with the locations of the Devereaux and Rhoads swamps.

Judge Devereaux came to his death in a most unusual manner. He became suddenly ill and was nursed by Goldie Gordon, a pretty artist model, whom Howard Chandler Christy regarded as Tulsa's most beautiful girl, another woman who nursed him was Mrs. Jesse James, both of whom are held in connection with the aged jurist's death. It is reported that they appropriated $1,200.00 from the judge during the ten days which they nursed him.

Another member of these prominent families, who once lived in this old section, is Dr. J. De Rhoads Hamilton, dean of the department of history at the University of North Carolina. Dr. Hamilton, who is familiar not only with the history of the world, but also the histories of Martin and Bertie counties, was born and reared at Hillsboro, but his paternal grandfather lived in and entered the University from Martin county, and Dr. Hamilton, who is a by-product of this county has many interesting tales to tell of the county of his ancestors.—Robert Fitzgerald.

'WEAR A POPPY' AS A MEMORIAL TO HEROES

In keeping with a newly inaugurated custom, every American is urged to wear a red poppy upon his or her breast on the national Memorial Day, May 30, as a mark of loyalty and respect for the memory of the boys who sacrificed their lives on the battlefields of France during the world war.

This is a beautiful custom, patriotic idealistic and worthy in every respect. It was in a moment of inspiration that the late Colonel John McCrea fixed forever in the mind of mankind the poppy as the sacrificial symbol of tender respect for those who died in the world war — as he did.

His noble poem, "In Flanders Field," has achieved universal popularity; and the crimson flowers which nod between rows of crosses in the soldier cemeteries of Northern France have been brought home to us as the appropriate token of the blood and the peaceful sleep of the heroes who gave all for civilization and human liberty.

In its annual convention at Cleveland, Ohio last fall the American Legion gave formal acknowledgement of the fitness of this symbol by officially adopting the red poppy as the memorial flower of the organization, to be worn by legionnaires everywhere on Memorial Day in silent tribute to their dead comrades.

Other patriotic organizations and societies, notable among them being the Daughters of the American Revolution, have officially taken similar action.

The "poppy resolution" that was adopted by the Cleveland convention was introduced by the legion delegation from Georgia.

The resolution had previously been adopted by the Georgia state convention at Augusta, last summer, through the efforts of Miss Moina Michael, of Athens, whose poem in answer to the query expressed in Colonel McCrea's masterpiece has been generally recognized as being among the best of the best, of many such poems that have been published.

Only one change was made by the national convention. Instead of fixing Armistice Day—which is essentially a day of thanksgiving and rejoicing—for the wearing of the poppy, as provided in the original resolution, the Cleveland convention specified that the Flanders flower be worn on Memorial or Decoration day, when the remembrance of our heroic dead is called to the mind of the entire nation.

Therefore it is urgently suggested that on May 30 all patriotic citizens shall wear a poppy.

No matter whether formal observance of the day is planned, or whether such observance may have been held on our Confederate Memorial Day, a poppy in the buttonhole will bear witness to the hallowed memory in which our recently fallen heroes is held, and will connect up to the wearers with Americans everywhere in a universal expression of gratitude and veneration.

Millions of silk poppies have been made during the last year by the war orphans and widows of France to be sent to America for this occasion.

The very life blood of Flanders-fields have gone into their manufacture and they will be distributed here through the American-France Children's league and the proceeds returned to France to benefit those who made them.

It would be in the nature of a noble and patriotic expression if every Georgian and every American everywhere were to wear a red poppy on May 30.

Those wishing to buy these silk poppies for ten cents each can place their order for one dozen with Mrs. Sallie A. Biggs, Mrs. A. R. Dunning or at The Enterprise office. Proceeds will go to the French war widows, and orphans.

The hour for the speaking is twelve o'clock and it is hoped that every person interested in this road project will be here. In the afternoon the road officials will visit the scene of the road already constructed across the Roanoke. Help make this a gala day in the good roads history of our County.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH CLOSSES ITS MEETING

The series of meetings which have been held in the aptly beheld during the past week came to a close Wednesday evening. The Rev. L. K. Pruette, who is well known throughout the Baptist world in North Carolina, and who has been pastor of one church in Charlotte for twenty-seven years, proved himself to be a most eloquent and effective speaker. His sermons were masterpieces of diction, and he told the stories of the Christian faith in a most forceful and charming manner. All of his discourses were up to his high standard, but it is believed that his sermons on "The Story of the Cross," "Love?" and "How We May Know We are Saved," were the most impressive.

Mr. Pruette is a born easterner, but has lived in the other section of North Carolina all his life and greatly complimented the hospitality of our section. Every day he was a guest for meals in different homes, thereby getting in close touch with his people, and he often remarked that he believed Williamston was the most hospitable town he had ever visited.

It is believed that the visit of Mr. Pruette to Williamston will be of much benefit, he did not claim to be a professional evangelist, with cyclone methods of getting people into the church, but simply a minister of the Gospel who preached to the people the doctrines as taught by Jesus Christ as found in the Bible. Several additions to the church were had during his visitation, and those who heard him were much impressed with his great sincerity.

There are thirty-six hundred shares of stock in the Martin County Company and it has $147,000 loaned out. ROAD MAP OF MARTIN COUNTY RECEIVED

The State Highway map for the county of Martin is now on view at the Courthouse. Martin is to be consolidated upon the fact of being the only county in the State whose capital or seat is in the exact center and is thereby able to have four distinct branches radiating from it, passing most of the county territory to connect it with neighboring counties.

AN ANSWER TO GERMAN PROFESSOR'S THEORY

Mr. W. C. Manning, Dear Sir:—

I was astonished and grieved to see in the Enterprise of May 15th, a selection headed "No Rainbow after DeLuge." Mr. Paul Haupt, a German (indeed, Professor of the Semitic languages in John Hopkins University, as the compiler of the Pylhome or rainbow or Many-Colored Bible, which vainly pretends to do with manuscript written a hour own time, that is to distinguish the authorship of portions of a narrative written by different persons, in this monstrous so-called Bible, he puts in different color passages supposed by the self-styled "Higher Critics," to have been written by different persons in different ages, thus denying the authorship of the books of the Bible by the inspired penmen whose names they bear, and assigned that authorship to later, unknown and uninspired men, and setting aside the Bible as an infallible revelation from God. He puts in different colors, not only verses in the same chapter but even clauses in the same verse. No sensible or honest man believes any book was ever so composed.

In Genesis IX:13 the word rendered "bow" is, in the Hebrew, Gesheth, which is defined in all Hebrew-English lexicons, "born," and in the oldest Greek translation (the Septuagint) made in the third century before Christ, the Greek word is toxon, rendered by the Greek-English lexicons, "bow." Mr. Haupt admits that "bow" is the word in the Babylonian tablet; but thinks it ought to be rendered "fly-brush," because he finds fly-brush in the pagan tablet and because huge feather brushes were used by the old Assyrian and Egyptian rulers, and the pagan tablet says that "When Ister sees the Gods gather around the offerer like a swarm of flies (because there had been no offerings during the flood), she is so incensed that she takes the fly-brushes of her father, Ahn, king of the gods, to drive away the gods." The professor thus deliberately prefers to the polytheistic, false and outrageous account of the deluge and the rainbow to the monotheistic, true and sublime account given by Moses, the inspired servant of God! I am sure that the people of Williamston, Martin county and North Carolina incomparably prefer the word of the true and living God to the words of ignorant, heathen idolaters. There is but one God, and He is the eternal and Almighty Creator and Ruler of the universe and the Old and New Testaments are His written and infallible Word.

SYLVESTER HASSELL.

CHAUTAQUA

CHAUTAQUA OPENS ITS FIVE DAYS STAY HERE ON SATURDAY

The Swarthmore Chautauqua which so highly pleased our people last year will begin its second engagement in Williamston tomorrow. The program last year was most pleasing, so much so that the guarantors for this season were easily gotten, and we feel sure they will be paid for the benefit which the town will receive from an educational, moral and religious point of view.

This is the tenth season of the Swarthmore Chautauqua, and each year it seems to have grown better; each year it has drawn larger crowds, and has been of much real benefit to the communities it has visited. There are thirty-four town in North Carolina in the association which proves that it is popular with our people.

The program promises to be one of appealing interest, there will be some features attractive to every one, some serious subjects will be discussed, some of a lighter vein, and every attraction is sure to be of benefit to some one of this community. One of the most valuable features of the week will be the lecture by Arthur Daugherty Rees, of the University of Pennsylvania, on "How History Today Makes the World of Tomorrow." The Mendelssohn Orchestral Club is another attraction which is sure to please. The leader of this musical organization is Howard Evarts, the flutist, formerly of Innes Band. The supporting members are all musicians of great merit. The Comedy-Drama, "Nothing But the Truth," promises to be an attraction which will rival the marvelous stage effects produced by the internationally known Belasco. It bubbles over with laughs, and it is even better than last year's success, "It Pays To Advertise," which so much pleased our people. The "Magic Circle" is the lecture which Waldorf Lindstrom will deliver. Mr. Lindstrom was chaplain of the 32nd Division of the American forces in France, was gassed, spent six months in a hospital and his lecture is sure to be of vital interest and fascination to all who hear him. The Irish Minstrels is a group of entertainers who are sure to please. They endeavor to give selections of Irish song and wit which will charm all lovers of folk lore of the Emerald Isle. The Clarke Concert Party is another organization which must be of merit. Mr. Clarke is a pupil of the great Jean de Reszke, with whom all music lovers are acquainted. He is said to have a technique of a musician who is the soul of charm. The Junior Holidays Party for the children is sure to find a hearty response in the hearts of the little ones. All of the children of the town will be invited to take part, and of course that will draw the older ones, for each person is interested in some child; in fact the program advertises the afternoon as being for the children from six to sixty, and after all, all of us are but children grown up, and a drearily have within our hearts the spirit of childhood.

The Dunbar Male Quartette is another attraction on the program, and from the good looks of the young men who compose it, we are sure the audience will be filled with admiring femininity for the occasion.

The Chautauqua promises much pleasure and entertainment and benefit to our town and every one should at once acquaint himself with the guarantors and procure seats for the entire performances. There should not be a spirit existing to wait for some one to give tickets away but every citizen of the town should lend his cooperation towards the success of the Chautauqua.
