FORMER CASHIER OF LOCAL BANK HAS 32 CHARGES TO FACE NEXT TERM OF COURT

North Carolina—Martin County. In the Superior Court.

State vs. C. H. Godwin.

In above case, pursuant to agreement between counsel for the defendant and the State made at the June Term, 1921, the Solicitor files here with the following bill of particulars, and the state alleges:

First: That on or about the 31st day of December, 1919, there was on the General Ledger of the bank a contingency account approximating the sum of $4,000.00; and that on or about the same date C. H. Godwin charged this amount to expense account and thereby reduced the cash to that extent; that this was done without the knowledge or authority of the officers or directors of the bank, and that there were no expense tickets to justify this transaction; and further that no expense tickets were ever made for the entry; and that this amount, or a large part thereof, was wrongfully misapplied and appropriated by C. H. Godwin.

Second: That prior to the 7th day of January, 1921, the individual ledger sheets of C. H. Godwin had been misplaced, and there are still a number of individual ledger sheets of the account of C. H. Godwin missing from the files of the bank; and that this was done for the purpose of concealing the true condition of his account with the bank.

Third: That prior to the 30th day of July, 1920, and thereafter, C. H. Godwin was a silent partner of C. B. Hassell; and that as such, he dealt in various stocks and bonds on a margin with J. Leon Woods & Co., of Norfolk, Va., and that during the continuance of said partnership, C. H. Godwin used money belonging to the Peoples Bank and in said deals appropriated to his own use money of the Peoples Bank to the amount of $4,000.00. In this connection, there were two items of $2,000.00 each; one being a check of C. B. Hassell, and the other being a draft drawn on C. B. Hassell by J. Leon Woods and Company, both of which were paid by the Peoples Bank and carried in the cash until January 7th, 1921, all of which were done without the knowledge or authority of the officers or directors of the bank.

Fourth: That on or about the 4th day of January, 1921, C. H. Godwin, for the purpose of covering up funds of the Peoples Bank previously misappropriated and taken therefrom, put in the bank certain notes of himself and others aggregating the sum of approximately $30,000.00, the majority of said notes were worthless and some spurious, including the note of W. L. Stall for $6,500.00 and note of Stalls and Company for $5,000.00, which was done without the knowledge of the officers or directors of the bank; and that same was charged to expense account, and that same was done for the same purpose as set out in the preceding paragraph.

Fifth: That as a result of the kiting transactions carried on by C. H. Godwin with the Peoples Bank and J. R. Tyre, and said items have been carried in the cash improperly as a debit ticket. In this connection, J. R. Tyre held a deposit ticket signed by C. H. Godwin, Cashier, dated February 7th, 1920 for $1,000.00; that on January 12th, 1921, J. R. Tyre put in the bank certain notes of himself and others aggregating the sum of approximately $30,000.00, the majority of said notes were worthless and some spurious, including the note of W. L. Stall for $6,500.00 and note of Stalls and Company for $5,000.00, which was done without the knowledge of the officers or directors of the bank; and that same was charged to expense account, and that same was done for the same purpose as set out in the preceding paragraph.

Sixth: That all of the kiting transactions with the various banks and individuals were run through the account of C. H. Godwin on the books of the bank, and the items of kiting he would hold in the cash until a large number accumulated, and then would charge to his account, to such an extent that on the 7th day of December, 1920, his account showed a balance of more than $135,000.00; that on the 4th day of January, 1921, this account was charged with more than $66,000.00, which would have overdrawn the account in a large sum, had not more than $30,000.00 worth of his notes been placed on his credit on that day, all of which was done without the knowledge or authority of the officers or directors of the bank.

Seventh: That for a long time prior to January 4th, 1921, C. H. Godwin had carried in the cash an item of the Nitrate Agencies Company in the sum of $7,367.65, and that for the purpose of concealment and deception said item in June, 1920, or thereabout, was taken out of the cash and transferred to the Liberty Bond Account, and thereafter returned and carried in the cash as before, said item being in truth and fact a "dummy" for cash taken from the bank.

Eighth: That on the 6th day of January, 1921, C. H. Godwin charged to the expense account of the bank items aggregating $368.77, which said items were incurred during the year 1917, and that said items were not proper charges to this account and had been misappropriated by C. H. Godwin.

Ninth: That on or about the 4th day of January, 1921 there was charged to the expense account as "lost on bonds" the sum of $1,500.00, which said charge was not proper, and the books of the bank do not show such a loss from the sale of bonds, and C. H. Godwin is responsible for the transaction.

Tenth: That on or about the 4th day of January, 1921, an item of $1,000.00, at the direction of C. H. Godwin was charged to expense account and carried in the cash until January 7th, 1921, all of which were done without the knowledge or authority of the officers or directors of the bank.

Eleventh: That the same memorandum as above mentioned by C. H. Godwin instructed a credit of $1,000.00 to the account of Sam Rogerson, and that same was charged to expense to adjust, which was done for the same purpose as set out in the preceding paragraph.

Twelfth: That prior to January 1, 1921, C. H. Godwin appropriated to his own use funds of the bank in the shape of a note of P. W. and B. Williams in the sum of $1,400.00, which said note is included in the loans and discounts of the bank.

Thirteenth: That on the 3rd day of January, 1920, a check of one Ed Walston for $44.00 payable to the order of Farmers & Merchants Bank was charged to said Walston's account without the endorsement of the Farmers & Merchants Bank; that this check was given by Walston to C. H. Godwin to pay a note of Walston's at the Farmer's and Merchants Bank, said note was not paid and Walston's account was charged with the check, and the amount appropriated by C. H. Godwin for his own use.

Fourteenth: That on the 31st day of December, 1919, without the knowledge or authority of the officers or directors of the bank, C. H. Godwin appropriated to his own use the sum of $600.00, this amount being in excess of the salary that he was to receive for that year.

Fifteenth: That without the authority or knowledge of the officers or directors of the bank, C. H. Godwin appropriated to his own use the sum of $500.00, same being in excess of his salary for the year 1920.

Sixteenth: That on the 4th day of January, 1921 C. H. Godwin, for the purpose of covering the amounts previously misappropriated and misapplied placed to his credit a note of W. L. Stall for $6,500.00; and also a note purporting to be signed by Stalls & Company (and in this connection, no such concern exists) in the sum of $5,000.00, and also other notes of himself aggregating $23,000.00 or more, all of which was done without the knowledge or authority of the officers or directors of the bank.

Seventeenth: That on or about the 5th day of January, 1921, without the knowledge or authority of the officers or directors of the bank, C. H. Godwin delivered to his brother, G. C. Godwin, a note of John Tetterton in the sum of $400.00, which said note had been discounted at the bank and was the property of the bank. Upon which said note, G. C. Godwin, brother of C. H. Godwin, caused suit to be brought in his own name, and that no record of the transaction is shown in the books of the bank.

Eighteenth: That C. H. Godwin, without any tickets to support the items, has charged to expense account items aggregating $5,000.00, among which items are one January 3rd, 1921 item marked "Error difference $375.00" and on the same date item marked "Difference cash shortage $425.00." On August 17, 1920, item of shortage $110.00 and on July 20th, 1920, item "adjustment Raleigh difference $106.00; on July 6th, 1920, A. T. Perry $106.25. On April 19th, 1920, Merchants National $379.17; on March 2, 1920 M. G. Bullock "error $160.00." February 5th, 1920, "error Merchants National $120.00" and various other items charged to this account.

Nineteenth: That contrary to the expressed instructions of the President, and without the knowledge or authority of the other officers or directors of the bank, C. H. Godwin permitted the account of the Williams on Baseball Club to be overdrawn an $5,500.00 squandered.

Twentieth: That under the instructions of C. H. Godwin, Jim Red Roberson was permitted to draw the sum of $115.00 of the bank's money without authority from anybody, and thereby the bank lost that amount.

Twenty-first: That without the knowledge or authority of the officers or directors of the bank, C. H. Godwin permitted his brother G. C. Godwin to take from the bank a note of _____ in the sum of $700.00, because of an account of which the bank lost that amount of money.

Twenty-second: That C. H. Godwin in reading over to the Finance Committee loans that had been made previous to the time said notes were read out to the committee failed to disclose to the committee a number of loans that had been made by the bank, without the authority of the officers or directors of the bank.

Twenty-third: That shortly prior to the 4th day of January, 1921, C. H. Godwin, without the knowledge or authority of the officers or directors of the bank, carried concealed in the vault of the bank letters of collection from the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond, Va., which said letters involved many thousands dollars.

Twenty-fourth: That during the year 1920, C. H. Godwin improperly charged to expense account various and sundry items aggregating many thousands dollars, for which said items there were no invoices or tickets, and in fact nothing to show what said items were for.

Twenty-fifth: That during the year 1920, C. H. Godwin borrowed from customers of the bank who had money on time deposits in the bank many thousands dollars and used same in personal transactions of his own.

Twenty-sixth: That C. H. Godwin was negligent and careless in keeping the books and records of the bank, in that numerous transactions were not recorded at all; that numerous transactions with correspondent banks were handled, and that same were never entered upon the books of the bank; and that records were so kept so as not to reflect the true condition of the various accounts carried in the banks; that reconciliations with the correspondent banks were not kept up, and in the case of First and Citizens National Bank of Elizabeth City the account had not been reconciled since it was opened in July, 1920. That loans from the correspondent banks had been made and renewed without charging up the interest on the same; and that various notes were discounted which were never entered on the books or credited when charged back. That interest charges of over $2,000.00 by the Coal and Iron National Bank of New York City had not been entered, and Bond Coupons aggregating more than $12,000.00 paid and charged by New York correspondents were not credited to them; and said coupons were not converted into current funds, but were held in the vault of the bank; that the record of the loans and discounts and redemptions were kept in such a way that the true condition of same could not be ascertained; that the register for collateral and rediscounted notes had not been kept up, and were in such shape that a true statement of the same could not be made from the records of the bank; that bank drafts had been sent out without any record being made in the draft register or the remittance sheets.

Twenty-ninth: That the Liberty and Victory Loan Bond account had been kept in such a way so that it could not be ascertained as to how this account stood; that this account is short approximately $3,000.00, and because of the manner in which this account was kept and because of the failure of the Cashier to keep a record of numerous transactions involving this account it could not be ascertained with exactness how much more this account will prove short.

Thirtieth: That the record of the bank showing its assets and liabilities has not been kept in such a way as to show the true condition of this account, nor could the true condition thereof be ascertained, and in addition thereto and in addition to all charges hereinbefore made, there is a net short age of $23,234.62 between the assets and liabilities of the bank.

Thirty-first: That the records of the bank of notes rediscounted, because of the way in which this account has been kept could not be reconciled and could not be checked up; that so many credits and charges by correspondents and so many transactions not recorded on the books at all, made the account unintelligible.

Thirty-second: That because of the failure of C. H. Godwin to keep the books of the bank in proper shape and condition, because of the manner in which they were kept, and because of the failure to record transactions of the bank, which should have been recorded and because of the improper entries made in keeping the books, it cost the bank $2,000.00 more than ordinarily to get its books audited.

Filed the 4th day of August, 1921. ALLSBROOKS, Solicitor for the State.

PEANUT GROWERS MEETING

All members of the Peanut Growers Exchange of Martin County are requested to meet at the Court House at three P. M. Friday, August 12th. Several important matters will come up for consideration and especially the following four:

1st. To have each county arrange for its full quota of proxies. A report will be presented at each county meeting showing the number of proxies already sent in from each county. If this report shows that your county has not sent in the required number of proxies, then committees will have to be appointed to make a canvass so as to insure its having proper representation. If each county has its full representation, there will be no trouble about the stockholders meeting on August 17th.

2nd. Arrangements will have to be made for a systematic canvass of the county for securing additional signatures and also for collecting organization fees of any signers who have not paid by cash or note. With the proper cooperation on the part of the growers themselves these important items can be handled at little cost to the Exchange and contribute largely to its future success.

3rd. To receive report of the progress that is making for the perfection of the organization and making the Exchange effective this season. The nominee-directors, through their special committee, are carrying on important negotiations at this time and hope to be able to have a special report for the meeting of the County Units.

4th. To keep 'em talking. By coming together in these county meetings the growers will not only arrange for their proxies and the transactions of other business, but will also have the opportunity of exchanging opinions and current reports. Through these meetings the growers who attend will have their own interest awakened and will carry back to their fellow-growers information that will inspire confidence.

If for any cause a member cannot attend he should sign and send the proxy recently sent out from the head offices at Suffolk. Every farmer should be as much interested in the price as in the production of peanuts and should attend this meeting.

REVIEW OF LAST YEAR'S TOBACCO CROP AND PRICE

Martin County as well as a large section of Eastern and Central Carolina is depending in a large way upon the price of tobacco to bring its prosperity. It is a strange thing that people will place their dependence upon a article or commodity that has no real value of any kind, yet since we are in the deal it is up to us to get out the best we can. At present indications are that the crop is better this year than last. Judging from the prices now being paid further south, we may reasonably expect fair prices this fall.

We are giving the total sales and average prices paid on several markets in this section last year.
