Worth-While Thoughts and News of County and State

(By J. L. Holliday)
Friday closed probably the most educational and attractive Fair in the State. (Continued)

Fair being people by their educational and competitive purposes, the goal of which cannot be measured. We are glad to note that Mr. Leslie Fowden is finding many buyers for the $40,000.00 preferred stock which is being sold by the Martin County Fair Association on a guarantee and the stock will pay 7 per cent on the investment. We look advantage of doubling our holdings with this Association and expect to see a great many more Fair here in a great community. Be a buyer and not a parasite. See others live on your resources and be not a "sapper" of them.

The pessimist's grave is excavated and the optimistic stone by which covered and space ready to cover his remains. Prosperity stands at the foot of the grave, saying, "Take Home Long Absence."

Better schooling in agricultural and Home Economics. Better eight grade schools, better teachers, better churches, better preachers, better roads, better homes and ultimately better people should be the goal of every citizen every day. It is possible if there be such, is wiped from time and land in the eternity of the forgotten.

Farmers are now making ready for the new regular glock. Pastures are being planted, ponds are being built. Better housing in preparation, all of which are destined for greater success. One man who said that he was preparing to plant grapes for his stock and expects it to turn what looked like a hand-ship into a blessing. "Hurrah" to the man who can forget himself in the interest of others.

The prediction that this will be the hardest of many winters should remind us of steady and persistent effort toward the necessary things to meet it. Our banking institutions are facing a new life, business is picking up. Think on these things and plan wisely for the future and you are a booster for all the things noted and many more.

Remember that better farms, better stock, better roads and better homes, mean better schools, better towns, better times, better churches, and greatest of all "better people." It takes every man, woman and child. To bring these things with us to hear. Why not do them twice in a while and let prosperity reign where.

Last week old Santa Claus paid Williamston a visit and left a lot of toys for the children's stockings when Christmas comes. Old Santa has so many places to go that he came to Williamston early this year to leave some toys so that he can get all a round to the boys and girls everywhere but he will be back again by Christmas eve.

Sixty Per Cent Farmers Signed

The campaign for Cooperative Marketing in Martin County has now reached the point where over 60 per cent of the growers of cotton and tobacco have signed the contract before the campaign ends a week from next Saturday. It is fully expected that fully seventy-five per cent of the growers will have signed. J. Floy Mays and D. J. McMillan who have been working in the county for the past three weeks will hold a meeting on the streets in Williamston on next Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. Mr. McMillan said today that is just a question now of getting the farmers and they are going to sign the contract. There is not a single influence which is openly fighting the movement. Cooperative Marketing is not an intricate problem, it is not a question hard to understand. If you walk into a store and ask the price on any article the merchant will quote you a sale price. And that price is based on the cost of that article to him. And after all that in a nutshell is what Cooperative Marketing is to the farmer. Simply the merchandising, the selling of his cotton, tobacco and peanuts at a price which will allow him a profit after the cost of making the crops, plus the selling cost. Is there any reason in the world why anyone should fight such a program? It every instance where it has been tried it has not only been successful but has placed farming on a cash basis. Williamston has the opportunity to secure a cotton warehouse. The members of the Association all haul their cotton to this warehouse. It is graded there, and they are paid for it there. All you need in this town is for a hundred members to sign a petition for a warehouse. It's up to the business men of this town to put this thin cover. Everetts and Robersonville already have their petitions signed. Are the business men of this town going to allow the members of the Association to carry their cotton to these towns, receive the money for it there? If they do the farmer is going to spend most of that money in the town where he is paid. Here is the county seat, surely a logical location for a warehouse, with railroad facilities as good, an advantage insofar as freight rates are concerned, and yet nothing has been done.

MARGOLIS BROS. & BROS. 10th ANNIVERSARY SALE

The sale at Margolis Brothers opened up Thursday and all ready people throughout the vicinity are taking advantage of the wonderful bargains which this popular firm is offering. Despite this being the height of the season for fall and winter shopping this firm which has established itself so successfully in Williamston. One can find value which will be astonishing, and surely at this store one can get the most worth in all lines for the cent. There are things for the man, the woman, the child of 10 and when one wishes to get a gift on any occasion he can suit it at the store of Margolis Brothers & Bros.

Despite the fact that the prices of tobacco have risen yet most of the people have to pay their indebtedness of last year therefore they should be anxious to avail themselves of the rare values which this firm is now offering. Don't fail to read this on page two of this issue.

STORM DOES MUCH DAMAGE IN FLORIDA

The heavy gale which Tuesday and Tuesday night struck the southwest coast side of the Peninsula and sent the waves of the Gulf high over the breakwater at Tampa and flooded a large portion of the City. Several deaths are reported. At St. Petersburg the whole water front was swept away and untold damage done. In fact, the entire southern end of the State suffered heavily. Wire communications were practically cut off by the destruction of the telephone and telegraph lines.

The storm, however, spent its fury and was played out before it reached the Carolina coast as we predicted. We had threatening weather for several days but nothing more than floating clouds and occasional flows of air accompanied by rain.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS

Here are some random observations of a man who has visited and studied a good many small communities. If you read your local paper you will not miss much that is happening around home. There is no use saying that you wish your town had a paper like one in the other town, for the other fellow there is saying the same thing. The man who reads his local paper thoroughly is usually a pretty good citizen and has it all over the fellow who does not. Local papers, when all is said and done, do more to uphold the institutions of this state and country than any other known contributing force in the world's work.

HE KNOWS HIS FOLKS

This isn't a country publisher talking, but the editor of a farm paper. The metropolitan daily will bring to one's doorstep the news of the world seen through the spectacles of the city editor, but it is the editor who lives in the heart of the community who is able to reflect the sentiment of the local group. He alone is the true interpreter of events as they affect the small town and the farming community that immediately surrounds the town.

WORK ON BRIDGE IS PROGRESSING NICELY

The work on the bridge is progressing splendidly except the water pipes broke at a very critical moment Sunday morning. The pumping department is attempting to pump the water out of the caisson for the erection of the draw in the center of the river and while there has not been as much said about the undertaking as there was about the famous Raleigh square yet it is quite as interesting and just as difficult. If you wish to undertake a difficult task just try to make a dry place as large as a house in the middle of the Roanoke river, where the water is 25 feet deep and you will be convinced that you are on one job.

The contractors, Messrs. Boyle and Robertson, have spent thousands of dollars in this undertaking and Saturday when Engineer Brown, who is Chief Engineer for the construction of the bridge, left the river there was a man walking around on the bottom in mud and water about up to his knees, but when Mr. Brown went down Sunday morning the water in the caisson was on a level with that of the river. One of the pipes had broken and the dam had immediately filled with water.

The curious have no immediate hope of seeing the bottom of the river but it is evident that they are anxious to get a glance. We are just like those Raleigh folks who wanted to see the mud in the bottom of the hole, we want to see the mud in the bottom of the river and at this writing we are told that if the pipes hold up and the engines don't jump off their beds and the boilers don't burst within three days that about Sunday the water will be all out and the bottom can be seen.

MR. R. R. LILLEY

Mr. R. R. Lilley of Williams town died at his home Tuesday evening after suffering from a stroke of apoplexy for about thirty-six hours, during which time he was entirely unconscious. Mr. Lilley was almost seventy years of age. He had been a farmer all his life and by his industry had acquired a home and a reserve to last him through his old age. He leaves besides his wife, two sons, Otis Lilley of Jamesville and Groves Lilley of Washington county. He was buried Thursday at the burial ground on his farm.

LILACS BLOOMING FOR THE SECOND TIME

We have been reading of case where the fruit trees of all kinds have put forth the second blooms this season and of one case where one had the second crop of peaches in one season but only one in the reduced season, but only one other case in the State where lilacs have bloomed the second time. A lady of Reidsville has a bloom so the News and Observer said, but we can beat that for Mr. Sallie Biggs has had enough to give one to all her friends that passed her way and found her in the garden. The blooms were as perfect in size and aroma as those that come in the Spring.

COLORFUL PICTURE OF A 'LABOR SALE'

The following is a letter received from Congressman H. S. Ward recently:

"I have been hearing and reading and seeing pictures of these labor sales that seem to have commenced in Boston, and have swept over the cities in their flood tide of Republican prosperity and exclusive Americanism. Last night I saw in The Star, a notice of one of the things to be held at No. 225 Pennsylvania Avenue. I quit everything and went and saw it out with my own eyes. Immense crowd; numbers of young men, many in uniform, standing around in a half-circle; a preacher and an auctioneer, talking singing patriotic songs, etc. Presently the man in charge announced that he could not get a city auctioneer on account of pressure brought to bear by the City government. The sale of labor has been regarded as similar to the sale of the man, which is unlawful, so he had fallen upon the plan of selling the fellow's bed by number with the responsibility to the purchaser to take the fellow that sleeps on it and to furnish the young man labor at 30 cents an hour. So fifty beds, (little iron cots) were sold off to somebody representing some charitable institutions. Tears were seen in many eyes as the leader, a splendid talker, commenced and policemen stepped to the front and stood in a few steps of him and watched him. Taking the whole thing all up and down and through and round it was the damndest thing I ever saw."

OLD HOME TOWN PAPER TO HAVE A WEEK

November 7-12, has been set as "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper Week" and this newspaper, together with the thousands of country newspapers the United States over, there are not far from 15,000 of them weekly and small dailies—is to participate. The purpose of the campaign is not only to induce residents of the small communities and the home town folks who are far from their native hearth to subscribe for the home paper, but also to emphasize the important place the home newspaper plays in the life of its community. This campaign has the hearty support and cooperation not only of the newspapers but thousands of ministers and school principals, and many state agricultural colleges and farm and home bureau organizations. Some persons, it is pointed out, have been inclined to belittle the place and function of the country newspaper. They have not realized that in reality the home paper is a community institution and that it enables the other institutions, such as the church and the school and all the rest to function better and more effectively. That it is a necessity if the town is to advance. During the time between now and "Home Town Paper Week" November 7-12, this newspaper in its columns will have much to say about the Home Town Paper—not this newspaper in particular, but the home town paper the nation over, the home town newspaper as a real and distinctive factor in American life.

Celebrate 15th Anniversary

A social event of unusual interest took place on Wednesday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Kader Biggs Crawford were at home to celebrate their fifteenth wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Crawford occupy a place of importance in the social and business world of this section. Mr. Crawford is the son of the late W. T. Crawford and a grandson of United States Senator Asa Biggs, who were perhaps the most popular men who ever lived in Williamston. His mother, as Mrs. Martha Cotten Biggs, was a belle in Washington during the Buchanan administration, and was most universally loved in Williamston, where she lived to a ripe old age. Mrs. Crawford who was Miss Laura Jones, of Seaford, Del., and since her residence in Williamston has, through her tact and charm, greatly endeared herself to every one, and her own personality is so pleasing that she has friends by the score.

The residence was most beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, moss, sprigs of cotton and flowers in great abundance. The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Hoyt who presented them to Mrs. Harry M. Stubbs who in turn directed them to the dressing rooms on the second floor. Mrs. Crawford who was gowned in a most becoming frock of black brocade chiffon and carried a large bunch of lilies of the valley and orchids, received with Mr. Crawford; and they were assisted by their young son, Asa Crawford, and by Mr. Crawford's brothers and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Asa T. Crawford and Mr. Crawford's sister, Miss Anna Crawford. After passing down the receiving line Mrs. Stubbs directed them to another room where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. F. U. Barnes, who served punch. In this room was displayed a wonderful collection of crystal gifts which proved the high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Crawford are held in this section.

After the arrival of the guests, Mrs. Crawford had prepared an innovation for a reception, for at the end of the long dining room a stage was erected and on it was presented a series of most charming tableaux. Mrs. John D. Biggs gave a description of what the groupings meant, then Mrs. O. L. Head, of Madison, Ind., who possesses a most pleasingly modulated voice read the "Bridal of Pentecost" by Whittier, and the following, dressed in Indian costume, gave some splendid groupings which depicted the scenes of the poem: Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Anderson, Mrs. Warren Biggs, Miss Mary Cook, Miss Mary O. Smith, Miss Vada Wynn, Mr. Mortimer Harrison, of Danville, Va., Mr. J. L. Williams, Mr. B. Duke Cletcher, Mr. Maurice Watts and Mr. Francis Loath, of the Shenandoah Valley, Va. After this Mrs. J. S. Rhodes, whose pleasing voice always charms, sang several Indian love lyrics. She was followed by the Misses Vella and Mildred Andrews, who rendered in a most pleasing manner the Barcarole from "The Tales of Hoffman."

The evening was most pleasantly spent by everyone in attendance, who showered congratulations upon Mr. and Mrs. Crawford, and wished for them many more years of happiness in their married life.—Contributed.

Welfare Officer Takes Care of Three Destitute Children

Yesterday, A. J. Manning, County Welfare officer, brought in from Cross Roads township four children that he found in utterly destitute circumstances, and living with bedridden grandparents. They were John Asa Bland, age 13, Joseph Oscar Bland, age 10, Fannie Magnolia Bland, age 8, and Charlie Lazina Bland, age 6. These children were the victims of an unfaithful father and mother who parted several years ago and it is said that each has re-married. The children fell into the hands of their grandparents, Asa Leggett and wife and have since struggled along through many hardships and privations with as few of the bare necessities of life as it is possible to get along with and none of the blessings and comforts of life, but possibly they received the best care their bedridden and aged grandparents could give them. The grandmother died yesterday after a long illness and was buried today, leaving no one except the grand father who is quite feeble and practically unable to get off the bed to care for them.

From this scene of sadness the children were taken by the Welfare Officer, after sufficient clothing was procured from the people in and around Everetts that they might come on a public road, to Williamston, where they were taken to a barber shop and then to the home of Mr. Manning, who had them properly bathed and dressed in clothes supplied by some of the women of the town and the satisfaction which the children felt made the scene even more touching.

The oldest child of this family was so badly burned in the early part of the year that she died in May. She was washing and her dress caught from the fire under the wash pot as there was no one to help her she was fatally burned. These children will be put out in good, Christian homes with people who will feed, clothe, work and educate them and parties taking them will not be molested as long as properly treat them.

There are thousands of children who are in need of homes. We have orphanages and Children's Home Societies but they cannot always find the destitute children nor the homes and the County Welfare Officer is of much importance in bringing these needy ones to better homes. The Enterprise has been asked to solicit an Emergency Fund to be used in needy cases upon the approval of the Welfare Officer and the Judge of the Juvenile Court. Such a fund would relieve many needy and poor people during the winter besides helping to find suitable homes for unfortunate children.

If any one desires to start such a fund we will acknowledge same through the paper from time to time.
