

ON THE MAKING OF MATCHES

Chinese Factories Now Are Producing Thousands of Tons, to the Great Alarm of Japan.

There is a joy in considering the old ways which told of fleas having other fleas upon their backs to bite 'em, the process continuing ad infinitum. Because out of the Far East comes the interesting intelligence that the Chinese have gone into the manufacturing of matches, and are so diligent and skillful in the business, that the Japanese trade is becoming fearful of their progress, as competitors, the Cincinnati Enquirer states.

Not so long ago the American markets were flooded with cheaper imitations of the cheap Swedish matches, which compete with the sturdier and more dependable flame-makers turned out as profusely in America. It was not thought that there could be made anything worse than the Scandinavian product, but when the Japanese fraud arrived, this view was revised sharply.

NEW WAY TO FOIL ROBBERS

Hard to Get Away With Satchel That Is Equipped With a Powerful Alarm Gong.

Holdup men who have been specializing in the robbery of bank messengers and payroll carriers will not rejoice in the invention of the latest security satchel, designed, as it is, to prevent their silent getaway. Says the Scientific American: The satchel is ordinary enough in appearance, save that it is of steel. In the lid it carries a monster bell, operated by two dry cells, which are capable of ringing the alarm continuously for six hours.

getaway from the immediate range of the holdup man before the latter discovers what he is up against. We must agree with the inventor that no crook is likely to march through the streets carrying a ringing satchel, or to get very far with it if he attempts it.

Certainly, until the stick-up artists learn how to put the muller on the bell instantly and permanently, the new trick ought to be effective. And that is all that could be asked for the man who is coping with a robber more expert to handle his plan of campaign as fast as the thief learns what it is.

EASIER TO TRAVEL IN JAPAN

Government Operates Good Railway System Throughout Main Island—Fare, 2 Cents a Mile.

Travel in Japan has long ceased to be what Kaempfer described it two centuries ago, when the backs of men or horses bore the traveler and his belongings along the hillways. All along the sea front the steamers ply, narrow roads, pedicabs, most parts of the interior, and Japan now has a great railway system throughout the main island, with several lines in the three other islands.

century. It is very slowly, even the express makes under 50 miles an hour, but none for it by remarkably low fares—about 2 cents a mile for first-class and a third as much for third-class.

THINGS ARE CHEAP IN HAITI

Although a Solid Mahogany Dinner Table Costs Only $6 Island Has Disadvantages.

In "Haiti" J. Dryden Kiser tells that on his visit to that supposedly uninviting island he purchased a solid mahogany dinner table for $6 "which is the customary price," says the Detroit News. Alligator pears sold in Port au Prince at the rate of five for 2 cents.

MARINES PUZZLE NEW YORK

Queer Uniforms on Brazilian "Leathernicks" Perplex Experts of the Metropolis.

Something with which even the war didn't familiarize the observant American public, or at least the people of New York city, was the Brazilian uniforms worn about Times square and notwithstanding the fact that there were many "leathernicks" in the streets for the recent appearance of the uniforms of the Brazilian battle ship Minas Geraes at the New York navy yard was a setback to many experts.
