The Farmers Warehouse

J. W. HIGHT, Proprietor
Williamston, North Carolina

To my friends of Martin and adjoining counties:
The Farmers Ware-House of Williamston, Martin county, N. C. will be run independently as last year by the old reliable J. W. Hight, a man who knows tobacco and will always get you highest market prices for every pile of tobacco put on his floor. We have plenty of money, and will pay cash, we dont pay part and then promise to pay other in five or ten years. I have served you for the last twelve years, and have always tried to do the straight thing. So when you load your wagon, tell your driver to drive straight to The Farmers Ware House where you'll find doors will be opened day and night. The market opens in Williamston August 16, 1922. Here you'll find a full corps of buyers from all the companies. I will have a full force of office men to serve you and one of the best auctioneers in the state. So if you will come to see me you'll make no mistake to get the high dollar. Thanking you for your past patronage,

I beg to be yours to serve,
J. W. Hight
