Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale
 BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

NATURELAND NEWS

There had just been brought out a copy of Natureland News which those who belong to Natureland bring out every so often and which is the official paper of Natureland.

"Found a Tea Biscuit."

Mr. Spider was out from being a loving mate. Mrs. Spider will live in her new web and make it her home. She will stay as far away from other spiders as possible because she has no spider friends she trusts.

In fact, spiders do not trust each other. Clover, an old horse of fifty-two years of age, saw his old keeper who had not seen him since Clover had been but a few years old.

And Clover remembered his old keeper and kissed him at the tip of his ear just as had been his special trick with this keeper long ago. Clover had not forgotten in all those years!

The Skua in the Zoo spends most of his time these days eating fish or scratching his back. Both he says, are delightful ways of passing the time, and is willing to give this advice free to any who wish to accept it. No one need ever write him a note of thanks for it.

He couldn't read the note if he received it. The Skua, we hope our readers know is a cousin of Mr. Sea Gull. He wears a dark brown suit.

General Sparrow found a tea biscuit upon the lawn the other day. For some reason or other no other birds were around. He would have enjoyed it more if he had had to fight for it, he states.

Mr. Eagle particularly wishes to announce that when people tell each other to "keep an eagle eye" out for this or that and mean of course to watch very carefully and as keenly as they can that half of them don't realize what the saying means.

It is all because Mr. Eagle has such amazingly good eyesight and can see so clearly and so far away that the saying first started.

But Mr. Eagle says that many do not realize what it means. He says that by one says to keep a "saw-tooth" eye out of a man's eye out when wishing anyone to be very careful to see something. And he wishes when people use that expression they would remember that it was because of the wonderful eyesight of the Eagle family that the expression was started in the first place.

And it is a saying with sense, he says. Mr. Brown Bear was he is put out because he heard someone say that she had a friend who was as cross as a bear.

Mr. Brown Bear states that he is not cross and that many and many a bear is as friendly and playful and pleasant as can be and he does not like that saying.

If they mean as cross as a polar bear, why do they not say so? Mr. Horse of the Fair Farm was very cool-headed the other day, and so saved what might otherwise have been a bad situation.

An automobile started to have trouble and to back down a hill and then to go into a bank and during this time he was on top of the hill with the wagon behind him, in which were the family.

He did not budge and it was because he was so calm that the people in the automobile knew just what to do. If the horse had become excited, they could not have saved themselves from an accident.

Friends of Mr. Horse of the Fair Farm are very proud to know him and take this opportunity to extend to him their congratulations.

The horses belonging to the Mount-ed Policemen are very grateful for the many expressions of admiration they have received. They are glad they are loved and that they are considered fine and handsome. They are delighted they can help with the city's traffic and do so much work. But best of all are they pleased when they can help their riders, whom they care for so much to stop runaways and to prevent accidents.

May seems to be carrying out April's program for a cold spring, giving us a pretty good frost on May 10th. Snow struck many nearby places on the 9th. It makes cotton look red and is against most other crops.

VETERAN SPEAKER COMING

Grove Herbert is one of the widest known men in the Lyceum and Chautauqua field. He came from a village pastorate to the platform, and in a very short time became noted for the clarity of his thinking, the energy of his work and the might of his oratory. His personality is compelling. He is a strong, virile, red-blooded man. He weighs 200 pounds, has a strong voice, well-modulated, keen eyes and open ears. He has lectured all over the United States, clear across Canada and in Mexico.

Mr. Herbert has been a student of men, boys and books all his life. He knows men; their temptations, their struggles, their ambitions, their hopes and aspirations. He is as intensely human himself as a man can be. He has worked his own way to the commanding place he occupies, and is scarred with the marks of many battles with adverse fortune.

Mr. Herbert's father was, for fifty years, a Methodist preacher, of the old sort who swam his horse across swollen streams, carried the Bible, the Discipline and the Hymn Book in his saddle bags all over Northwestern Ohio in the early days of Ohio Methodism. Herbert was the first son born to his father, although the old preacher was well in the fifties when the son was born. The elder Herbert was also a "forty-niner," and preached on the streets of the then gloomy San Francisco with Rev. (afterward Bishop) William Taylor, of heroic memory. Mr. Herbert's paternal grandfather erected the first mission church built by the Methodists, the rebuilt edifice now standing on the original ground at Upper Sandusky, Ohio. About the church lies the dust of the celebrated Wyandot Indian chiefs—"Between-the-Logs," "Bloody-Eyes," "Gray Wolf" and others of that stately tribe of red men.

Mr. Herbert's ancestors have been preachers, teachers, lawyers; and the family has been noted for its orators. So the doctor comes honestly by his oratorical gifts. And his oratory is of the intense type, expressing vividly the vision of a strong man. His lectures challenge thought, inspire vision and urge to service. The personality of a strong man runs through all his work. Many people agree with him and some differ from him, but all grant him the courage of his convictions, the honesty of his purpose and the sincerity of his motives. Our citizens will have a chance to hear Mr. Herbert at the coming Chautauqua.

Gum-Dipped Cords
 Gaining New Fame for Service
 194% Sales Increase in Last Six Months
 Shows Trend Toward Firestone

The public has emphatically spoken. The popular preference in all territories is unmistakably the Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord.

A standard of service has been set by these famous tires without parallel in the past. It has brought a sales increase of 194% for the past six months over the same period of a year ago—the greatest gain in all Firestone history.

The Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord is the mighty achievement which has enabled Firestone to break the tremendous record of past Firestone success.

The buying public has been aroused to the results in economical mileage of the Firestone process of double gum-dipping. The buying-outward toward Firestone shows how it has advanced the public's standard of tire value.

Ask owners about Firestone performance on their cars. Note the big treaded treads Firestone-equipped. Watch the new cars you see—just from the factories. Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords are seen everywhere in fast increasing numbers.

Get the maximum extra mileage that only the Firestone name assures you. Only by insisting on this name can you be sure of getting the greatest gum-dipped construction.

Georgia Peanut Growers Complete the Organization

In behalf of the peanut growers of Georgia the following telegram which was forwarded to us a few days ago, portrays the progress they are making down in the Cracker state which doubtless is greatly encouraging to the growers of North Carolina, who have not fared as well as the other cooperatives, owing to the fact that the organization has not been perfected on as large scale, consequently not being able to control a large per cent of the production, but with organization being perfected in Georgia, where a large acreage is grown, the situation looks better for the Peanut Growers' cooperative for this year, and the market will doubtless be better.

Peanut Growers' Ass'n.,
 Norfolk, Va.

"In behalf of Georgia Peanut association, it is a pleasure to assure your association that our organization is now a practically assured fact with everything pointing to a splendid success in the very beginning. We want to assure your association of our closest cooperation and affiliation with your association and to especially extend your association our deep appreciation for your splendid cooperation and especially for assistance rendered us by your Mr. DePence, "Edw. E. L. Spence," "Chairman," Albany, Ga."

So they greased the bottom of the ship

SMART builders of smart ships, those hardy settlers along the Atlantic Coast just after the Revolution. Many a time their sharp-built barks and brigantines showed their heels to the Mediterranean blockade and carried American goods into Marselles. And one ingenious device for getting a knot or two of extra speed was the greasing of the vessel's bottom. So while the friction of the water held back their pursuers, they slipped onward to safety.

Friction is always a drag against progress, especially in the case of motor cars and trucks. For years this company has been aiming at the conquest of friction by means of a lubricating oil scientifically designed. We have been successful. Ask for Polarine, the "Standard" oil for motor lubrication—not just "a quart of oil."
