HERE AND THERE

We are copying a few valuable sayings from the Southern Telephone Journal, a large illustrated magazine, published at Atlanta, Ga., which were contributed by Mr. J. D. Taylor, of Jackson, Miss. Mr. Taylor is traveling auditor for the Cumberland Telephone Co., for the State of Mississippi and is a Martin County boy.

A parrot 100 years old died in Seconk, N. C., a few days ago and the village actually was in mourning for a mere parrot. The bird's name was "Uncle Tom," and it is stated that he had a vocabulary that made a college professor seem tongue-tied, and he knew how to use it as only a century-old parrot can. The bird was buried with ceremony.

Parson Johnson—"De choir will now sing 'I'm Glad Salvation's Free,' while Deacon Ketchum passes de hat. Ah please contribute accordin' to yo' means an' not yo' meanness."

"All there is to efficiency is to know what are essentials and do them, and to know what things are non-essential and let them alone," says a well-known successful business man. I have just read an editorial on "Debt." Among other things the writer says, "Debt causes worry. That deadens the brain and adds to incapacity. Debt diminishes courage. The man in debt is a man cowed; no man can do his best when he is frightened and worried. Debt injures reputation. When you are in debt everybody knows it, or it imagine that everybody knows it. For your own happiness in life, for safety in old age, and for the sake of those that depend upon you, you can make no better resolution than this: Pay debts now owing, make no new debts, get free, however hard the struggle, and then stay out of debt."

A YOUNG MAN WRITES

Editor of the Enterprise: It has been my pleasure to read the recent articles appearing under the head "Letter Box."

I am a young man without means, except what I earn at my daily work, and feeling the great handicap of my poverty I feel surrounded by a glow of sadness.

I seem to be a failure in comparison with other young men.

Naturally I desire to mingle with young people, both boys and girls.

It is one of the elements of human nature, for young folks like to associate with each other. Yet the demands of society denies me this privilege. I find that I am not able to earn an honest living, deal square with the world, and support a good time, such as seems to be required today, especially by the girls.

I am not able to run to the drug stores, ball games and picture shows with them. If I take a girl to a picture show and then to the drug store as we go home it costs me half a make; and the next day I am forced to ask to be trusted for bread to eat.

The average girl seems too lonely to spend an evening at home with any young man, regardless of how honest he may be. Most of them seem to have the "go-fever" and cannot stand the quietness of home life.

I have fully made up my mind to endure the loneliness and stand the discard before I will be dishonest with my employer or haul them in a mortgaged automobile filled with credit-bought gas. Yet I hope to find a girl some day who thinks her mother knows a few things and is capable of giving good advice and is content to spend a little time around the home fires, where the family members have some association with each other.

I am not so anxious about her fine clothes, yet I would like for her to have enough to appear decent. She need not paint for my special benefit, because I have no special fancy for face paint.
