Fourth Attempt Fails

The fourth attempt to knock the pillar support the A. C. L. tracks at the west end of Main Street from its foundation failed last Tuesday night when a Ford touring car plunged into at a fast rate of speed.

From the number of attempts to remove by main force, we would judge that it is in the way and that it should be moved. What a fancy idea it was to stick a great big concrete pillar right in the middle of a highway leading to the State's capital. Just why it was done, we are unable to say. Neither do we understand how liquor manages to keep one right in the middle of the road when driving an automobile. But the pillar is there and the car driver hit it fair in the face.

And while we are at a loss to understand those two peculiarities, we do know something should be done about the situation as it now stands. The drive way on either side of the pillar is so narrow that it places a doubt in the mind of the careful driver as to whether or not he can drive his car through without hitting anything. This being true, the support should be removed. But then there is the question relating to the drunken driver. Keeping auto drivers sober seems to be a task too large for county, State, and Federal authorities to handle. And since it seems impossible to keep drunken drivers from under a wheel, the only remedy would appear to be the removal of the railroad's support.

But to get the railroad company to do something and to keep auto drivers sober form such an enormous task that it looks as if nothing will be done about the present condition of the underpass.

Why So Little Interest in Politics?

Election year is hardly noticeable this time. No speaking, no issues, and apparently no fight is on. It can't be that Democracy is complete; that it has reached a state of perfection and furled its sails and let the world go on adrift.

In a few states a liquor question is being agitated and causing some interest, noticeably in New York, where money and liquor has demanded the right to rule the nation for half a century.

In Pennsylvania there is no use trying to have a political fight, because they buy up the candidates faster than they can get in the ring. It is more vicious than the old slave trade used to be.

Every election should have again
