

MANY PROTECT MEATS FROM SKIPPER FLIES

Raleigh, Jan. 23.—Much meat on the farm is subject to the attacks of the ham skipper which is a small fly resembling a winged ant. Maggots from eggs laid by this fly may cause considerable damage and it is a wise plan to wrap the meat or screen the smokehouse so that the fly cannot enter.

This skipper is much smaller than the common house fly. The maggots produced from these flies attack mostly the pork hams and shoulders which have been cured or smoked. The fresher the meat, the more rapid the injury. Old pieces of meat which have become hard and dry and which are sometimes covered with a coating of blue mold or a salvelike layer of fat seem to be immune from attack. Very fat meat, like bacon, is not extensively injured. The insect apparently prefers lean meat.

The best control method is to prevent the adult flies from entering the storage room. This can be done by screening with a 30-mesh wire cloth and by seeing that flies do not enter the room when the door is opened. Where the flies can enter this room, the usual method of preventing infestation, is to wrap each piece of meat with paper and then enclose it in a tight sack. If the screen mesh wire is used, wrapping is not needed.

Meats stored in a well screened smokehouse should need no further protection. Where infested meat cannot be re-conditioned by trimming, the meat should be destroyed. Bones should not be allowed near the meat as the skippers breed within these old bones.

There is an excellent market for well-cured hams and such meat is too valuable to permit it to be ruined by the attacks of these flies.

Press wool garments while still damp with a medium hot iron until they are dry. Use a pressing cloth if ironing on the right side. Slightly dampened cheesecloth is useful in pressing flannels, as it draws up the fluff of the material.

Measles Cases Total 3,443 for Past Week

Raleigh, Jan. 24.—Again the week's total of measles in North Carolina ran above 3,000, it was learned from the Bureau of Epidemiology of the State Board of Health yesterday. The total for the week just passed was 3,443, as compared to 3,689 for the week before and over 5,000 for the week before that.

Since November there has been a definite epidemic of measles all over North Carolina, said Dr. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse, State health officer, but medical science is yet to learn an adequate means of coping with this disease. Dr. Laughinghouse also said that measles was a much more serious disease than is generally believed. The death rate among children is high and after effects are severe.

There were over 32,000 cases of measles in North Carolina last year, the greatest total since the epidemic of 1924 when there were over 34,000 cases.

State Next to Last in Per Capita Tax in 1926

Raleigh, Jan. 22.—With but one exception, North Carolina in 1926 had the lowest per capita cost of maintenance of State government of any of the forty-eight. This fact is pointed out in the analysis of State taxes and debts made by the Division of Commerce and Industry of the Department of Conservation and Development, which is expected to be available for distribution at an early date. "North Carolina," says the analysis, "in 1926 paid only $5.76 per inhabitant toward the maintenance of the State government, exclusive of capital outlay and interest charges, according to the Federal Department of Commerce. Only one State, Alabama, paid less, $5.66, and the other 46 States paid more."

CONCRETE ON THE FARM

Here is a simple method of testing sand to find out whether it has too much clay with it to make a desirable concrete. Put 4 inches of the sand into a pint preserving jar. Fill the jar with clear water to within an inch of the top. Fasten the lid. Shake the jar thoroughly until the whole is well mixed. Set the jar aside and allow the contents to settle. The sand will go to the bottom. The clay and loam will form a layer on top of the sand. If more than three-eighths of an inch of clay or loam shows, the sand is not clean enough for making concrete.

Attention to Tires Means Much Saving

Many motorists now realize that just putting a tire on a car and not paying any further attention to it is much the same as operating an auto without a thought for grease or oil until serious trouble develops.

According to J. D. Woolard, of the Williamston Motor Co., Firestone dealers in Williamston, the way to get the most mileage and best service from tires is to have them looked over regularly and frequently.

Like the old adage about a stitch in time, a little care will often prevent serious loss of tire mileage.

The treads should be inspected for cuts and bruises, and any small repairs needed should be made immediately.

It is important to have the wheels aligned and the proper air pressure maintained, if the motorist is to get all the service he is entitled to from his tires.

Always use valve caps. Screw each one down tightly by hand. This will prevent air leakage and underinflation difficulties.

Rotations of crops, with legumes included, will pay in increased yields and more fertile lands say those men who have tried it.
