The Traffic Toll

Evidently the State, Highway Commission's supply of roadway signs, 'Fatal Accident Here: - Killed,' will have to be replenished. The record of traffic accidents for the nine months of the fiscal year shows a loss of 482 lives, or one for each 15.3 miles of the entire system in the State. There were as many as 2.714 accidents on the highways during the stated period, and aside from the number of people killed 3,308 persons were injured. And yet these figures do not appall, the accidents having become regarded as matter-of-fact occurrences. There was one corpse for every five accidents. The daily rate of accidents was 9.87 every 24 hours. Every day 12 people were made hospital patients, while at least one case was developed for the undertaker.

The tragedies for May will possibly outnumber any previous month. Six people were killed Sunday near Whiteville when a Coast Line train struck a truck loaded with Sunday school pupils and five seriously injured, some of them possibly fatally. This was one of the greatest traffic slaughters of the entire year.

Facts like these ought to give strength to the hands of the State Highway Commission and to the Carolina Motor Club, a combined agency in advocacy of saner highway laws by the next legislature.

Who Owns the Highways?

Who are the bosses of the highways, the people who build them, or their competitors?

The impression exists that every penny yet paid for the construction of our North Carolina highways complied with, and at the request of the parties interested, the undersigned trustee will on the 31st day of May, 1928, at 12 o'clock m, at the court-house door in the town of William-ston, N. C., offer for sale to the high-est bidder, for cash, at public auction. the following tract of land and personal property, to wit:

A house and lot in the town of Wil has come from the sale of gasoline and the auto tax. If that assumption is correct, then why should the property owner or the railroads kick on State highways or roads?

TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

The roads are intended for but one purpose; that is, to serve the people, yet we are told the farmers are losing thousands of dollars daily in the strawberry sections because tht trucks from the northern markets can't haul strawberries from this State to Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York under the licenses of their own States. The law seems to be very stringent, but why should it be and who demanded a law that forbids a New York truck owner from coming to a North Carolina farmer and buying his strawberries or peaches or potatoes and hauling them to his own city for sale to the people, at less cost, quicker, and in better shape than the Atlantic Coast Line does? Will this drastic principle grow until a Norfolk or Richmond truck can't load with a householder's goods in Virginia and haul them to our State? The principle is the same; it cuts the railroad out of the freight. If the railroads are not prepared to handle the freight and express of their communities in a decent way, on quick time, at a reasonable price, then let the farmers use our good roads where they can market their highly perishable crops quickly, nicely, and cheaply

Don't let the railroads dictate the use of our $100,-000,00 worth of roads, which have not cost them a cent to build, and for which they have possibly collected $30,000,000 for freight hauls.

Greedy for China

Japan must have a ravenous appetite for China, because she never fails to bite out a slice of China's territory whenever the opportunity presents itself. China has for a long time been a coveted nation, at least three of the leading nations of the world seem to want to acquire her territory with her 400,000,000 people and fine lands with its natural resources.

Now, China is asking the United States to assist her. If it was not for the United States and England Japan would have China before Sunday night, and doubtless if Japan and the United States were out of the way. China would soon be included in the United Kingdom of Great Britain, Ireland and China.

The people of China are having a hard struggle; first they are attempting to transform from the old to the new civilization and are being sold out by their leaders and robbed and taxed on every hand. China could easily stand all her internal troubles and would finally overcome them. Yet China will have almost an unbearable task to overcome her internal pilefring and carrying the heavy burden of unfair trade balances imposed upon her by the nation's that dominate her, which we call and claim to be the highly civilized nations.

As things now appear, no nation will be permitted to take any more of China's territory without bringing us another great war. Neither civilization nor religion have put all the jealousies nor selfishness out of the people to that extent that the white and yellow races regard each other with the same love and respect as they do themselves.
