East Carolina Picture To Be Shown Here Tonight

The Eastern Carolina picture, made at the exposition held in Goldsboro the week of April 9, will be shown here tonight and in Everetts tomorrow night. The picture includes 19 episodes taken from the pageant staged that week.

The picture will be shown here along with the regular program. At Everetts, the school auditorium will be used, and the picture will be shown there at 8.30.

Philathea Class To Hold Baby Show

The members of the Philathea class of the Baptist church here will hold a baby show and apron sale Friday, June 15 in the lobby of the Atlantic hotel, it was announced today. All mothers are asked to register their babies with Miss Margaret Everett between now and June 14, the day before the show and apron sale.

Bethel Pastor Will Preach Here Friday

Rev. Stanley Rogers, of Bethel, will preach to the Christian Federation here next Friday night, it was announced today. The service will be held in the Christian church at 8:00 o'clock.

To Hold Examinations Here Next Saturday

According to a statement from the superintendent of schools' office, this county, no application have been filed here by those students who graduated from non-accredited schools and who want to enter college upon an equal basis with those students who were graduated from accredited schools. The examination, should there be any applications, will be held in the superintendent's office here next Saturday morning at 10:00 o'clock. Any one passing the examination will be admitted to any college in the State without further requirements, it is understood.

Mr. R. F. Pope left for Bailey yesterday, where he will lead the singing in a meeting held by Rev. E. W. Mason.

Town Board Meeting Is Put Off Until Tomorrow

On account of the absence of several of the town commissioners, the meeting scheduled for last evening was postponed. The next meeting will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Negro Farmers Grow Vegetables in Winter

Between 50 and 60 per cent of the gardens belonging to negro farmers in Iredell County have been growing some vegetables during the past winter.

Poultry Growers Sell 80,866 Pounds Culls

Poultry growers of Lincoln County have sold 80,866 pounds of culled poultry since the first of the season this year.

SELL PRODUCE AT ROAD SIDE

Offer Alert Gardener Good Opportunity to Dispose Of Surplus Produce

Curb markets and roadside stands offer the alert gardener an opportunity to dispose of her surplus produce at a profit.

'One of the prize-winner in the year-round garden contest last year paid the running expenses of her home and repaired her car from money secured by sales at the curb market,' says E. B. Morrow, extension horticulturist at State College. 'Mrs. A. A. Moore, of Washington, sold regularly at the curb market and twice each week made deliveries to a local hotel and coffee shop. For the first time in 15 years, she wrote, her husband did not have to borrow money to pay the expenses of producing a crop and the harvest from the farm was debt-free last fall. Mrs. Henry Middleton of Warsaw, another prize winner, sold $194 worth of vegetables from a one-acre garden and fed a family of six on fresh vegetables throughout the year.'

Mr. Morrow states that if quality products are placed in an attractive stand by the side of the road and the stand advertised by neat signs, many sales may be made this way, and a good trade developed. This stand should not be a place where cast-off material is to be disposed of, but should contain temptingly arranged fruit and vegetables fresh from the garden and orchard. Cull-out all the misshapen and inferior specimens and offer for sale only those that one would like for her own use. To offer produce of poor quality will ruin chances for future sales, states Mr. Morrow.

Success with the roadside stand, of course, depends on the travel, but those homes located near a trunk high way should soon develop a good trade.

Both the curb market and the stand have furnished many farm women with additional income during the past few years in North Carolina, and one or both of these methods might be used to advantage this season.

CONTROL LICE WITH NICOTINE

10 Pounds Nicotine Dust Per Acre Will Control Lice on Cotton

Ten pounds per acre of a three per cent nicotine sulphate will control the plant lice on cotton.

'While ready-mixed, nicotine dusts may be secured from insecticide dealers, they can be made at home,' says C. H. Brannon, extension entomologist at State College. 'This can be done by adding 3 3/4 pounds, or three pints, of nicotine sulphate to 50 pounds of hydrated lime to secure a three per cent mixture. The lime is used as a carrier for the nicotine sulphate, and it must be well mixed. The nicotine sulphate may be added to the lime with a convenient sprinker, and the mixture then run through a fine sieve, 20 meshes to the inch, with the aid of a brush. Repeat this operation three times, brushing all the material thru the sieve so as not to lose any great amount of the nicotine poison.

The dust must be stored in a tight metal drum if it is not to be used at once. Where it is to be used at once, it may be placed temporarily in the empty lime sacks. It is best to use the material right after mixing, if possible, states Mr. Brannon.

In some cases, it is possible to add the nicotine sulphate to calcium arsenate, in the same proportions as with lime, but then the mixture must be used at once, or the cotton plants may be burned. As in the case of calcium arsenate, the nicotine dusts should be applied to the cotton on a day when the air is calm and the temperature is hot. Those farmers who are equipped to dust their cotton with calcium arsenate for the control of the boll weevil should be able to use this nicotine sulphate with the arsenate with excellent results, thus controlling both the plant lice and the boll weevil at one operation.

PRIZES FOR CALF CLUB MEMBERS

American Jersey Cattle To Give $3 for Each Member Owning Calf

Calf club members in North Carolina who own pure-bred registered Jerseys will have the opportunity to win some cash prizes through an offer recently made by the American Jersey Cattle Club.

'This club will donate as prizes for competition, a sum equivalent to $3 for each member owning a registered Jersey calf,' says L. R. Harrell, club leader at State College. 'No award will be made where there are less than five members in the club, and in no case will more than $50 be awarded in any one county, regardless of the number of members. In other words, if there are 15 club members having registered Jersey calves in a county, the cattle club will give $45 to be used as prizes. This money may be divided according to rulings of the county agent.'

To obtain this prize money, an official application blank must be filled out by the local reader, vouching for the awards and must be forwarded to the American Jersey Cattle Club at New York. Each application must be signed by the local leader, and the State club leader before it is forwarded and the premium money will then be paid to the State club leader for proper distribution, states Mr. Harrell.

Mr. Harrell says that last year only one-third of the money available to this State was used. Therefore, he urges the calf club members to take greater advantage of the opportunity this year. North Carolina has some excellent Jersey calf clubs in various counties, with Alamance County having the largest club of its kind in the world. The club members in each of the counties should see that their clubs are well organized and that steps are taken for the premium money to be secured when the calf clubs shows, or fairs are held. Those who wish application blanks may secure them from Mr. Harrell.

SIDE-DRESSING COTTON URGED

At Least 50 to 60 Pounds of Nitrogen Per Acre Should Be Used

At least 50 to 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre should be used on the sandy soils of the coastal plain to insure a good cotton crop.

'Since this element leaches out of such soils very easily, it is best to make two applications of nitrogen, one at planting and one at chopping,' says E. C. Blair, extension agronomist at State College. 'An application of 800 pounds of an 8-4-4 fertilizer before planting supplies 32 pounds of ammonia. This leaves 18 to 28 pounds additional to be put on as a side application when the cotton is chopped.

From 100 to 150 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre will supply the needed amount.'

It is not wise to exceed this amount in top-dressing cotton for two reasons, states Mr. Blair. An excessive application will either be wasted or will enlarge the stalk and delay maturity of the crop to a dangerous degree. On soils that are poorly drained high in organic matter, or that contain a considerable amount of clay, less nitrogen should be applied than on sandy soils.

In the Piedmont region, care must be taken, states Mr. Blair, not to apply too much nitrogen in proportion to the phosphoric acid used. Otherwise maturity will be so delayed that the cotton will be caught by frost. Where from 600 to 800 pounds of 10-4-4 has been applied before planting, no second application should be necessary. But if only superphosphate (acid phosphate) was applied at planting, a late dose of from 50 to 100 pounds of nitrate of soda will give surprisingly good results.

Under such conditions, Mr. Blair advises 100 pounds on thin soils and less on fertile soils which already contain a supply of nitrogen. Excessive applications of nitrogenous fertilizers on such soils will result in a large growing, late maturing crop, he says.
