need no education. There are some who feel that the working class should have sufficient education to sign mortgages and read just a little, while a few have the vision of a happier better people when all are educated and able to do their own thinking and not be dependent on any one for a guardian to think for them. This can only come through universal education.

The next legislature of North Carolina is evident-centering its thoughts on this great question, and the people should back them in their undertaking to procure an equitable and just tax on the wealth of the State in order that the State's schools may be better. Because we can have no schools without cost.

Population Increase

Is New York right in estimating its population in 1965 at 21,000,000 people. Is the Columbia University expert right in his estimate that Detroit will be larger than New York, and what grounds have Cleveland and Akron, Ohio, for predicting that the 100 mile space between them will soon be a solid city, connecting the two?

The question of where the folks are to live in the coming years is certainly important.

We have seen the country roll to the city for the past 50 years, drawn by the noisy hum and glare of the city lights. Now, all signs point to a change in this, and within 50 years we expect to see the poor of the cities rushing to the country for bread and both, like rats from a sinking ship.

Heretofore the city has been the country's customer and the country has been the city's customer. Both have overdone the thing and glutted the markets at both ends. Machinery has doubled the production of the city, and methods have doubled the production of the country.

The only hope is for the family to dig its existence into a small plot of ground, just as the people are urged to do in the densely populated countries of Europe.

The American ideal has been to make money. The necessity of the future will call the people to a new ideal, that of making a living. The country will be a logical place.

Courses in Religion

The University of North Carolina will include in its curriculum a course of instruction in the history of literature of religion, the trustees having approved resolution presented by the faculty suggesting this addition to the course of study. Students taking the course in religion will be given credit for it on the same basis as in other courses. A committee to provide for the course has been named to report in the fall, and it is presumed that the course can be rendered available to students at the beginning of the year.

For the last two years a school of religion has been maintained at Chapel Hill with the Rev. M. T. Workman in charge. Students have taken courses in this school, but were not given credit for the work done by the University. The decision to give credit for such courses is obviously an endorsement of the work the School of Religion has been doing.

The proposal is that the University have its own school of religion and select its own instructors, who would be responsible to the trustees and not to any particular denomination. This would lift the history, literature, science and philosophy of religion out of the rut of denominationalism and elevate them to the higher plane of cultural and informative subjects. Important as religion is to the individual person, colleges and universities have done little more than recognize the fact of its existence.

Religion is usually touched upon incidentally in college and university, not because higher educational institutions do not appreciate the value of religion, but rather because denominationalism and conflicting views have well nigh rendered the teaching of religion impossible. A scientific and scholarly study of the development of religion in general and of Christianity in particular is of inestimable value to the student. That such a study can be made by university students seems to have been demonstrated by the school of religion at the University of North Carolina.—Winston-Salem Journal.

IN MEMORIAM

With loving remembrance of our daughter and sister, Viola Nicholson Wynn, who got burned to death June 2. She was born February 12, 1911, making her short stay on earth only 17 years, 3 months and some few days. She leaves a father, mother, three sisters, five brothers, and a broken-hearted husband and a host of friends to mourn her departure.

She budded on earth to bloom in Heaven. Now all we can do is to bow our heads in humble submission to God's holy will and say they will be done not ours. Precious daughter, sister, and wife, how we'll miss you when assembled as of yore, your loving voice no more will greet us as we enter at the door.

Fold her hands, now free from labor, across her breast; her work is done, now she'll rest through all the ages with our Father and the Son. Heavenly Father, guide those loved ones that this girl has left behind. Keep them ever with watchful which at all times is sublime. We loved her, yes, we loved her, but Jesus loved her more so he called her yonder to dwell on Canaan's happy shore.

It was hard to stand beside her bedside and see her suffer so; to know that earthly help had failed and she must shortly go. Prepare us, Lord, to meet her, with loved ones gone before, that we all may dwell together where parting comes no more.

Close the casket, farewell, loved one; she's not lost just some before, where we hope some day to meet with the Savior at the throne. She is gone but not forgotten; never shall her memory fade. Sweetest thoughts will ever linger 'round the grave that she's newly made.

May the good Lord bless this poor old father and mother with every needed blessing is my humble prayer.

THE HOUSEWIVES' BEST FRIEND

Friendship usually means going to unusual lengths to satisfy. And that is what the Pender Stores do. They offer the housewife clean stores, courteous, well trained managers, highest quality foods and prices that must be considered economical even by the most thrifty. The fact that more than 600,000 women shop at our stores each week is sufficient testimonial that we do offer a greater amount of satisfaction and service than they could receive elsewhere.

Slot Machines and Punchboards

The sheriff of Alamance County has been instructed to seize all slot machines in that county which may be found after July 1st.

That will be a fine thing for the people up there, but the slot machine people will curse, because it will keep them from gaining wealth by an unfair method, a way in which they take more than they give.

The same enforcement should follow in Martin County and should even go further. It should reach the punchboard, the fortune wheel, and every other device that does not give a uniform return for the same investment. Any other method is only a lottery, taking the money from men and many times from children, who hope for big returns, but who get none. These things have been tolerated until it is hard to get our minds above the gambling spirit.

Some Safe Bets

A Kansas editor has notice that when a man finds fault with his local newspaper, the chances are ten to one that he hasn't an advertisement in it; five to one he never gave it job work; three to one he is delinquent in his subscription; even money that he never did anything to assist the publisher to make it a good paper, and forty to one that he is anxious to get it when it comes out.—Chambers-Kan. Tribune.

Clean Your Teeth

Clean your teeth is the advice given by the State Board of Health. The Board has such faith in this advice that it treated and cleaned the teeth of 33,522 school children last year.

Proper care of the teeth is said to prolong life by keeping away diseases of many kinds. It saves much expense and produces much happier lives. The tooth-ache patient is never happy; and bad teeth are certain to produce diseases, many of them deadly as well as painful.

If the 33,520 children treated get an extra year each, it means a good contribution or gain from the cost of treatment.

Education

Governor William Berkley said more than 25 years ago that he hoped there would be no printing press nor free schools in Virginia for a hundred year. His idea was that educated masters could handle ignorant slaves easier than they could enlightened ones. We, today, find much of the same feeling, though some should hew wood, draw water, and ditch a
