SPINACH IS FINE WINTER GREENS

May Not Be the Best Thing in World to Eat, But It Finds Ready Sale

While spinach is not in accord with some folks' ideas about what is good to eat, it is an excellent green for winter and spring and commands a ready sale on most large markets. "The crop may be planted at intervals during September and October to harvest during the late fall, or it may be sown in February for spring harvest," says Robert Schmidt, vegetable specialist at State College. "The fall crop is often left in the field over winter and harvested in February or March. The leaves may be injured by heavy frosts, but a side application of nitrate of soda will bring out new leaves. The best variety for fall planting is the Virginia Savoy, which is blight resistant. The best variety for spring planting is the Long Standing Bloomsdale Savoy.

In any case, states Mr. Schmidt, the crop likes a rich, well-drained, sandy lean soil. It does best on one that is slightly alkaline, hence lime should be applied a few days before planting. Well-rotted stable manure always gives good results. The best commercial fertilizer is one analyzing 8 per cent phosphoric acid, 9 per cent nitrogen, and 3 per cent potash, applied at the rate of from 1,600 to 2,000 pounds per acre. The applications are best made at three or four different times during the growing season.

Mr. Schmidt states that spinach is either planted in beds or sown broadcast. The practice followed by the best growers in North Carolina is to plant in raised beds, four rows wide with each row from 10 to 12 inches apart. Put the seed in about one-half inch deep and when the plants have formed four full leaves, thin to four or six inches apart. About 20 pounds of seed are required to plant an acre in this way.

Spinach is harvested by cutting the top root just below the lower leaves. All discolored leaves are removed and the crop marketed in bushel baskets or ventilated barrels. An acre should produce from 300 to 400 barrels of good spinach.

The New Fur Coats for Fall Make Their Bow!

The magic of style—who can deny its appeal?

The new Fall fur coat silhouette no longer favors the absolutely straight line effect only but also concedes to a slightly moulded hipline—sleeves and collars most interestingly displayed and decidedly different.

The new mode, superbly fashioned, luxuriously made, is now offered in all its interesting style variations.

Meticulous, fascinating detail makes every one of these coats a masterpiece of workmanship. Remarkable values.

HYSTERICAL South Carolina Lady Tried Cardui and Says She Noticed Remarkable Improvement.

Anderson, S. C.—"I suffered a long long time, before I tried Cardui, and my only regret is that I did not know about it sooner," says Mrs. Lillie Pruitt, 130 "K" Street, this city. "I was badly run down. My nerves went to pieces, and I had to go to bed. I was not able to do my house work for many months. I got so bad off, I could not bear to have anybody walk across the floor of my room. The least little thing upset me. Sometimes I became hysterical. I had bad pains in my back and sides, and my head and limbs would take spells of aching, which almost set me wild. "One day I was reading and I saw where a woman, who had a trouble like my own, had been relieved by Cardui. I decided at once to try it; so I began on a course of the 'Home Treatment'." "It began to help me from the very first. I took Cardui regularly, for several months, and my improvement was so remarkable, that my family and friends were delighted. "Cardui has no equal, in my opinion. I gladly recommend it to others."
