URGES SUPPORT PARTY TICKET

fear for the Eighteenth Amendment, for Smith's views on the matter would count for little and are of no more value than ours, that 13 States could kill any measure for changing the amendment by just doing nothing. Mr. Daniels' stand on the prohibition question was made clear when he said:

"History repeats itself. In 1928, a majority of the Democrats of North Carolina—and a big majority—found themselves in the same situation that confronted Vance and the majority of the North Carolina Democrats in 1892. They were in disagreement with Governor Smith on prohibition. They stood with him on fundamental Democratic principles and against privilege in every shape or guise. With him they favor the principle of the Underwood-Simmons tariff measure. But their deep and abiding convictions would not permit them to vote for his nomination. This opposition was on principle. They rejoiced that the Democratic platform indicted the Republicans for 'flagrantly failing to enforce national prohibition and pledged their candidates to enforce the eighteenth amendment by name. They helped to kill any declaration to modify, amend or repeal national prohibition. The majority of that convention nominated Governor Smith on the platform adopted by practically a unanimous vote. Then came Governor Smith's unfortunate statement of his personal recommendation of amendment. Some Democrats thought of bolting. Some will refuse to support Smith because of it. As a disciple and follower of Vance I can not go with them. Instead, refusing to endorse Smith's suggestion of amendment, we dry Democrats stand against it just as strongly as Vance stood against Cleveland's gold standard suggestion. We will continue to fight to the end against it as Vance did for his convictions. Like him we will make our fight within the party and win it there. In fact, all attempts to make 'wet' and 'dry' the issue has failed. In New York and other congested districts, both parties are wet. In the South both parties are dry. The same is true in the West and in three New England States. I stand with Senator Glass, who said:

"I shall support Smith in spite of his impossible proposal rather than because of it. Indeed, knowing perfectly well that, as President, he will have no power to modify the eighteenth or any other amendment to the Federal Constitution, and that not in an hundred years hence will two-thirds of both branches of Congress propose or three-fourths of the States of the Union ratify any such proposition, I put Governor Smith's record as a man and an executive over against that of his Republican competitor and I put the record and declaration of principles of the Democratic Party against that of the Republican Party, and on this score preserve my party regularly as a Democrat and join in the fight against entrenched privilege and against the worst record of thievery and corruption and organized maladministration of government that ever disgraced any political regime in the history of the American Republic."

Hoover followed Wilson principles in 1918, but he turned against him and his peace program and now, while he leads the Republicans, let us, as Democrats, vote the national ticket with our heart in it and put down privilege and corruption, which have abused us for seven years, Mr. Daniels pleaded.

74 Hunting Licenses Sold by Dealer Here

Seventy-four hunting licenses, 61 county and 13 state, had been sold up until noon today by Mr. P. H. Brown at the Culpepper Hardware store, it was learned by a check of the records. The number sold throughout the county could not be learned today, but it is thought that the sale this year is not as large as it was last for a corresponding time.

The sale is expected to show a decided increase since the open season for game begins tomorrow.

Before Mayor On Charge Drunkness

"Mr. Mayor, I thank you," said C. Columbus Hodges when Mayor R. L. Coburn sentenced him to jail for two days for being drunk on the streets here this week. And "Skibby" vouched for his sobriety from now until January 1 when the court threatened him with a road sentence. Hodges was required to pay the costs of the case and settle the jail fees.

Many Rattlesnakes Killed in County

Rattlesnakes in certain sections of this county are becoming so numerous that it is no uncommon thing to see one crawling along the public roads. Recently Mr. N. R. Roberson ran over one on the Hardison Mill road near here. The snake was not badly hurt by the car's weight, and Mr. Roberson used a stick and killed it. Tuesday morning Mrs. Arnold Roberson was traveling the same road and ran over one of the reptiles having 11 rattles. She was afraid to fight the snake, but others arriving at the scene killed it. Several reasons have been advanced for the unusually large number of snakes in that section, one of them being that the snakes have the woods all to themselves since the fence laws were passed.

Announce Services for Poplar Chapel Sunday

Rev. J. H. Hale will preach tomorrow night, Sunday morning and Sunday night at the Poplar Chapel Christian Church, it was announced yesterday. The public is cordially invited to attend any or all three of the services, and a large attendance is urged.

Former County Citizen Dies in Pennsylvania

Charles Grimshaw, a former resident of this county, died a few days ago at his home in Malvern, Pennsylvania. Mr. Grimshaw during his residence in this county lived on a farm near Jamesville where he erected a modern home and equipped his farm for stockraising. He left the county 40 years ago and made his home in the Pennsylvania town. He is remembered by many of the older people in the Jamesville section who regarded him as a splendid citizen.

In Town Yesterday

Mr. Edmondson, of Hassells, was in town yesterday. The mountain section of western North Carolina is destined to become one of the great dairy regions of the United States. Slowly and surely the farmers of that section are bringing this to pass.

In Norfolk Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Martin spent yesterday in Norfolk.
