Obscenity in the Name of Science

The Brooklyn jury did a good thing when it convicted the 53-year-old woman for sending obscene matter through the mail.

The government attorney offered no testimony except reading the 24-page pamphlet to the jury. The trial was before a Federal jury in the district court of Brooklyn, New York.

The woman offered as her defense the fact that Y. M. C. A. Classes and church societies were using her book. It also developed that the head of the department of psychology of the Oklahoma Baptist University had been using a similar book. Also it was found that some of the student body of the Missouri University were circulating the same type of literature.

One of the most vicious as well as foolish things the people are doing these days is the circulating of too much sex literature. The advocates of this dangerous foolishness claim it is in the interest of science. With all modesty destroyed and much of the purity of the boys and girls lost, what will science profit us? Would it not be better to retain our virtue than to know all science?

There is nothing more disgusting than the ideas taught in many of these college questionnaires in the name of science, and they are just as destructive as they are foolish.

"Go Work Today in the Vineyard"

"Son, go to work today in the vineyard," was the text of Rev. F. H. Craighill, who preached the baccalaureate sermon to the Williamston Graded School Sunday. The sermon was noted for its simple plain expressions of truth. It should mean much to the young folks to whom he was speaking. He explained to them that God was saying to them, today, "Go, work in the world," and that any honorable work was God's work. The farmer who feeds the multitudes is a servant of God, as well as the preacher who stands in the pulpit. The merchant who exchanges the commodities, the man who converts the raw products of the mine into useful articles for others are all servants of God so long as they do their work honorably and faithfully. The lawyer also serves a worthy purpose in helping to establish law and order, which were two of the first things required of man. Also the doctor and the nurse are God's servants, because ministering to the sick was one of the great works of the Master when He was among men. The teacher was also likened to Christ, who was the great teacher, teaching men and women the better ways of life, which is exactly what teachers are trying to do in this day.

Every boy and girl who is to receive his or her diploma this week will do well to remember the text, "Son, go to work today in the vineyard."

Should each of the dozen graduates who heard the sermon heed it, with faithful effort, they will succeed perhaps beyond their own expectations; but if they move along lines of least resistance, most of them will wind up life without much effect, and little will be spoken or written to link their names in a large way with the history of the town and county.

No better slogan can be chosen by a young man or a young woman than "Work today."

Helping the Farmer

This is the week set apart in Washington to help the farmer with farm legislation. But our advice to the farmer is not to wait for legislation to help him. The fellows elected to Congress last fall have almost forgotten what they promised and are now engaged in finding some good stories for the next campaign.

An evidence of this condition happened last week when the Democratic leader and Republican leader "swapped" sides and each took the opposite side from the one he espoused last year.

Don't trust to politicians for your living—if you do, you will die poor.

Going to Church

The Raleigh preacher scored a good point in his Sunday sermon when he said that no Christian can be true to his own conscience who deliberately refrains from attendance upon public worship.

He pointed to the fact that the radio sermon would not suffice. Though the preacher may preach with eloquence and truth, the hearer is not helping who listens in and fails to offer his presence and prayer.

Churches are places where men and women go to serve, and the man who simply "listens in" is being served, which controverts the whole principle of worship, unless they are unable to appear in the public service.

Those who are unable to attend services can truly worship at home. We also find another class of beings who are very religious in their own minds, who think the church service is rather too small for them, and because it does not exactly fit their own fancy they prefer to go out among the trees and rivers, where they can worship in their own individual self-willed perfect way. Such an example was given last year in the discussion between Edgar A. Guest and W. O. Saunders. Possibly one of our greatest weaknesses today is our failure to attend and participate in church services. The church has always, is now, and will ever be made up of people. Every man who stays away from church weakens Christianity. Though he man who stays away and offers no excuse is more to be praised than the fellow who stays away and then attempts to justify himself by belittling the church and glorifying himself.

A Good Beginning

The Williamston clean-up campaign went over with considerable success, and it should be only a beginning of what we should achieve within the next five years. We need more flowers and more grass and fewer weeds in town. Let last week be the beginning and the coming years the real fruition of the campaign.

Senator Heflin

There is lots of good in Senator Heflin, but he is not doing things which we specially admire. We are not going to call him a fool, however. In fact, we are not going to call him anything.

which gets the dirt from middle of the row and makes a perfect ridge without cutting off your feed roots. It has proved that hilling tobacco in this way has made a gain from $25 to $50 per acre.

For you know: When you side your tobacco the last times the feed roots are cut off, which checks the growth for a few days. During this time new feed roots are formed, which really causes a second growth. This second growth causes your tobacco to grow boy and thin. If the feed roots are not cut off, your tobacco will thicken as it spreads and make a better quality of tobacco.

 Mr. Hyman Warren, Agent,
 Robertsonville, N. C.
 Dear sir:
 I have used the Improved Fowler Cultivator about twelve years for laying-by tobacco, cotton, corn, and other crops. Also for hilling up sweet potatoes. I consider it one of the most useful and satisfactory cultivators I have ever used and would not be without it for many times the price.

Yours very truly,

LADY'S SUFFERING
 She Writes That "A Friend Told Me to Take Cardui and I Know It Helped Me."

Greenville, Miss.—In describing how she suffered several years ago, Mrs. Mattie Dalton, of 213 Walnut Street, this city, recently wrote:

"I would cramp, and my hands and feet would draw, so I came near having convulsions. I would have to stay in bed a week, and when I would get up, I just dragged around, and did not feel like doing my work. I suffered a great deal with my back."

"A friend came to see me and say how I suffered. She told me to try taking Cardui, which I did. I seemed to have more strength, after my first bottle. After I had taken about four bottles of Cardui, I saw a great improvement."

"I quit having such bad spells, and was stronger and better than in a long time. I gained in weight. I took a few more bottles of Cardui, and felt so well that I quit taking it."

"I certainly can recommend Cardui, for I know what it is to suffer, and I know that Cardui has helped me."

Thousands of women have written to tell of the benefit Cardui has been to them, in helping them to build up their health.
