

SELL YOUR TOBACCO IN WILLIAMSTON

Market Opens Sept. 1st

Make Preparations to Sell Your FIRST LOAD On Your Local Market

The Williamston Tobacco Market will open Tuesday, September 1, and the Roanoke-Dixie, Farmers, and Planters Warehouses will be open and ready to serve the farmers and tobacco growers of Martin and adjoining counties. The personnel of the three Williamston warehouses is as good this year as at any time in the history of the market, and tobacco grown in this immediate section should be sold on the Williamston market. It saves time and money.

With Messrs. Meadows and Berger at the Roanoke-Dixie, Messrs. Barnhill, Ingram and Meador at the Farmers, and Messrs. Griffin, Taylor, and Griffin at the Planters, you have every assurance that your interests will be worked for when selling on the Williamston market. Even though tobacco may sell low, they will do everything in their power to get you the high dollar for your tobacco.

9 Good Reasons Why You Should Sell on the Williamston Market

1. Williamston prices are always as high or higher than you get elsewhere.
2. All large tobacco companies are represented by their own buyers on the Williamston market.
3. Williamston buyers will have the same price limits as buyers on other Eastern Carolina markets.
4. There is plenty of floor space to assure you of a clean-up sale every day.
5. Warehousemen and buyers take plenty of time and sell each pile of tobacco on its merits.
6. The Williamston market has competent and experienced warehousemen.
7. It saves you time and money to market your tobacco in Williamston.
8. Keep warehouse commissions in your own county and help reduce your own tax rates.
9. Help our county to grow, and thus make greater prosperity for all, including your own self.
